CANNON SURE OF PARTY'S SUCCESS.

Thinks Republicans Can Go Safely to Polls on Their Achievements in Congress.

FUND MAY BE CUT DOWN.

Corporations Not Expected to "Pungle Up"; President Promises to Take the Stump.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—[Special.]—That republican control of the house of representatives of the sixtieth congress is to be determined at the November elections is the confident expectation of President Roosevelt, Speaker Cannon, and other leaders of the party in power.

Democratic control is the hopeful conviction of Minority Leader Williams, Chairman Griggs of the democratic congressional campaign committee, and their followers.

The republicans base their expectations for continued preference on the record they made during the session just past.

The democrats are relying on the failure of the republicans to revise the tariff—" the mother of the trusts "—on extravagance in appropriations, on the republican adoption of long established democratic principles in the legislation enacted, on corruption disclosed under a republican administration, part of which was unearthed by the interstate commerce commission in its investigation of the coal and oil situation, in accordance with a resolution of Senator Tillman and Representative Gillespie, two democrats, and finally on the discontent which prevails throughout the country.

One Pessimistic, Other Optimistic.

One party proposes to discuss the situation in the country optimistically, the other to paint it in a black color of pessimism. Before his departure for Oyster Bay on Saturday night President Roosevelt conferred with Speaker Cannon and Representative Sherman of New York, the latter is head of the republican campaign committee. The president does not expect the republicans to have as large a majority in the next house as they had in the last one. The majority then numbered 111, which Speaker Cannon found unwieldy, and which unquestionably was responsible for the "insurgent" demonstrations in connection with the statehood and other measures.

The president has promised that he and his cabinet members will make speeches during the campaign. Cannon has said he would do likewise.

The republicans expect to have some difficulty in getting funds, as the corporations are not likely to contribute to their purse in view of the way in which they attacked corporate wealth and the president's intimation in his " muck rake " speech that he would recommend legislation for the limitation of fortunes " swollen beyond all healthy limits."

Democrats to Be "Heeled."

The democrats, on the other hand, expect to have ample money. Representative Hearst alone is expected to make a liberal donation, particularly as his friend, Representative Griggs, is at the head of the campaign committee. It is current talk among politicians that as far as possible the campaign will be run in Hearst's interest.

Speaker Cannon fired the opening gun today in the republican campaign in an interview he gave to THE TRIBUNE correspondent, in which he revealed the lines along which his party would fight for supremacy.

"It would be wonderful," he admitted, in beginning the conversation, " if in the off year we could gain as great a majority as we did in the presidential year. I have been so busy during the session, which has been the most strenuous one in my recollection and the most successful one in its accomplishments, that I have not had time to inquire as to conditions in the different states and districts.

" But, with the most extraordinary material well being we have had in any year since the formation of the government, with a steadily growing population, with a public service necessarily rapidly increasing to enable the government to perform its functions, with revenues exhibiting such a condition of production and prosperity that we round out the year without additional taxation, notwithstanding our great expenditures, and with a surplus in the treasury of $26,000,000 after having met all our obligations—in view of these things I feel I can say there is no fear, so long as we continue our present economic and financial policy, that we will not have a continuance of the present material well being with a corresponding maintenance—if not increase—of our revenues."

Cannon, Comfortable, Talks.

" Uncle Joe " spoke with deliberate impressiveness, emphasizing every point by a gesture with his left hand, in which he held his steel rimmed spectacles. He was sitting in his office near the chamber of the house. For comfort he wore a thin alpaca coat, the sleeves of which he had rolled back from his wrists. He said he had not had time until today to digest the work of the last session.

" We have enacted more important legislation during the session just closed," he declared, " than has been enacted in any one session for more than thirty years. Much of it has not attracted public attention, but it has been well considered and will prove its value by its operation.

" That which in my judgment is good includes the consular reform law, which will improve our consular and also our diplomatic service; the pure food law, which under the leadership of Representative Mann of Illinois, has been conservative and at the same time will prove beneficial in its operations; the railroad rate legislation, which was thoroughly considered and wisely enacted, and the meat inspection law.

" Our meat products from a sanitary and every other standpoint, were better policed than the meat products of any other country on earth. Yet from here and there, on account of the want of the maintenance of sanitary regulation, came a demand from the people for better sanitary regulation. Efficient legislation was enacted in response to this demand and I have no doubt it will be wisely and conservatively enforced in a way that will give assurance to consumers as to the healthfulness of the goods they purchase. And all this, I am satisfied, will be accomplished with benefit, not only to the consumer, but as well to the producer of raw

RAID ON RESORTS BLOW AT TAGGART.

Gov. Hanly, in Star Play, Orders Sheriffs to Stop Wide Open Gambling at the Spas.

SUITS TO CLOSE HOTELS.

Petitions Entered While Officers Are Cleaning Out French Lick and West Baden Casinos.

French Lick, Ind., July 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Hanly today made his star play against " Tom " Taggart, chairman of the democratic national committee, by filing suits against and ordering raids upon the gambling resorts here and at West Baden.

While the raids were in progress and officers busy making arrests and confiscating fortune chasing apparatus, Attorney General Charles Miller, acting under instructions from Gov. Hanly, filed in the Orange county courts an action to revoke the charter of the French Lick Springs Hotel company, of which Taggart is president, and the West Baden Hotel company. The petition asks that the hotels be closed up and a receiver appointed for each.

Gambling Fraternity Dazed.

Gov. Hanly's action staggered the gambling fraternity here, which had no inkling of his intention until Sheriff Marks and a dozen deputies surrounded the resorts simultaneously, arrested the occupants of the casinos, confiscated the gambling paraphernalia in the name of the state, and closed the places pending the decision of the Circuit court.

The proceeding at two resorts did not occupy more than a few minutes, but when word of what had happened got out, hundreds of persons flocked to the two places and seemed completely dazed by the raids.

When the officers entered the casinos there was a considerable crowd present and several games were in progress. It was not unusual for officers of the law to drop in and look at the gambling in progress and their entrance did not excite suspicion till Sheriff Marks began to make arrests. Several guests tried to get out of the building, but were met by officers on the outside and it then dawned upon the management that the building had been surrounded.

Attorney General Directs Raiders.

All the gambling apparatus, consisting of roulette wheels, slot machines of every conceivable kind, faro tables, poker chips, and dozens of decks of cards, was confiscated. The apparatus was tagged and numbered by the officers, and several guests were summoned to appear in court as witnesses, while those engaged in gambling were placed under arrest.

Attorney General Miller personally superintended the raids and arrests. Only the officials and attendants at the casinos were held.

The suits against the hotel companies are based on the charges that they have allowed gambling to take place in the casinos in systematic violation of the law.

Children Tempted to Gamble.

After setting forth the value of the casinos devoted to gambling, Attorney General Miller declares that children between the ages of 10 and 18 years are permitted in the rooms, where " roulette tables and wheels and Klondike games, faro tables, and bookmakers' tables, and other gambling devices are kept, and where large sums of money are won and lost by people." The petition declares these children are permitted to mingle and associate with gamblers and bookmakers with the " permission and connivance " of the officers and employés of the casinos.

It is pointed out that the hotel company is in league with the lessees of the gambling house, the leases giving them the right to run and operate gambling devices of every character. The petition says that for this privilege a rental of $5,000 a year is paid.

Hotel Company Is Blamed.

The petition points out also that gambling in these resorts had been abetted and encouraged since the incorporation of the hotel companies until it became so flagrant and notorious as to bring " reproach and disgrace on the state," and that in 1905 the gambling was stopped only after the governor had started prosecution.

But it was merely a lull, for the petition asserts the casinos started to run wide open again in the spring of this year in defiance of the law until they have now become notorious throughout the country. The petition in conclusion says the resorts are now the rendezvous of gamblers and again have become the " humiliation and disgrace " of the state.

QUAKE SHAKES NEW MEXICO; PEOPLE IN STATE OF PANIC.

Severest Shocks in History of Oldest Residents Cause Terror in Region Southwest of Aubuquerque.

Albuquerque, N. M., July 3.—Beginning at 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning, Socorro, seventy-five miles south of this city, experienced a succession of the severest earthquakes within the memory of the people of this section.

There were two or three premonitory quivers. Then came a loud subterranean rumble, followed immediately by a rocking and swaying that awakened every inhabitant of the city and caused them to scurry into the streets for safety. Many of the native people fell upon their knees and prayed aloud for protection.

The disturbance continued severe at intervals of a few minutes for half an hour, then gradually died away, the last of no less than twenty distinct shocks being felt about eight hours later. No serious damage was done.

SEIZE BOMB MAKERS' PLANT.

Police at Seattle Raid House, Finding Material for Construction of Explosive Missiles.

Seattle, Wash., July 3.—After an investigation, begun at the instance of the German government, the local police yesterday raided a house formerly occupied by August Rosenberg, a German bricklayer, and found a plant equipped for making bombs and infernal machines. Rosenberg, who was known as a man of anarchistic tendencies, left Seattle for Hamburg, Germany, on May 1. At about that time the German government received a warning from Seattle that an attempt would be made to assassinate the German emperor.

THE ROWDY FOURTH.

BRYAN NOT AN ENTRY, YET.

"Sit on a Stool and Look Pretty" Two Long Years? No, Sir.

WEED OUT ASPIRANTS FIRST.

Says Friends Needn't Think Promises Binding; He Won't Sue.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 3.—William Jennings Bryan will not sue for promise the enthusiastic state conventions which indorsed him for president in 1908 if, in the intervening two years, they experience a change of heart. Neither will he announce his candidacy, nor admit its certainty, until the political horizon is clearer and the democratic party completes the process of elimination.

In brief, Mr. Bryan does not want " to sit on a stool and look pretty " for two long years. These things he said in a statement soon after his arrival in London today. It was issued to appease the curiosity of an army of newspaper men who besieged him at the Hotel Cecil.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan arrived from Norway at Newcastle yesterday, remaining there over the day in order that Mr. Bryan might complete quietly some writing. Arriving in London today, they went direct to the Cecil, where Mr. Bryan immediately was besieged by callers, among the first being John Burns, William T. Stead, and Mrs. Stead. With Messrs. Burns and Stead Mr. Bryan had a long and animated discussion on economics and social and labor questions.

Gives His Views on Candidacy.

Mr. Bryan found awaiting him here an enormous mass of cable dispatches and letters urging him to declare his position on urgent public questions in America and to begin his active presidential campaign at the reception on his arrival in New York in August. After reading these he gave out this statement to the newspaper men:

" The first suggestion of a reception for me at New York came prior to the action of any of the state conventions and before there was any discussion of the next campaign. It came from the Commercial Travelers' league, of which Mr. Hoge is president. I assured him I should be pleased to meet the members of the league, suggesting that the reception be characterized by simplicity. Now that the actions of some of the state conventions have raised a question as to the political significance of the reception, I am glad to say that it must not be regarded in the light of an indorsement for the presidential nomination.

" While I appreciate the compliment paid by the various state conventions, I do not regard their expressions as binding upon them or upon the party of their state. I shall not prosecute them for breach of promise if they transfer their affections to another; I will not even publish their letters. To allow the reception to be regarded as an indorsement would, in the first place, be unjust to others who may be candidates.

Wants No Rivalry to Mar Choice.

" I have seen the names of several mentioned as possible candidates, among them Congressman Hearst, Senator Bailey, and Gov. Folk, who all have rendered conspicuous service to the party and to the country, and their claims should be considered. The party is entitled to its most available man, and the question of availability cannot be determined so far in advance.

" Circumstances and issues may strengthen the claims of some one of the gentlemen mentioned, and the list should be an open one until the time comes to choose.

" I may add that it would not be just to me to be put in the attitude of announcing my candidacy or admitting the certainty of my being a candidate. It is two years before the convention meets, and I am not willing to sit on a stool and look pretty that long. I prefer to be in a position to say what I think ought to be said, write what I think ought to be written, and do what I think ought to be done. I am advancing in years and cannot spare two years out of my life just at this time.

Leaves Friends Free to Change.

" I shall be glad to return to America, although every day of my trip has been enjoyable. I shall be glad to meet my friends in America, and after I have met them they will be just as free as before to do what they think best on issues and candidates."

When told that Mayor George B. McClellan was in London, Mr. Bryan said he had not heard he was here. He expressed his gratification that Mr. McClellan had escaped from the wreck at Salisbury and said he hoped to meet him.

Mr. Bryan will speak at the American society dinner tomorrow night. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will spend the week end with Ambassador and Mrs. Reid at Wrest Park, and then will go to Italy, returning here July 23, when Mr. Bryan will attend the interparliamentary conference. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will then make a tour of Scotland, going thence to France and Spain.

Going Abroad to Advise Bryan.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 3.—[Special.]—M. E. Dunlap, wife, and daughter departed tonight for New York, where they will sail on the steamer Lucania on Saturday for Liverpool. Dunlap will meet W. J. Bryan in Paris, where a conference will take place. Dunlap declared tonight the invitation from Bryan to meet him was on account of close personal friendship of many years' standing. But it was at Dunlap's house in Jacksonville that the coup was planned in June, 1896, that took the democratic convention by storm and won the nomination for Bryan. Bryan has great confidence in Dunlap's judgment and no doubt will give great weight to what he has to say regarding the political situation in this country.

Fight On Over Reception.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—As a result of the rivalry between Bryan reception committees there was a conference this evening at the Waldorf-Astoria between William Hoge, Harry W. Walker, Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland, and Alexander Troup, Connecticut, representing the committee in charge of the New York reception, and Col. M. C. Wetmore, St. Louis, and Senator William J. Stone, Missouri, who want the Bryan homecoming celebration to take place in Lincoln.

Senator Stone, whose political machine in Missouri was broken up by Gov. Folk, objected to the plan of the New York men to invite Mr. Folk to make a speech of welcome at the reception. The conference separated without agreement.

Col. Wetmore will sail for England tomorrow on the Baltic to tell Mr. Bryan it will not be to his interest to pass through New York, as a bitter fight for the governorship of the state is on and if he delays his return until after the fall election there will be less chance of his boom becoming stale.

North Carolina for Bryan.

Greensboro, N. C., July 3.—The democratic state convention today indorsed William J. Bryan for president.

LAWLESS FOURTH BEGINS AT NIGHT

Cannon Crackers and Revolvers Usher In Nation's Anniversary Without Police Interference.

ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED

"Joker" Throws Explosive from Office Building Window and Boy Is Burned; Speeding Autos Targets.

FAIR WEATHER FOR TODAY.

The official forecast for today indicates that fourth of July in Chicago will be cool and fair. Light to fresh northerly winds will prevail.

The cannon cracker and its various gunpowder relations began their fourth of July celebration at an early hour last evening. In various parts of the city, especially in the downtown district, the rattle of the " artillery " was incessant, with little or no check put on it by the police.

Occasional arrests were made here and there, but thousands of blasts from cannon crackers were heard downtown until an early morning hour. The Oak Park ordinance is more drastic and was enforced, according to reports, with greater energy.

Speeding Autos Are Targets.

A large number of the cannon cracker zealots in the downtown district matched their enthusiasm against that of speeding automobilists, and shied their powder magazines under the wheels of the big cars which whizzed along Jackson and Michigan boulevards and elsewhere in disregard of the law.

This cannon cracker sport added a new thrill to the joy of fast riding when one of the big firecrackers would explode directly under the body of an automobile.

Some of the speeding lawbreaking motorists expressed great indignation at the lawless " patriots " who lined the streets.

The hospitals are preparing for a land office business with injuries from fireworks today. The list of ante-Fourth injuries was increased by four names last night.

The Injured.

HERNITSKI, JOSEPH, 12 years old, 8531 Superior avenue, injured while exploding torpedo caps with torpedo cane; legs burned badly. In order to produce louder report boy placed two caps in cane. The force broke iron strike plate and shattered cane.

JOHNSON, HENRY, 16 years old, 646 North Rockwell street; two fingers shot off left hand by cannon cracker. Was firing the explosives in street near his home.

SCOTT, MRS. MARGARET, 49 years old, 34 Twenty-sixth place; struck by stray bullet fired by unidentified person while she with neighbors was standing at the front of her house. Bullet struck her in left arm. She was taken to Provident hospital, and after having bullet extracted she returned home.

SUSRALSKI, JOHN, 735 Holt avenue, 72 years old, while working in rear of 736 West Division street, struck in cheek by recoiling toy cannon. Boy who fired cannon was Leo Culk.

ZINKEI, WILLIAM, 14 years old, 553 Hastings street; face burned by powder in cannon cracker thrown by unknown person from window in Marquette building while Zinkel was passing in Adams street.

New Arrests Reported.

The sporadic activity of the police resulted in a number of arrests, as follows:

Freeland, Emil, 16 years old, 479 West Huron street; arrested on charge of discharging revolver in front of his home.

Gouzala, Steven, 19 years old, 179 West Erie street; arrested for discharging revolver within the city limits.

Kuger, Radif; arrested in South Chicago for revolver shooting in violation of Mayor Dunne's proclamation. With him at the time was Wadiflaw Walean, 8916 Green Bay avenue, who also was arrested. They were at Ninety-second street and Erie avenue and had frightened pedestrians by promiscuous firing of blank cartridges.

Lubeck, Arthur, 1960 Wellington street, Chicago; arrested in front of Kenton hotel, Oak Park, charged with discharging firecrackers in violation of village ordinance.

Novert, Paul; arrested by Oak Park police for discharging firecrackers near 300 Home avenue. He came from Sweden recently and could not speak English well enough for police to obtain his address.

Reiger, Gus; arrested for shooting revolver in West Lake street, near Ashland avenue.

Swahn, Samuel, 17 years old, 317 Home avenue, Oak Park; arrested near his home for discharging packages of firecrackers.

Woods, Stephen, 17 years old, porter employed at Academy hotel, Fifth avenue and Madison street; arrested on fire escape where he had climbed in effort to escape arrest. While at La Salle and Madison streets he had discharged a revolver several times, frightening women and children.

Throws Crackers at Firemen.

A Fourth of July enthusiast temporarily stopped the work of firemen at 1 a. m. at the building at 199-201 Van Buren street, when he threw a series of firecrackers at men carrying hose up a ladder. The firemen thought the noise was caused by explosions in the building and stopped until the cause had been learned. The loss on the structure, which is four stories high, was $20,000. The building was occupied by these firms: A. Meisser & Son, hats and caps; Ozark Garment company; American Reflector and Lighting company. The flames gave the firemen a hard battle, but they were able to keep them from spreading to adjoining structures. It was the only fire of consequence reported up to 3:30 a. m.

Collins Optimistic to the Last.

In the afternoon, before the real bombardment began, Chief Collins was optimistic. He thought it would be the quietest and least dangerous celebration of the holiday in Chicago for a great many years. Nevertheless, he prayed for a steady, all day's rain.

" It is impossible to tell what the morrow will bring forth," said the chief, " but I am hopeful. Up to the present time it has been the quietest precelebration we have had for years."

" For twenty years," echoed Secretary Markham.

" The mayor's proclamation," continued Chief Collins, " has been generally obeyed. Dealers have in a few instances violated its provisions by selling blank cartridges to children, but the inspectors tell me that it is impossible for them to buy toy pistols or dynamite firecrackers more than five inches in length. If parents will be vigilant and supplement the efforts of the police, Young Chicago will pass through the ordeal comparatively unscathed."

Chief Collins received several communications from relatives and friends of invalids

CASTELLANE IS CAST OUT.

Chamber of Deputies Annuls His Election on Bribery Charge.

BONI DENIES HE IS GUILTY.

Says He Could Have Disproved Accusations but Feared the Limelight.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1906: By the New York Herald.]

PARIS, July 3.—Despite a protest from the count the French chamber of deputies today by 253 votes against 221 decided to invalidate the election of Count Boni de Castellane, husband of Anna Gould, as the deputy for the Basses Alpes.

The commission to which the election was referred recommended its validation, but M. Regnier demanded a public debate. He declared that Count Castellane has a reputation for sowing money broadcast, in support of which statement he produced several attestations made by electors. M. Regnier alleged Count Boni introduced a new system of corruption. He sent postal orders to the homes of electors and in these conditions it was difficult to secure evidence of bribery. In conclusion M. Regnier alleged clerical interference and a campaign of false news.

" In 1902," he added, " Count Castellane called his then opponent a Prussian and this year resorted to similar tactics."

Boni Makes Vigorous Defense.

The count made a spirited speech in his own defense. He said:

" It has also been written that I am the grandson of a Prussian and an uncle of future Prussian officers. I ask the chamber to validate my election. The validation has been recommended unanimously by the subcommission. The clergy never interfered in my election. The corruption alleged has been recognized to be unfounded. If there has been corruption it has been the act of my opponent.

" A press campaign has been referred to. It was carried on against me at a time when I was struggling with ' great and painful family difficulties.' References such as I cannot repeat have been made to persons belonging to my family. I would have taken notice of them in another manner had I not feared to bring myself into prominent notice at such a time. This is the fourth time I have been elected in the same division. Consequently the electors desire to have me as their representative."

The chamber thought otherwise, and by a majority of 32 votes invalidated the election.

Center of Many Scandals.

Count Castellane has for a long time furnished the subject for much gossip in Paris and was first brought into prominence in America by his marriage to Miss Anna Gould, who brought him the millions which won for him two terms in the chamber and even caused him to be talked of as a possible candidate for the French presidency.

He again was brought into the limelight, when, in 1906, his wife left their home in Paris and filed her first petition for absolute divorce, charging the count with infidelity. The suit is now pending.

How the French aristocracy regards Count Castellane in his actions is best shown by the fact that when he offered himself as a member of the Jockey club he was " pilled " by the largest number of black balls ever received by one man.

ADVICE TO PATRIOTS.

BY HEALTH COM'R. WHALEN.

Use baking powder or oil on minor burns before a doctor arrives.

Don't get close to powder about to be fired.

Use antitetanic serum on bad wounds which may cause tetanus germs to thrive.

If the hands or feet are blown off stop the severed artery by the pressure of a knot in a handkerchief.

Above all, be careful in the use of fireworks.

The tetanus germ which causes lockjaw comes in the powder or the ammunition in blank cartridges, and is the most deadly poison known. The germ is harmless when exposed to the air. Therefore do not bind a wound.

If a dress catches fire smother it at once by rolling a coat, a quilt, or anything handy about it, but do not allow the burning person to run and fan the blaze.

who desired police protection during the day.

"My husband has been ill for three years," said Mrs. James Johnson, wife of a physician at 797 North Washtenaw avenue. "Can't we have a policeman to drive away the boys who shoot off their explosives near the house? The noise will kill him. Last year two or three policemen had to be called to drive the boys away."

The complaint was referred to the inspector of that district.

With 150 policemen assigned to protect the hospitals against noise, Chief Collins regretted that he could not furnish guards for private houses.

Thousands Flee from City.

There was the usual flight from the city last night by those persons who are anxious to escape the fourth of July noise. Excursion steamers and trains for Michigan and Wisconsin resorts were crowded to their capacity. Thousands more leave this morning. Many others who do not feel that they can afford the luxury of a lake trip will pack their baskets and hie themselves to the parks—there'll be a band concert at Lincoln park—or into the country by the suburban trolley car.

Where Celebrations Will Be Held.

Of the celebrations planned in nearby towns, Evanston will have the largest. There will be a military and industrial parade at 10 a. m., in which soldiers from Fort Sheridan will participate. Mayor Barker and others will address the citizens in the afternoon.

In Wilmette, there will be a display of fireworks at the Country club, under direction of professionals. A similar cautious plan has been adopted by residents of Irving Park, where speeches also will be a feature.

At the University of Chicago, Prof. F. W. Shepardson will deliver an address on the "American Ideals of Liberty" at Mandel hall.

The thirteenth annual celebration by the residents of Bryn Mawr will be held in that community. Frank P. Sadler will speak.

At the Colonial club, 4445 Grand boulevard, there will be an address, in the open air, by Col. Clarke E. Carr of Galesburg on "Lincoln at Gettysburg."

Citizens of Highwood, Highland Park, Waukegan, and Lake Forest have been invited to attend a celebration at Fort Sheridan.

CHOLERA STRIKES MANY IN MANILA.

100 Laid Low by Plague by Awful Epidemic Since Last Thursday.

PINOS MOST SUSCEPTIBLE.

Twenty-one Cases with Sixteen Deaths Are Reported in One Day.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, July 3.—A virulent epidemic of cholera has broken out. It threatens to be worse than any epidemic since American occupation.

One hundred deaths have occurred in Manila since last Thursday. Two victims were Americans, one named Charles Sheehan.

The board of health is concentrating its efforts to prevent a spread of the disease to the provinces, where no restrictions are observed.

A majority of the victims in Manila were found dead. No notification of their illness had been given, as the natives do not coöperate with the inspectors. By refusing to give notification of the presence of disease they hope to escape fumigation and quarantine.

Detachments of troops vested with police powers are guarding Manila's water front.

A servant of Gov. Gen. Ide was found suffering from the disease in the palace. He was removed to a hospital and is recovering.

Twenty-one cases and sixteen deaths were reported today. The provinces report twenty-six cases and twenty-five deaths.

Soldier Dead from Cholera.

The suburbs near Fort McKinley have been quarantined. There has been one death from cholera among the soldiers—Christian G. Dwight of company C, Sixteenth infantry. The health bureau is taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease.

A circular has been distributed among the citizens, warning them of the danger and requiring that precautions be taken.

Though the situation is serious the health officials do not look for an epidemic. The greatest difficulty is experienced in getting natives to report cases of sickness. The Filipinos fear the health officials and are concealing cases from them. To this cause is assigned the spread of the disease.

The first national salute to include Oklahoma was fired at the Luneta at midnight, July 3.

The advent of the fourth of July was celebrated by the release of sixty-eight men who are charged with outlawry and were serving sentences in Bilibid prison.

Filipinos Cholera's Victims.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The last complete monthly health report from the Philippines which the bureau of insular affairs received was for December, 1905. This report, which was made by Dr. Victor G. Heiser, director of health, says eight deaths from cholera were registered in that month in Manila, all the victims being Filipinos. In discussing cholera in other provinces, Dr. Heiser says:

"This disease at present is confined to the provinces of La Guna, Cavite, Bulacan, and Pampanga. In Tanauan, Batangas, after an outbreak of seven cases, resulting in four deaths, it has been eradicated. In the province of Rizal it is decreasing at present. In Hagonoy, Bulacan, there occurred a serious outbreak and a sanitary inspector was sent there by this bureau to coöperate with the local officers in combating the disease, which was finally brought under control."

The deaths from cholera reported were 290 out of a total of 387 cases. The greatest number of deaths was in Cavite—113. Bulacan province came second, with 80 deaths.

Population Is Decimated.

During the epidemic of 1902 the population of many of the towns were heavily reduced through deaths and the flight of the panic stricken people. Many of the dead were left unburied for days in spite of energetic steps taken by the government.

Surgeons and medicines were sent to all parts of the islands and the natives were compelled to adopt sanitary precautions. In Iloilo, island of Panay, alone, 5,124 cases and 2,740 deaths were reported up to Sept. 30, 1902. This was the highest record for any one district since the outbreak and exceeded the total of Manila and many of the provinces.

The town of Miago, in the province of Iloilo, was the worst sufferer, for 1,173 cases were reported there in 1902. The people in many districts at that time were fleeing to the mountains, leaving the sick and dying uncared for and the dead unburied. Additional doctors and further supplies of medicines were hurried to Iloilo, and eventually the authorities succeeded in controlling the situation.

Taft Stamps It Almost Out.

Gov. Taft announced on Oct. 30, 1902, that cholera had practically disappeared from Luzon and that in Manila there had been only an average of two cases a day for ten days previous. Twenty other provinces were practically free from the disease.

Cholera, in a slight form, is epidemic in the Philippines almost every year, but the sanitary education of the natives by the American authorities is gradually alleviating the conditions and the precautions taken by the medical authorities, based on past experiences, are regarded as being equal to any strain which may be placed upon them.

CHICAGOAN WARNS OF CIGARET.

Edward Page Gaston Tells Britons It Is Worst Article America Sends Abroad.

LONDON, July 3.—Edward Page Gaston of Chicago testified today before the select committee of the house of lords on juvenile smoking that the worst article America sent to Great Britain was the American cigaret.

"It is worse," he said, "than Chicago tinned meat."

Mr. Gaston also warned British legislators against attempts at bribery on the part of the American tobacco trust in order to balk unfriendly legislation.

Earl Beauchamp, chairman of the committee, closely questioned Mr. Gaston regarding the effect of the American laws against the sale of tobacco to minors and he stated that nearly one-fourth of the population of the United States now benefited through living under anti-cigaret legislation.

The proposed British bill, which probably will receive the indorsement of the house of lords committee, provides for a fine of $5 for the first offense in supplying tobacco to minors, $10 for a second offense, and the revocation of the offender's license on a third conviction.

LANSDOWNE CRITICISES CONGO.

Declares Condition of Free State Could Not Be Worse than It Is at Present.

LONDON, July 3.—In the house of lords today the question of the Congo Independent state was discussed. Lord Lansdowne said the attitude of the state had been unsatisfactory throughout and never could be more unsatisfactory than now. He could scarcely believe, he said, that the powers would acquiesce in the claim of the sovereignty of the Congo Independent state in the shape it has been most recently presented. Nothing could be more humiliating to European nations.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

LONDON—The collection of relics of Gen. Lafayette, exhibited at the Chicago Exhibition in 1893, was sold at auction at Christie's for $27,000. The purchaser was a Londoner, named Jackman.

DURBAN—Further fighting between the rebel natives and the British columns occurred. Three hundred and fifty natives were killed, but the main force, numbering 8,000, is still at large.

Charges Husband with Plot to Defame Her Character to Secure Divorce Decree.

MRS AUGUSTUS HARTJE

The letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Augustus Hartje to her coachman, and on the strength of which her husband brought suit for divorce, were declared by her on the witness stand yesterday to be forgeries and part of a plot to defame her character in order to secure a divorce decree. Several prominent citizens of Pittsburg are alleged to be parties to the conspiracy.

CZAR'S TROOPS TRAITORS.

LEAGUE DISCOVERED IN ARMY THAT URGES ON MUTINIES.

Seal of Organization and Documents Showing Its Purpose Are Found, and All Doubt of Disaffection of Soldiers Is Removed—Police Shoot Down Women and Children During Agrarian Disorders — Czar Urges Passage of His Land Bill.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 3.—All doubt of the existence of an organized military revolutionary league, which is inspiring mutinies and uprisings in the army, has been set at rest by the discovery of the seal and documents of the organization during a search of soldiers attached to staff headquarters at Vilna, who were detailed to various regiments of the Third corps.

War Minister Rudiger has ordered a strict investigation of all detachments of troops to determine the extent of the revolutionary propaganda and the best methods of counteracting it. Martial law was proclaimed today at Odessa on account of the ferment among the troops.

The ministry of war has received telegrams to the effect that a serious mutiny has broken out in the Second and Third battalions of the tirailleurs, and the First railroad battalion at Askabad.

Women and Children Slain.

Agrarian disorders continue in the central and southern provinces. A desperate encounter took place between the police and a crowd at a public garden in Tulla. Many women and children were among the victims. At Matviefka there was a regular engagement between Cossacks and peasants, in which several persons were killed or wounded.

The administrative and the parliamentary views of the Bialystok excesses were published tonight, the first in the report of Baron Frisch, president of the council of the empire, to Minister of the Interior Stolypin, which was published in the Official Messenger, and the latter in the report of the parliamentary commission. Though they differ in many important respects they unite in holding certain officials, or at least the interior police officials, guilty of inciting and participating in the excesses.

It is significant that Shiremetieff, prefect of police of Bialystok, has been summoned to St. Petersburg.

Agrarian Bill Is Submitted.

The government's agrarian bill finally has been approved, as introduced in the lower house of parliament and published in the Official Messenger, accompanied by a proclamation to the peasants glorifying the emperor's constant solicitude for them.

It attempts to show that the realization of socialistic schemes for the nationalization of the lands—with which the country has been deluded—instead of improving the lot of the peasants, would result in inevitable misery, as the distribution of all the arable state lands in European Russia would give each peasant less than one additional deciatine. This, it is argued, would be subject to constant diminution, owing to increases in the population. Besides, it would deprive the peasants of the opportunity of obtaining work from the landlords, from whom a large percentage of their income is derived.

Expropriation Is Denied.

After reviewing many acts of the Russian emperor for the benefit of the peasants, like the emancipation of the serfs and the establishment of peasant banks, the statement solemnly denies that the government is proposing expropriation in the interests of the landlords, who, it says, could convert their land into cash. The statement concludes with an expression of the vital necessity of maintaining the rights of property as being the foundation of the state, present and future.

More Warsaw Police Killed.

WARSAW, Russian Poland, July 3.—The terrorists' determination to exterminate the police force shows no signs of wavering. Before noon today two more police sergeants were added to the already long death roll. Both men were shot and killed in the streets. In each case the assassins escaped.

Another policeman was killed this evening. A patrol which hurried to the scene of the killing fired a volley, which slew a passerby.

Every policeman has been withdrawn from the streets.

GET RICH? SAVE DIAMONDS

"SPARKLERS" GETTING DEARER EVERY DAY, DEALERS SAY.

Mines Running Out, Price Soars 25 Per Cent in Two Years, and Stones Are Becoming More Difficult to Obtain — Emeralds Advance 50 Per Cent—Pearls and Rubies Are Also Becoming Prohibitive to the Average Purse.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 3.—The upward trend in the prices of diamonds and other precious stones in the last few years has been so considerable that it is no exaggeration to say if the tendency of prices to advance continues there will be, twenty-five years hence, as much locked up capital in a diamond necklace as in the average industrial corporation today and precious stones will be beyond the reach of all but the richest of the rich.

Diamonds have increased in price 25 per cent in two years and it is expected they will increase another 25 per cent in the next two years. Several of the largest firms and dealers steadily have been buying all the stones they could procure to secure themselves against the coming rise.

Find Difficulty in Buying.

The manager of one of the associations of diamond merchants says the association's stock is now worth nearly $2,000,000 and it is still buying, but it is exceedingly difficult to obtain stones.

It is first necessary to get an introduction to the syndicate which controls the South African market; then the buyer has to wait in turn, probably six months. He goes to the offices of the syndicate on the appointed day and is shown a parcel of diamonds, but there is no bargaining. He must pay the syndicate's price or go without the diamonds.

Mines Are Less Productive.

One buyer lately asked for time to consult with his partner before accepting a parcel valued at $500,000. When he returned he found the stones had been sold. Buyers have been offered $5,000 for their turn and have refused the offer.

The reason for the rise in prices is that the mines are becoming less productive, although they are producing finer, whiter and more brilliant stones. Pearls, rubies, and emeralds are soaring in the same way. Emeralds here have advanced 50 per cent in price.

FAMOUS CHURCH IS BURNED.

St. Michael's, in Hamburg, with All Its Treasures, Destroyed—Twenty Persons Missing.

HAMBURG, July 3.—St. Michael's church, one of the most interesting buildings in Hamburg, was destroyed by fire this afternoon.

Twenty persons are missing. The fire watchman, who lived in the steeple, sounded the electric alarm, but his retreat was cut off. Three workmen who were repairing the clock also perished, and thirty firemen were wounded, two of them dangerously.

The fire started in the steeple, where workmen were repairing the clock, and is supposed to have been due to carelessness. The conflagration spread rapidly and the steeple, which was 426 feet high, fell in less than forty minutes from the time the fire started.

After the church was in flames Dr. Brinkmann, director of the Museum of Art and Industry, with several officials, entered the edifice to save the gold and silver treasures, but only the smaller part of these were saved.

The flames later attacked houses in Englischeplanke, Poehmken, Venusberg, and Muehlen streets. The Schaarmarkt, which was a wooden building, burned rapidly. A small Baptist church was also destroyed. In all twelve houses were entirely destroyed, while more than twenty roofs or upper stories were burned.

The people of Hamburg deeply regret the loss of the church, which was one of the most prominent objects in the general view of the city.

MORE SENSATIONS IN HARTJE SUIT.

Coachman Declares Master Offered Him $2,500 to Shoot Man He Suspected.

'MARY' MYSTERY CLEARED

Madine Reveals Identity of Woman He Talked With Over Telephone.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—[Special.]—Sensational testimony again marked the hearing of the Hartje divorce case today.

Both Mrs. Hartje and the coachman, Tom Madine, declared under oath they had never seen the sensational letters alleged to have passed between them. Mrs. Hartje denounced them as forgeries. Madine denied there had ever existed between him and Mrs. Hartje any undue familiarity.

In the course of his testimony Madine declared that Mr. Hartje once offered him $2,500 to shoot a man of whom he was jealous and that on another occasion Hartje offered him $5,000 to swear he had seen Mrs. Hartje and Gross MacConnell alone in the house.

The name of the man Madine declared Hartje asked him to kill was given as Mr. Smith to shield his identity.

Coachman Asked to Slay?

"Mr. Hartje and I were driving when we met him," Madine testified, "and Mr. Hartje said to me: 'Tom, that —— has been trying to do me dirt ever since I've been married. I'll give you $2,500 if you shoot him.'

"At another time Mr. Hartje stopped me in Wood street. I crossed over, and he said: 'Tom, I'm in trouble, and I want you to help me. I will give you $5,000 if you will swear that you saw Mrs. Hartje and Gross MacConnell in the house alone.'

"I told him I had seen Gross MacConnell in the house only once, and that was when he was there and Mrs. Hartje was upstairs."

Madine's story consisted largely of denials of misconduct with Mrs. Hartje. He was asked to write such words as "but, don't, Tom Madine," and when he wrote Allouez Marron watched him closely and said: "Now write your natural hand," to which he replied that he had. What this writing disclosed is doubtful, as it is in the possession of Hartje's attorneys, Ferguson, Marron & Rodgers.

Madine Denies Familiarity.

Madine repeated the story as to his work about the Hartje premises, saying he was told by Mr. Hartje to do what Mrs. Hartje asked him. When he was in her room, he said, it was to fix window screens or do work of that character. He told of Hartje giving him $150 when he only owed him $80, and declared the "Mary" who he said telephoned him from the Castleman street house two or three times a day was a domestic named Dillon. This was brought out to show that the telephone messages he received were not from Mrs. Hartje. He denied talking over the telephone with Mrs. Hartje or having his picture taken for her.

Madine denied emphatically he had put his arms about Mrs. Hartje's waist while sitting on a kitchen table or at any other time. During his entire examination he never looked at Mrs. Hartje once.

Letters Branded Forgeries.

Mrs. Hartje denied every allegation made against her, and her husband's lawyers surprised everybody by refusing to cross examine her. Mrs. Hartje denied writing letters to Madine or giving him money other than for ordinary uses of her house. She denied Mrs. Thorn, sister of Mr. Hartje, had seen her in her stable with Madine, or that she paid his fare to Europe and saw him board the ship. She started to tell what Mr. Hartje gave her to run the house, but the court refused to permit that line of questioning.

Mrs. Hartje had previously admitted writing the first seven of the letters shown as evidence. She today reiterated this statement, saying:

"I wrote the first seven and the others I never wrote. I never saw them until at Mr. Swearingen's office."

The case was continued until Thursday morning.

Attorney Freeman called a Mr. Eagleson, who testified to arrangements being made between himself and three others, including Madine, to come back home from Europe on the Baltic. Eagleson said Madine had visited him at his New Jersey home and told him he was going to be sued, and wanted him to tell about their trip coming home together. He did not know what the suit was about, as he paid little attention to it until he was told he was wanted as a witness.

GETS DIVORCE TO WED AGAIN.

Nathan Appleton, World Famous Traveler, Given Decree—Will Make a Second Trial.

Boston, Mass., July 3.—[Special.]—Judge Fessenden today granted a divorce to Nathan Appleton from Jeanette M. Appleton for desertion. The case was uncontested. The Appletons were married in 1887 and Mrs. Appleton deserted her husband in 1889.

Mrs. Appleton was Jeanette M. Orington and belonged in Munich, Germany. Last December, after living apart from his wife for seventeen years, Capt. Appleton started proceedings to secure an absolute divorce.

As he is a member of aristocratic society not only of Boston and New York but of nearly every capital of Europe, a famous traveler and diplomat, his action created much surprise, and this increased to a sensation when it developed that the action was taken so that he could marry Miss Edith Russell Wills of Newburyport, who is considered there and in Boston as one of the most beautiful members of society. Capt. Appleton is 62 years old and Miss Wills is 32 years old.

DEUTSCHLAND IN LEAD.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINER REPORTS FIRST IN OCEAN RACE.

Marconigram Says That the Vessel Passed The Lizard Early This Morning—La Provence, the French Line's Competitor, Is Not Yet Heard From — Deutschland Should Arrive This Morning at Plymouth, England.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—The second race between the Deutschland, the fastest steamship between New York and Plymouth, and the new French liner La Provence apparently has been won by Deutschland, as it is far in the lead.

According to a cablegram received tonight the Deutschland passed The Lizard at 2:30 a. m. July 4.

The Deutschland is expected to reach Plymouth at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow. At a late hour tonight La Provence had not been heard from.

The liner Kroonland, arriving here today from Antwerp, was in wireless communication with both Deutschland and La Provence last Friday. Neither vessel gave its position, but the Kroonland at the time was in latitude 41.19 north, longitude 52.34 west.

Claims Lead of Fifty Miles.

Capt. Kaempf of the Deutschland said his ship was leading the Frenchman by fifty miles.

Capt. Alix of La Provence reported that he was gaining on the German competitor. He appears to be unable to overcome the lead of the Deutschland, which has 37,000 horsepower engines to 30,000 for La Provence. The Deutschland also had a start of an hour and thirty-five minutes from the pier and one hour and eleven minutes from the bar over the Frenchman.

Provence Won First Race.

In the first race between these ships La Provence beat Deutschland to the English channel by four hours. If the Deutschland arrives on time it will make the trip in approximately 5 days, 14 hours, 30 minutes. Its best eastern voyage, however, was made in 5 days, 7 hours, 38 minutes, when it averaged 23.36 knots an hour.

Those aboard the Hamburg-American liner claimed the French vessel had taken the shorter route, but this is denied by the officers of La Provence and the agents of the line.

The present race grows out of the fact that on the last eastward voyage, when La Provence and the Deutschland sailed the same day, the French liner was reported four hours ahead when the vessels passed the Lizard.

NO AGREEMENT BY RABBIS ON THE QUESTION OF SYNOD.

Three Solutions Offered at Indianapolis Convention, but Acceptance of Plan Does Not Seem in Sight.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—After three hours of debate in the convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis today, the rabbis were unable to agree on the synod question, which is the most important matter to come before the convention.

Over half of the attending rabbis spoke on the question and at the time of adjournment a positive decision was not in sight. Three solutions were offered, but no plan was received with sufficient approval to warrant a vote. The question of organizing a strong central body with power to take a definite stand on all Jewish questions will be taken up tomorrow.

On the subject of organizing a synod to have equal power on religious and communal questions, Rabbi David Phillipson, as chairman of the committee, read the majority report, in which the organization of a Central Jewish Assembly of America, both religious and communal, was recommended.

Zionist Officers to Remain.

Tannersville, N. Y., July 3.—There will be practically no change in the officers of the Federation of American Zionists, now in annual convention here. Dr. Harry Friedenwald of the Baltimore College of Physicians and Surgeons has reconsidered a determination to retire from the presidency. The election of officers will take place tomorrow.

START SEARCH INTO CAUSES OF WASHINGTON ICE FAMINE.

Municipal Officers Will Prosecute Dealers if Conspiracy Is Found—Boston Also Preparing to Punish Offenders.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The municipal officials have initiated steps with a view to the prosecution of the responsible individuals if, upon investigation, it develops that the present ice famine in Washington is the result of a conspiracy to raise the price of that commodity in restraint of trade. District Commissioner West declares that if a conspiracy exists in Washington to deliberately rob the people by increasing the price of ice somebody should be made to suffer for it.

Plans Prosecution in Boston.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 3.—Henry D. Yeaton of Boston, representing John B. Moran, district attorney of that city, today called upon District Attorney Bell of this city in reference to prosecutions against ice dealers, thirteen of whom are now under bail. They are charged with conspiracy to unlawfully increase the price of ice.

The order was issued by Judge Stimson on a petition signed by Councilmen Nattkemper, Cowan, and Allen, in which they alleged the mayor intended to interrupt the proceedings.

FEAR STEAMER IS LOST.

AMERICA LONG OVERDUE AND NO NEWS YET RECEIVED.

Anxiety Felt for Italian Vessel, with 110 Passengers and a Crew of 40 on Board, as It Is Directly in Path of Derelict Which Is Endangering Shipping from Mediterranean—Although 22 Days Since First Seen No Liner Has Yet Sighted It.

New York, July 3.—No news of any kind has yet been received of the Fabre line steamer America, which sailed from Marseilles on June 3 for this city, carrying 110 passengers and forty men comprising the crew. Apprehension for the safety of the steamer was expressed in shipping circles today, but the steamer's agents explain that it likely has become disabled by a breakdown of its machinery or the loss of its propeller.

The steamer left the Azores on June 11. It should have come into port in nine days with good weather. Twenty-two days have passed, but no vessel from Mediterranean ports has sighted the America.

Two Sister Ships See Nothing.

The Germania, a steamer of the same line from Marseilles and Palermo over the same track, reported on its arrival last Friday that it had seen nothing of the America. The Madonna, also of the same line, came into port today from the Mediterranean, but nothing of the America was seen on the trip.

Anxiety as to the fate of the steamship was increased today when it was learned from the hydrographic bureau that a derelict had been for some time directly in the path which the America would take after leaving the Azores. It is the dismasted steamer Lizzie Chadwick, which was reported in latitude 38, longitude 38, on June 7, a point about 400 miles due west from the Azores, directly on the course to New York.

Derelict Right in Path.

The Chadwick was abandoned off the coast of the United States on March 4 in latitude 37, longitude 68, on its way from Jacksonville to New York. It has been drifting steadily east with the gulf stream at the rate of about eighteen miles a day ever since, having covered a total of about 1,500 miles. All this time it has been directly in the path of steamships sailing to and from Mediterranean ports. Although it has been three times reported no effort has been made to destroy it.

At the times it was seen it was dismasted and lay low in the water. The Marine Register, in reporting it, said that it was "in a position dangerous to navigation."

Have Utmost Faith in Captain.

MARSEILLES, July 3.—Anxiety increases concerning the overdue immigrant steamer America. M. Fabre, head of the Fabre line, said today: "We have not abandoned hope, as we have confidence in Capt. Biche, who when he was in command of another ship bound for New Orleans, and the engines broke down, refused assistance and arrived at New Orleans two weeks late. We anticipate a similar event now."

CULLOM LEADERS CONSIDER YATES.

Are Told by Campbell of the Deneen Organization That County Is Theirs.

JOBHOLDERS IN CONCLAVE

Lorimer People File with Clerk Their Petition Containing 17,000 Names.

Part of the Deneen organization in Chicago declared itself positively enough on the senatorial proposition yesterday when a conference of Senator Cullom's party managers was held in the office of the United States marshal.

State Senator Daniel A. Campbell, one of the seven Deneen lieutenants who are vested with authority to sit in slate making conferences, appeared with the federal job holders whom Senator Cullom has delighted to honor and who now sit on his right hand in political councils.

With Mr. Campbell appeared Postmaster Fred A. Busse and Internal Revenue Collector Henry L. Hertz, who, although they are of the Deneen organization, have earned the right by accepting federal appointments to sit at Senator Cullom's right hand.

Mr. Campbell, as one of the seven vested with authority in Deneen councils, was called on by the other assembled Cullom partisans to state what, in his opinion, would be the result of the approaching Yates' invasion of Cook county, which is scheduled to take place on July 9, at which time the noise of the fourth of July celebration will have died away sufficiently and at which time there will be no rival display of fireworks.

Sees Little for Yates.

Mr. Campbell replied that, in his opinion, there would be nothing to it.

"Yates cannot carry more than one senatorial district of the nineteen in Cook county," he said. "He may get the Eleventh, Gov. Deneen's own district, but that is all."

Before Mr. Campbell was called on for this expression of opinion Naval Officer T. N. Jamieson had been asked what, in his opinion, would be the result, but Naval Officer Jamieson had deferred to Mr. Campbell's superior judgment, Mr. Campbell representing the majority and he the minority faction in Chicago politics.

This prophecy from one of the seven high ones in Deneen conclaves seemed to cheer up Senator Cullom's friends considerably, and several of the down state Cullom officeholders offered their opinion to the effect that Yates might carry five of the 101 counties outside of Cook.

By great good luck they thought Mr. Yates might be able to scrape up as many as two new state senators and five members of the lower house in the legislature which will have the pleasure of electing a United States senator.

The Cullom people, moreover, were inclined to take the word of Mr. Campbell as expressive of the sentiments of the Deneen organization all over the city, which it is not. Campbell was conceded to be speaking the sentiments of Hanberg, Pease, and possibly Reddick. West and Gov. Deneen are for Yates. Busse, naturally, is for Cullom.

Roster of Job Holders.

The officeholders who assembled to hear reports from Cook and the other counties included those who have succeeded in getting jobs in the last seven days, those who have succeeded in hanging to jobs, those who have been promoted to other jobs, and those whose jobs are a cinch under present conditions.

The roll call was as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.
United States District Attorney William E. Trautmann, East St. Louis.
United States District Attorney William A. Northcott, Greenville.
United States Marshal Luman T. Hoy, Woodstock.
United States Marshal Leon Townsend, Galesburg.
United States Court Clerk Daniel Hogan, Mound City.

CUSTOM HOUSE.
Collector of Customs John Ames, Streator.
Internal Revenue Collector Frank L. Smith, Dwight.
Internal Revenue Collector Henry L. Hertz, Chicago.
Naval Officer T. N. Jamieson, Chicago.

POSTOFFICE.
Postmaster Fred A. Busse, Chicago.
Postmaster Wheeler, Springfield.

PENSION DEPARTMENT.
Pension Agent Charles Bent, Morrison.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Bank Examiner Walter Louden, Trenton.

The army and navy, the life saving service, the department of the interior, and the weather bureau were not represented and Congressman Lorimer's west side division of the Cullom army did not appear in person or by proxy, probably to save Mr. Campbell from embarrassment.

Lorimer Petitions Filed.

The Lorimer people were busy with the petitions of their county candidates, which late in the afternoon were taken to the county clerk and filed. They contain about 17,000 names for the candidates who were announced on the Lorimer slate on Saturday.

The petition of John F. Smulski for state treasurer was taken to Springfield during the day by Lewis Rinaker, Deneen candidate for county judge.

George W. Dixon, who represented the first district in the state senate in the last two legislatures has decided to stand for renomination on the republican ticket and this about completes the factional fight in the Second ward. Dixon had refused to run before and the Deneen people had picked Charles Billings to make the fight against Adam Oldenberg, the Haney candidate. When Ald. Thomas Dixon refused to take the Probate court clerkship the Deneen people persuaded George Dixon to make a fight against Oldenberg in the hope of beating Haney at all points.

Robert E. Burke's Blanket List.

Robert E. Burke's democratic primary candidates filed their petitions with the county clerk during the day, blanket petitions with 4,000 signatures serving the purpose for all. The candidates are:

Sheriff—John J. Fitzpatrick.
Treasurer—John J. Fitzpatrick, John Traeger, Charles F. Gunther.
County Judge—J. J. Coburn, W. A. Doyle, William P. Black.
County Clerk—William M. Rossell, Daniel Hanahan, John T. Keating.
Probate Judge—William E. Dever.
Circuit Court Clerk—John T. Sonsteby, P. B. Flanagan, J. M. Tilton, Timothy Cruice.
Superintendent of Schools—Charles Griffith, Elmer Bevans.

These candidates represent the Burke end of the local democracy with its labor allies. They have forgotten that the nomination for Circuit court clerk is made by the county committee and not by convention. They affirm that the consent of all the candidates has been obtained. Mr. Fitzpatrick takes a chance at two offices.

G. Fred Rush has filed his petitions for county judge with 7,084 names. Willis C. Stone has in circulation petitions for the democratic nomination for congress in the Third district.

Giffin was killed by an Illinois Central train. Giffin's home was in Clairville, O.

Woman Attacked Fights Assailant.

Mrs. Henrietta Fellers.

LIGHT ON 'OTHER WOMAN'

FAIR MANICURIST NAMED IN ELLIS DIVORCE SUIT.

Wife of Jerome Ellis, Automobile Enthusiast and the Daughter of President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe Railroad, Asks Alimony in Bill Relating Husband's Alleged Escapades, Which Date Back to September, 1904.

Mrs. Alice M. Ellis, daughter of E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fé railroad, who has brought divorce proceedings against her husband, Jerome A. Ellis, automobile enthusiast, declined yesterday to discuss "the other woman." She would not talk of the divorce at all, and the same reticence was displayed by her mother and father and Mr. Ellis.

A statutory charge is preferred against Mr. Ellis. Pauline Robson, also known as Paulina Robson, is named as co-respondent. She is a manicurist who formerly had a parlor in the McVicker theater building. She lived recently with a Mrs. Rockefellow in apartments at Twenty-sixth street and Calumet avenue.

Escapades Date Back to 1904.

According to the bill, Mrs. Ellis knew nothing of the alleged friendliness between her husband and Miss Robson until last January, although the petition cites that the escapades of Ellis date as far back as September, 1904. Mrs. Ellis asks temporary support and alimony.

In January there was a bitter quarrel between husband and wife, according to friends, in which Miss Robson's name was mentioned. A few days later Mr. Ellis departed from their Riverside residence.

The hearing of the divorce is expected to take place shortly. Mr. Ellis would not say yesterday whether he would contest it. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic and Washington Park clubs and a director of the Chicago Automobile club. He took part yesterday in the automobile races at Hawthorne park. He and Mrs. Ellis were married Nov. 2, 1897.

Expected "Balloon to Go Up."

"I have expected the balloon to go up for some time," said Ellis just before he left for the races. "My wife and I have failed to get along together since last December or January. If you can't live under the same roof with a person something's bound to happen sooner or later."

He would not discuss the Robson woman. Mrs. Ellis was reported ill at her home in Riverside and her mother wouldn't discuss the case beyond saying that Ellis was to blame. Mr. Ripley said:

"It's no affair of mine. My daughter and her husband haven't lived together for six months and the Robson woman was partly the cause of their separation. I don't know who she is."

It was said that Ellis had separate apartments on the south side and when his wife learned of it he put his name on the door and announced it as his residence.

Ripley Aids Ellis in Business.

It is said that the influence of Mr. Ripley materially aided Ellis in his business ventures. Ellis has been connected with several concerns dealing in railroad supplies. Just now he is paying more attention to the automobile business than anything else. There is a story that he was driving a laundry wagon at Riverside when he married Miss Ripley, six years ago, but Mr. Ripley denied that. He said that Ellis ran a steam laundry in La Grange, and at one time was connected with a rattan chair company.

TRIES IN VAIN TO REFORM HIM.

After Thirty Years Wife Sues Mark Brown, Alleging Excessive Intoxication.

After thirty years spent in trying to reform her husband Mrs. Katherine Brown yesterday sought a divorce, charging Mark Brown with excessive intoxication. The husband filed an answer denying the charge. The Browns were married in 1875 at Lawn Ridge, Ill. They have eight children.

Mrs. Bernice Stone charges that Harris Stone became too well acquainted with a young woman named "Nellie." She wants a divorce.

A game of euchre broke up the home of Susan and Eugene L. Lee, 1564 Kenmore avenue, according to the story told to Judge McEwen by Mrs. Lee. She was granted a decree of divorce. She said that during a game her husband became angry and jumped up and struck her in the face.

WOMAN CRIPPLE A VICTIM

ATTACKED IN HER HOME, BADLY BEATEN, AND SCRATCHED.

Mrs. Henrietta Fellers, 791 Halsted Street, Though Nearly Helpless, Remembers Fate of Mrs. Hollister and Makes Such a Desperate Resistance That Stranger Finally Runs Away, Leaving No Clew to His Identity.

A crippled woman was attacked in her home yesterday afternoon, adding another name to the already long list of victims.

Alone and almost helpless, Mrs. Henrietta Fellers, 22 years old, 791 Halsted street, was seized by a stranger who dragged her into a room adjoining the kitchen, beat her severely, and escaped. No clew has been obtained which might lead to his identification. Mrs. Fellers' face, head, and body were so severely bruised and scratched that a physician was summoned to attend her.

The attack occurred shortly before 5 o'clock. Mrs. Fellers had returned from a neighboring store, where she had made some small purchases.

Man Lying in Wait for Her.

A stranger, she said, was standing in the doorway as she passed in. At the time she paid no particular attention to his presence. She believes he was waiting until she entered her house. Shortly after she had entered he followed and attacked her.

"I was near the ice box in the kitchen," she said, "when the door was opened suddenly and a man entered. He ran toward me and without speaking a word seized me by the throat. He told me to keep quiet or he would kill me. I was dragged from the kitchen into the dining room and then thrown against the wall. When I fell my head struck against the window sash and for a moment I became dazed. When I recovered I struggled until he freed me. Then he seized me again, tearing my waist in shreds. I struggled harder and when he saw his efforts were useless he ran from the house."

Remembers Fate of Mrs. Hollister.

Late last evening Mrs. Fellers had not recovered from the nervous shock caused by the attack. She said when she saw the stranger enter she at first believed him a burglar. Then, remembering the fate of Mrs. Hollister, she made a desperate fight.

Mrs. Fellers thinks she could identify the man but is able to give only a general description of his appearance.

SEEKS PLACE AS CANDIDATE.

Richard E. Burke Files Petition for Municipal Judgeship—To Test New Law.

State Representative Richard E. Burke yesterday filed with the county clerk a petition for a place on the regular democratic ticket as candidate for a municipal judgeship. With his petition Mr. Burke filed a lengthy argument setting forth that under his interpretation of the new primary law the filing of such a petition and subsequent placing of his name on the official ballot makes it obligatory upon the convention to vote for him as a regular nominee.

While others may not take the same view of the law it paves the way for litigation, and other aspirants for similar positions doubtless will follow suit. The time for filing such petitions ends tomorrow at midnight. Democratic candidates must have 1,973 signers, while republicans must show a total of over 4,000, these figures representing the requisite 2 per cent of the respective parties' vote on the presidential candidate at the last general election.

The petition which Mr. Burke filed had 2,500 signatures attached. He asks for the nomination to one of the six year terms.

The contention of Representative Burke is that while the legislature in passing the new primary law did not state specifically that candidates for municipal judgeship should file such petitions, the intent is plainly deducible. This he bases upon the fact that it eliminates only county commissioners and trustees of the University of Illinois from filing petitions, while it does say that all municipal officers to be elected in November shall do so.

CHILDREN MISSING FOR WEEKS.

Mrs. Mary Pancek Asks Police to Try to Find Her Son and Daughter.

Mrs. Mary Pancek, 238 Milwaukee avenue, reported at the Desplaines street police station that her two children—Frank, aged 14, and Lottie, aged 12—mysteriously disappeared three weeks ago.

ARRESTED AFTER RESTORING PURSE

Mrs. Herman Lammers Finds Bag in Store, Picks Up and Takes It Home.

THEN SENDS TO OWNER.

Latter, Mrs. Lillian Calkins, Says $63 Is Missing and Gets Warrant.

Mrs. Herman C. Lammers, whose husband until recently was vice president of the Binner-Wells Engraving company, was arraigned in the Harrison street police court yesterday on a sensational and puzzling charge of theft preferred by Mrs. Lillian E. Calkins, 429 La Salle avenue.

Mrs. Calkins says that when Mrs. Lammers returned her purse to her after carrying it home from Marshall Field's store, the sum of $63 was missing. Mrs. Lammers denies the charge.

Mrs. Lammers was arrested at her residence, 2345 Lakewood avenue, by Detectives Buggie and Kelly Monday evening on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Calkins. She gave bond for her appearance in court yesterday, when the case was continued to July 10 on motion of Attorney Chritton of Dyrenforth, Lee & Chritton, who represented the defendant.

Attorney Gives Out Statement.

In the evening, Attorney Chritton gave out a formal statement in defense of his client. The statement recites that ten days ago, while shopping, Mrs. Lammers, whose husband is about to embark in a business enterprise of his own, found a purse in the Marshall Field retail store and carried it home with her. She found that the purse contained some tax receipts, some keys, and also a small change purse, and a due bill for $20 on another State street store.

Mrs. Lammers' attorney in his statement and Mr. Lammers in an interview declared that on the same night that the purse was taken home an attempt was made to reach Mrs. Calkins by telephone, her name being in the purse, but that the attempt was unsuccessful because the telephone operator reported that the telephone had been taken out.

Mr. Lammers next, it is asserted, made an unsuccessful attempt to reach Mrs. Calkins by trying to turn the purse over to a company whose name was on the key ring in the purse. Then he sent Mrs. Calkins a postal card and requested her to call at his office for the purse. When she called, Mr. Lammers says, he asked her to examine the purse and was surprised when Mrs. Calkins announced that money was missing. He says she added that she was satisfied to get back her keys and the due bill. The next development was the arrest of Mrs. Lammers.

Mrs. Lammers walked from the office of her attorney in the Marquette building to the Harrison street police station. She refused to enter the courtroom until informed that her bonds might be forfeited unless she did so.

False Charge, Says Mrs. Lammers.

"The charge against me is false and a mistake," she said. "I have nothing further to say."

At her home last night she was reported to be prostrated. Her husband, who showed signs of severe mental suffering, said:

"I am placed in the position of defending the most innocent woman in the world. Although my wife is innocent, I believe that Mrs. Calkins must be sincere in her charge, or she would not willfully subject us to such an ordeal as this. It is my theory that some professional thief stole the money from the pocketbook and then put the purse where my wife picked it up, thinking it had been lost and believing that she was acting in the best interests of the owner, whom she had never seen."

Mrs. Lammers before her marriage was physical-culture director of the Jewish manual training school. Her maiden name was Antoinette Belitz. Members of the Binner-Wells firm and acquaintances of the Lammers declare that their reputation is irreproachable.

Mrs. Calkins expressed herself last night as inclined to push the case. Mrs. Calkins, who is a young woman, is proprietor of the Chicago Mills hotel at 421 State street and the Royal hotel, 308 State street.

NEW HEARST ORGANIZATION ANNOUNCES ITS PLATFORM.

Directors of Independence League Urge Municipal Ownership Primarily and Advocate Many Reforms.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Independence league, an organization formed by the Hearst branch of the county democracy, held last night at 146 Franklin street, a pronunciamento was issued setting forth the purposes of the league.

While the proclamation derides both political parties, the impression prevailing among democrats is that its real purpose is to afford the Hearst faction a leg upon which to stand when a bolt is ordered at the county convention.

Following is a résumé of the document:

To prevent the granting of franchises for public utilities to private individuals and corporations without "adequate" compensation or full consent of the public.

To prevent the government of the people by cliques for corporations.

Ballot reform to prevent corruption at elections.

Control public officials during their terms of office and eliminate the bosses.

Direct nomination of all candidates.

Good roads for the farmers and regulation of railroad rates.

Work for the passage of laws in the interest of the labor unions.

Popular election of United States senators.

Headquarters are to be opened today in room 1409 Security building, in charge of Secretary H. R. Harris, and preparations were considered for a general organization throughout the city.

CITIZENS AND BANDITS FIGHT BATTLE IN CHICAGO STREET.

Policeman's Helmet Slashed in Battle with Two Robbers Who Had Held Up Rancher.

Two robbers, armed with knives and revolvers, fought with citizens at Canal and Washington streets at 6 o'clock last evening until policemen from the Desplaines street station arrived.

One of the men was arrested. He gave the name of James Barry, aged 27. His companion attacked Policeman Shanahan with a knife and the latter's helmet was slashed several times.

The men are said to have attacked William Dore, a ranchman from Texas, and to have robbed him of $10 and his gold watch, shortly after his arrival. They dragged him toward the doorway of a building, and, though many persons were in the street, took $10 and his watch from his pocket.

Dore resisted the robbers and the struggle in the street attracted Policeman Shanahan. He hurried up and seized Barry. The latter and his companion had drawn their weapons and were flourishing them. The man who later escaped attempted to stab Shanahan, but fled when other policemen arrived. Several shots were fired at him.

Investigate Man's Injuries.

William J. O'Brien, aged 63, 1042 West Thirteenth street, a teamster, was found unconscious at the rear of a building at 107 Jefferson street yesterday afternoon and the police are investigating his case. His skull is believed to have been fractured. He was taken to the County hospital.

University Honors Young Professor.

DAVID A. ROBERTSON

David A. Robertson, professor of English of the University of Chicago, has been elected by the faculty of the institution to the position of secretary to the president. The position carries with it a regular membership in the university council, and is one of the highest given to younger members of the faculty. Prof. Robertson's prominence as an undergraduate student in the university and his creditable work in the English department made him the logical successor of Prof. Henry Porter Chandler. He was born in Chicago and before entering the university as a student in 1898 was graduated from the John Marshall High school.

3 GIRLS BITTEN BY DOGS.

ONE VICTIM IS TAKEN TO THE PASTEUR INSTITUTE.

Epidemic of Attacks by Animals Breaks Out in One Day on North Side—Estelle Jessuoun Suffers Severe Wounds When Canine That Had Snapped at Several Pedestrians Buries Teeth in Limb—Two Others Also Meet Injury in Streets.

Three young girls living on the north side were bitten by dogs yesterday. The condition of one of the girls is so serious that she had to be removed to the Pasteur institute. Each of the other victims is under the care of a physician.

The Victims.

JESSUOUN, ESTELLE, aged 9, 659 Sedgwick street; bitten on right leg by dog that snapped at other pedestrians as it ran along; taken to Pasteur institute.

YOUNG, NETTIE, aged 14, 396 Ravenswood park; bitten on right left by dog in Sheffield avenue; condition serious.

YOUNG, MARION, aged 7, 327 Bissell street; bitten on hand by dog; condition serious.

The Jessuoun girl was the most severely injured and fears are entertained for her, because the animal which attacked her snapped at several persons and showed other evidences of hydrophobia. The animal is owned by F. Eichenpoter, 685 Sedgwick street. It snapped at every pedestrian it met until it reached the front of 356 Sedgwick street, where it rushed up to the little girl and bit her on the leg. The police were called and the child removed to the Pasteur institute in an ambulance.

Teeth Inflict Severe Wounds.

Nettie Young was walking in Sheffield avenue and had reached a point in front of the residence of Mrs. L. Bellmann, 125 Sheffield avenue, when the woman's dog ran out and attacked her. The animal's teeth inflicted severe wounds on the child's right leg. The police were called and removed her to her home.

The dog which attacked the other Young girl is declared to be owned by Mrs. M. Coughlin, 325 Bissell street. The attack was in front of Mrs. Coughlin's home and the child was bitten on the little finger of the right hand. Several pedestrians who saw the attack drove the dog away, saving the child from further injury.

WORK ON TROLLEYS AT NIGHT IN NOISE OF FIRECRACKERS.

Pedestrians Grow Enthusiastic as They See Steps to Remove Cables Proceed.

Throngs of men and women who stood about State street until an early hour this morning celebrating the advent of the anniversary of the nation's birth found another cause for joy. It was the almost delerious haste with which gangs of men were continuing to erect poles and stringing wires preparatory to the removal of the cables from the street.

On request of several State street merchants the number of men who had worked the previous evening had been doubled by the Chicago City railway and there was every evidence of industry on the part of the workers. In the holes already bored iron poles were swiftly placed. Then cross wires were placed.

Only at one place was there an interruption of the work. This was at Dearborn and Jackson boulevard. When the linemen attempted to string the wire across Jackson they were stopped by three members of the South park police force because no permit had been issued. The foreman in charge of the gang attempted to force his way across and was told he would be arrested if he persisted. The police say the day foreman was warned two days ago that a permit would be necessary to cross Jackson boulevard, yet the traction company neglected to procure one. Otherwise the work progressed rapidly.

As the theater crowds filled the streets, groups of interested men and women stood about the flickering lamps of the gangs of workmen. Many were the congratulations heaped upon the men as they dug, and many were the men that were driven away from their work, temporarily, by giant crackers thrown at them by enthusiastic persons.

SEEK TO SAVE CASH IN WRECK.

Bondholders in One of Companies Absorbed by American Reserve Meet to Plan Action.

Bondholders in the Colonial Securities company of St. Louis, which was taken over last year by the American Reserve Bond company, now in the hands of a receiver, met last night in the office of Harvey M. Brown in the Unity building to devise means of saving their investments. It was the sense of the meeting that the Colonial company did not become an integral part of the American Reserve Bond company, and that the receivers should set aside the assets of the Colonial company and allow it to resume business. A committee, which included F. C. Jacobs, M. L. Kasmar, and W. R. Padfield, was appointed to take action on the matter. Another meeting will be held next Monday night.

CHARGES REBOUND AGAINST MULCAHY

Police Lieutenant Probably Will Be Tried on Evidence of Sergeant.

MORE OF GRAFT SYSTEM.

Prendergast Tells the Merit Board His Superior Protected Criminals.

The expurgated portion of the testimony of Sergeant Thomas H. Prendergast, heard yesterday by the police trial board, forms an interesting record in police history and may result in the dismissal from the force of Lieut. Roger Mulcahy, who brought the charges of insubordination and intoxication against his former subordinate.

The voluble desk sergeant, who recently exposed the police graft system in the Stanton avenue station, broke over the traces when the commissioners tried to keep him from telling what he meant by saying Lieut. Mulcahy was "one of Paddy Lavin's grafters." He accused Lieut. Mulcahy in picturesque terms of deliberately protecting such men as Charles Bowers, indicted for assaulting little girls, and Patrick McMahon, indicted for murdering a negro.

While the testimony in the case was concluded, and it is probable Prendergast will be reprimanded for saying unkind things of his superior officers, the case will not end there. At the close of the trial it was understood that new charges would be filed against Lieut. Mulcahy and that the prosecutors would be the Chicago Law and Order league, which became interested in the case through the difficulty in securing witnesses against Bowers.

Expounds Duties; Explains Clash.

Sergeant Prendergast was on the stand most of the afternoon. He explained his actions on May 24, when he was accused of being intoxicated.

"If your honor please, and chief," he began, bowing grandly to his judges, "the business of a desk sergeant is a delicate one. He is expected to give advice and expound law to the public most of the time. But on that morning I had an interesting conversation with Lieut. Mulcahy.

"'I hear you have been calling me one of Lavin's grafters,' he said to me.

"'You lie,' I said, 'produce the proofs.' I knew he was trying to trump up charges against me and that he had called in Policeman Dubach for that purpose.

"'It is a fact that this station has been known for years as being a grafting station,' I said, like that. 'You are trying to get charges over me, but you better leave me alone. Every one in the station knows that you have protected these criminals. I could bring charges against you that would reach to the city hall.'"

"We will not go into that," said Commissioner Prentiss.

Refuses to Be Silenced.

"But he did, he did," shouted Prendergast, who refused to be muzzled.

"Before your honor, and you, chief, I will say this man (here he pointed to Lieut. Mulcahy) protected Patrick McMahon, who at 3521 State street shot down in cold blood a negro who never had done him any harm, and he did protect that black brute who—"

"That will do; no more of that here," broke in the commissioner.

"You say you were agitated that morning. What made you so?" was the next question.

"The day before," said Prendergast, "I had been hunting for a girl witness in the Bowers case by Judge Dupuy's orders. I found the girl and other witnesses had been secreted. I found Mulcahy had been among the negroes talking against me, and that he had a lot of spies who dogged me everywhere. He failed to do his duty."

"Why did you not bring charges?" questioned the commissioner.

"I went to Inspector Wheeler with the case. He insulted me and turned me out of the office."

Drank Bitters in Saloon.

"What were you doing in Matt Koch's saloon that morning?"

"I went in there to order a meal. I found two young men in there, reporters, I think. I treated them in a courteous way. I had a drink of bitters."

"Don't you know the bartender said you had five or six drinks?"

"Your honor, that bartender is ignorant. He don't understand English. While I was in there Dr. Kelly, a colored man interested in the Bowers case, watched me from one corner, and Archie Jones, a patrol wagon driver that Mulcahy had put out to shadow me, came in at the side door. Jones was in uniform and drank whisky, but the lieutenant did not see fit to bring charges against him. The next day Mulcahy said to me:

"'I have got you good now. I will fix you this time.'"

The testimony in the case was completed, and the board took it under advisement.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN KILLED BY FALLING NINE STORIES.

Believed to Have Jumped from Window Opening on Court of Stewart Building —Panic Among Loftis Employes.

An unidentified man leaped or fell from a window on the twelfth floor of the Stewart building, State and Washington streets, shortly after 1 o'clock, and was instantly killed by striking the skylight at the third floor. Nearly a dozen panes of glass in this skylight were broken, and the heavy iron girders supporting them were snapped like twigs.

Two persons working beneath the skylight in the traffic department of the Loftis Bros. Jewelry company were injured by flying glass or iron, and a panic was caused among the 150 employes when they saw the head and shoulders of the man protruding through the roof. Siegfried Lindhagen, 1538 Wolfram street, was struck on the head by a piece of iron and rendered unconscious. Miss Emma Tiark, 538 Sedgwick street, was cut on the face and arm by glass.

Not a thing was found on the body which would lead to identification. The man was about 50 years old, weighing 150 pounds, partly bald, and with a heavy brown beard and mustache. In the pockets were found a silver watch, $1.91, and two railroad tickets, a year old, between points in Oklahoma.

ATTORNEY JAMES BARBOUR SNATCHED FROM CAR DEATH.

Member of County Prosecutor's Staff Falls Under Grip Train and Is Saved by Passengers.

Assistant State's Attorney James Barbour was saved from death under a street car yesterday by the presence of mind of William Caswell, 228 North Clark street, and William Gehring, 120 Wells street.

Caswell and Gehring were seated on the rear of a southbound Clybourn avenue car which was turning to enter the tunnel at La Salle avenue and Michigan street. Attorney Barbour attempted to cross the car tracks in the rear of the Clybourn avenue car and, failing to notice a northbound car, he stepped between the grip car and the first trailer and was thrown to the ground.

As he fell Gehring and Caswell reached forward and, seizing him by the coat collar, pulled him from the tracks. The lawyer suffered a cut on the side of the head and a gash over his right eye, and his shoulders were bruised.

SEES AND SPURNS BRIBES.

COMMISSIONER BARTZEN KEEPS HONOR INTACT.

Head of Building Department Says Several Indirect Offers Have Been Made by Way of Suggestions of Contracts for His Son's Firm, but He Prefers to Go Out of Office Next Spring with an Unblemished Record for Honesty.

Building Commissioner Bartzen has discovered two more attempts to bribe him. It is needless to say they were rejected indignantly by the incorruptible city official.

They were not open attempts, like the offer of money or a cigar, as in the cases previously reported, but in the opinion of the commissioner none the less attacks on his honesty. They took the form of offers of contracts to his son by property owners in controversy with the city.

"I could make $50,000 as easily as I can drink this glass of beer," said the commissioner yesterday, and then he proceeded to demonstrate that was not a difficult task.

"But I will not do it. I prefer to get out of office next spring with the respect of the honest people of Chicago back of me."

It was the first intimation that Mr. Bartzen contemplates leaving office before his term expires on Jan. 15, 1908, but he explained he did not intend to resign. He simply took it for granted he would quit when Mayor Dunne does.

Details of Bribe Plots.

The story of what he regards as these last attempts to bribe him he told in this fashion:

"My son is in the contracting business. The other day the agent of the Orpheum building, which I ordered torn down, asked my son if he would take the contract for the work of reconstructing that building. But I told the boy he could not do it. It would not be right. He did not.

"Then I had ordered some changes in the Rothschild store. The agent there wanted my son to do the work. I told him he could not do it. I said as long as I was building commissioner he could not take work of that kind, and he has not.

"There is plenty of business like that waiting for the boy if he would take it. He could do lots of it. People have come to me and said 'why not have him do it?'

Spurns Easy Graft Money.

"It would be easy for me to make more money than I ever had. I could get $50,000 together in no time. But I say what good would it do me? I have eight children, four boys and four girls. Is it not better for me to leave them an honest name than to have the neighbors say 'their father got his money through graft'?

"Then, I think it is better for me to go ahead as I have. I will go out of office next spring and I will leave a good name behind me. Then I will go back to the contracting business. There are lots of buildings to be built in Chicago and I can go to the people who want to put them up and say:

"'I have been an honest building commissioner. I can put up an honest building if you will let me bid on it.' And they will let me bid on it and I will get all the work I can do. I think it is better to be honest and I can make more money by it."

LACK OF QUORUM PERIL TO REPORTS

Judiciary Committee Makes Recommendations Without the Needed Votes.

COLD STORAGE LAW IS UP.

Startling Conditions Revealed by Expert's Report on Chickens in Ice Boxes.

Chairman Dever of the council judiciary committee tried to do business without a quorum of his committee yesterday, but did not get along well. He would have a quorum for awhile, but lose it when it came to a vote, and the result was nothing.

Nominally the committee ordered that the fifty garage proprietors who have been storing gasoline under alleys and streets in violation of law be allowed to continue the practice during the summer. The corporation counsel's office, however, decided the order had no force to it. It finally was decided to introduce the order at Monday's council with a request for immediate action.

Then the committee recommended for passage the "cold storage ordinance," but afterwards Ald. Dever remarked he did not see much force to the recommendation. Some minor matters were handled in the same way.

Three O'Clock; Quorum Not Present.

The committee was called for 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 3 p. m. there were only six members present. It takes seven to make a quorum. Then Chairman Dever got tired.

"We have a lot of business we must get rid of before vacation," he said. "We will take it up anyhow. Where are the automobile people?"

Ex-Ald. Charles Alling and Sidney S. Gorham, secretary of the Automobile club, said they represented the owners of the gasoline tanks and made elaborate arguments to the effect that if the tanks are not allowed automobiles would have to stop running. "You are crippling an important industry," declared Mr. Alling.

Just then Ald. Foell and Reinberg came in, making a quorum, and to the objection that it was too important a matter to be handled hastily Mr. Gorham asked that the law department be instructed to enter into a stipulation not to interfere with the tanks until fall. Assistant Corporation Counsel Hoyne said he would obey an order of the committee for the eight tanks covered by an injunction, and it seemed all settled, and Mr. Alling and Mr. Gorham went out after profusely thanking the committee.

Call the Roll; Aldermen Gone.

But the clerk thoughtlessly called the roll and it was found that Ald. Stewart and Larson had left and there were only six votes left for the order—Ald. Dever, Richert, Uhlir, Bihl, Foell, and Reinberg.

"You have lost your order, Charlie," said Ald. Richert to Mr. Alling, who was yet in the anteroom, and at the same time Mr. Hoyne discovered that the order was wanted to cover all the fifty gasoline tanks in the city.

"It will take an order of the council for me to make a stipulation for that," said Mr. Hoyne to Mr. Alling. "The order of the committee would not do even if it had a quorum."

Startling Conditions in Storage.

Then the cold storage ordinance came up. Chairman Dever insisted something must be done with it. Health Commissioner Whalen argued for the ordinance and insisted especially on the necessity of "drawing" poultry before it was put in cold storage.

He read a letter from Dr. J. H. Bacon, bacteriologist, of Peoria, showing the condition of two pound broilers taken from cold storage plants and placed on sale in Peoria.

He found the skin wet and slimy and discolored in places, a frothy fluid coming from some of the abrasions. The odor was disagreeable, the flesh pale, and the muscles flabby and readily torn. The liver was mushy and discolored, the lungs were partly filled with fluid blood, and other of the inner organs were in a bad condition.

Poisonous Bacteria Found.

Bacteria were found in the chickens, and some of the bacteria was poisonous. He found that the bacteria are not destroyed by cold storage. Experiments with guinea pigs showed the poisonous effects. The chickens which were examined were in cold storage six months.

Representatives of the cold storage business claimed the provision for "drawing" chickens was unnecessary, despite this letter, and also objected to the section requiring that all packages put in storage be stamped with the date of their entry.

"Well, something must be done with the ordinance. We can't leave it over," said Mr. Dever, and a vote was taken on a motion to recommend it for passage without amendment. This roll call showed that Ald. Reinberg and Bihl had left during the discussion and all left to vote for the recommendation were Ald. Dever, Richert, Uhlir, and Foell.

"Well, we can report it in, but I am afraid the recommendation does not amount to much," remarked the chairman.

Protest at Street Widening.

A public hearing as to the proposed widening of Halsted street, from Twenty-second street to North avenue, was held by the board of local improvements yesterday. The plan is to make a uniform width of 100 feet, the cost to be covered by special assessment.

The hearing was held in the council chamber to accommodate the crowd, and both sides were represented. John M. Smyth headed a delegation of west side business men who claimed the improvement would benefit property all over the west side, while Ald. Harris and Fick of the Ninth ward were on hand to protest on the ground it would be a detriment to their constituents.

It became evident there was so great a difference of opinion that the hearing could not be had in a day, so it was postponed until Nov. 8, when the council vacation will be over and the board's work for the summer closed up.

R. J. Gunning, head of the Gunning system, has apologized to the committee for the language he used at the meeting a few weeks ago when the bill board ordinance was being considered. He has written a letter to the members of the committee regretting the occurrence.

COOLEY'S FOES SEE VICTORY.

Predict Freely That School Trustees Will Take Text Book Question Into Their Own Hands.

It was predicted in school board circles yesterday that the school trustees will take the text book question into their own hands tomorrow night, and that Supt. Cooley's recommendations of the Child Life series of readers will not be adopted. Even Supt. Cooley's friends admitted during the day that they had lost the text book fight.

Supt. Cooley's position was greatly weakened by the sudden departure from the city yesterday of Trustees R. A. White and John C. Fetzer. Mrs. W. C. H. Keough, another supporter of Supt. Cooley, announced during the day that she would not vote for his recommendation.

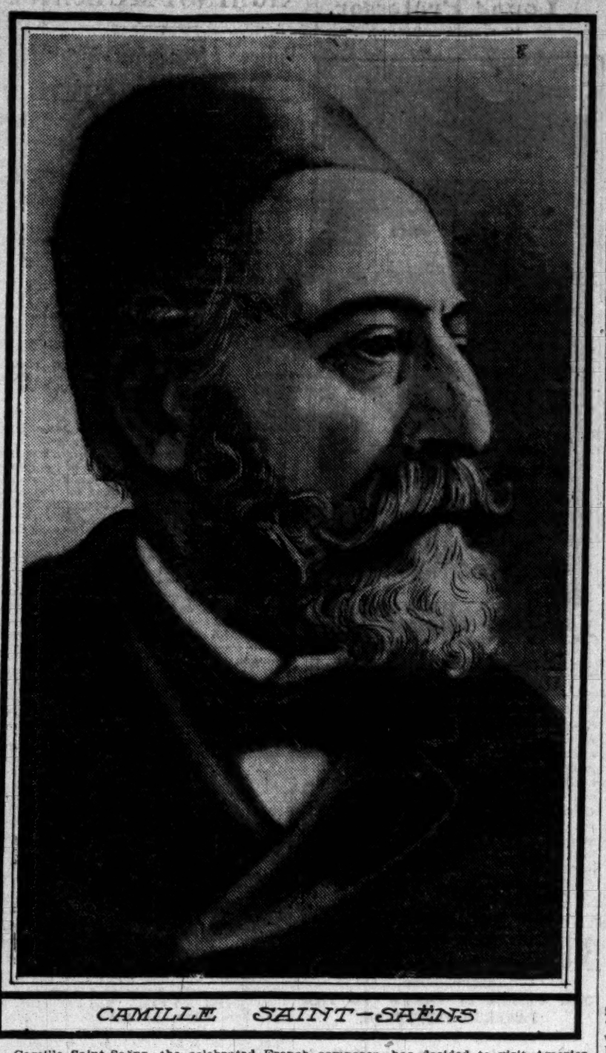

"So long as there are good readers published by Chicago firms," declared Mrs. Keough, "there is no reason why the board should select a reader published by an outside concern."

The plan of the anti-Cooleyites is to defeat the recommendation of Supt. Cooley and then defer the selection of all new text books until the new school board has been seated.

PLAN NEW FACTORY TOWN

BURNHAM TO BE ESTABLISHED SOUTH OF CITY.

Western Steel Car and Foundry Company Interests Buy Tract in Thornton, Near Calumet River, Where Industrial Community Will Be Built—Mills Employing 10,000 Men Expected to Locate and Extensive Improvements Are Contemplated.

A new industrial town to be called Burnham, north and east of the Grand Calumet river and adjoining the city limits at One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, in the township of Thornton, is planned. It is to be located on a tract of 625½ acres bought by Charles M. Nichols from Richard M. Husted of Boston, treasurer of Boston university, for $22,500.

Mr. Nichols subsequently conveyed it to A. C. McCord, president of the Western Steel Car and Foundry company; Henry R. Platt, attorney; John H. Mitchell, western sales manager of the Pressed Steel Car company; Cleve Runnells, sales manager of the Western company; Burt J. Fitzgerald, real estate broker; and himself, all of Chicago, and J. S. Andrews of the American Steel Foundry company, and D. W. McCord, vice president of the Western company of New York City. The enterprise was promoted by Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Nichols.

Will Secure More Land.

It is announced that it is the purpose of the syndicate to acquire additional property and to build a modern industrial city. It is announced that 100 houses will be erected immediately for the better class of employés. Other improvements contemplated include a bank, gas and electric lights, a sewer system, and possibly a library largely devoted to technical works.

It is stated that the Car and Foundry company is to become the Western Steel Car and Foundry company of Burnham. It has 8,000 employés and its shops adjoin the site of the proposed town. The railways maintaining a suburban service will move their depots already established in this vicinity on to this property.

Plants Employ 10,000 Men.

There are about 10,000 men employed by various industries within a radius of three miles with pay rolls of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually. Employment is given to about half that number within a radius of one mile.

The car company has found it difficult to get workers. It maintains special trains, it is said, which bring in upwards of 2,000 men to its shops. In addition, it has found it necessary to erect a boarding house for the accommodation of many men in order to obtain the labor necessary.

CHETLAIN GOOD TO CLERK

GIVES E. J. ZIMMER NUMBER OF FAT RECEIVERSHIPS.

Judiciary Committee of Bar Association Has Evidence That Appointment of Judge's Aid was Sometimes Objectionable to Parties in Interest — Mr. Fake Refuses to Avow Any Connection with Gold Brick Hardwood Lumber Venture.

Just what arrangement existed between Judge Arthur H. Chetlain and E. J. Zimmer, his former clerk, who drew a number of fat receiverships during the years that he stood between the judge and the public, will be the subject of inquiry by the judiciary committee of the Chicago Bar association, when it resumes next Monday afternoon its investigation of Judge Chetlain's official acts and business affairs.

Jesse A. Baldwin, attorney for the bar association, yesterday admitted that he had found important evidence connected with the Zimmer receiverships. On one occasion a young attorney with an office in the First National bank building had pending in Judge Chetlain's court a bill for foreclosure in which the appointment of a receiver was necessary.

Zimmer Gets Receivership.

Zimmer was on guard, as usual, according to the story related to Mr. Baldwin. The attorney was exceedingly anxious to see the judge.

"Let me see your papers," Zimmer is reported to have said. He looked at them, according to the story, and saw the name of the prospective receiver. Thereupon Zimmer is reported to have suggested that the name of Zimmer be substituted as receiver. The attorney was in a hurry. The substitution was effected. Zimmer rapped on the door of Judge Chetlain's chambers and the matter was adjusted without further delay.

"And yet," said Attorney Baldwin, "Judge Chetlain continued to appoint this man Zimmer to receiverships after his attention had been called to this particular case."

Assistant State's Attorney Fred Fake would not deny or affirm whether he had headed the list of men whom Judge Chetlain had induced to invest something like $15,000 in a hardwood lumber venture that proved a gold brick. Everybody understands, however, that Mr. Fake had been interested.

"I'll make a statement at the proper time," Mr. Fake said. "The only case that I tried before Judge Chetlain since the matters referred to are alleged to have taken place was the Gilhooley case. No person could possibly insinuate that Judge Chetlain was biased in favor of the prosecution in that case."

Outlook Held Unpromising.

The opinion of such members of the bar association committee as could be induced to discuss the hearing—and then they were unwilling to be quoted—was that the matter looked unpromising for Judge Chetlain. The committee, of course, will make no recommendations until the hearing is completed, perhaps not for another month. The bar association moves deliberately.

Spicer Confesses, Implicating Kentucky Judge in Murder Plot.

MANY FIGHTS AT TRIAL.

Friends of Both Sides Engage in Battles; Attempts to Bribe Are Charged.

Beattyville, Ill., July 3.—[Special.]—Asbury Spicer, witness for the prosecution in the trial of Judge James Hargis for the murder of James B. Marcum, today, for the first time, confessed his connection with the alleged plots to murder James B. Marcum and Jim Cockrill, implicating Hargis and Ed Sullivan, then sheriff, in the plot.

Spicer already had told what he knew of the murder of Dr. Cox, when he was on the witness stand during the hearing of the motion for bail for Hargis in Jackson.

Spicer declared that on the day Marcum was killed he was in Jackson. Only a few minutes before the shooting he was dispatched by Jim Hargis to get Tom White, and later was dispatched by Ed Callahan to get Curt Jett. Afterwards, while he was in the store of Hargis, two shots were fired, and Marcum fell dead in the front door of the courthouse.

Offered $500 to Kill Marcum.

Spicer said that a few days before the killing of Marcum he was offered $500 to kill the attorney, but that he refused, as he had done when offered pay to do away with Jim Cockrill.

Mose Feltner, one of the state's chief dependences, denied that he had made an effort to treat with Hargis and Callahan. He said that Gray Maddox had come to him with a proposition, presumably from Hargis, to the effect that if he would leave the state and not testify at the present trial Hargis would let up on him in any of the future trials of Feltner on indictments against him in Breathitt county. Feltner said he refused to have anything to do with the proposition.

During the morning Anse White, a brother of Tom White, was forced to defend himself against the onslaught of Breck Combs. Tom Cockrill also was forced into a difficulty with Roger Spicer, and during the argument Cockrill struck at Spicer and delivered a severe blow to Gran Spicer. Both Ainse White and Cockrill were arrested.

Jerry Cardwell to Testify.

Among the important witnesses now here is Jerry Cardwell, charged with killing John "Tige" Hargis, a brother of Jim Hargis, which caused the bad feeling between the Hargises and Cardwells, and which is supposed to have resulted in the death of Dr. B. D. Cox.

Cox was a brother-in-law of Cardwell and used his influences to free his wife's brother of that killing, and when he was finally convicted secured a pardon for Cardwell from Gov. Bradley.

A report reached here today from Jackson that John Abner and John Smith likely would make a written confession unless they were able to secure release from jail, where they are now being held.

POLICE AND FIRE HEROES TO BE AWARDED GOLD MEDALS

William McGeohegan, Bluecoat; Anton Leiber, Pipeman; and George W. Thomson, Truckman, Win Honors.

Mayor Dunne will award the Carter H. Harrison and Lambert Tree gold medals to heroes in the police and fire departments at 10 a. m. Saturday.

William McGeohegan of the stockyards station will receive the Carter H. Harrison medal, while two Lambert Tree medals, those for 1904 and 1905, will be given to Anton Leiber, a pipeman, and George W. Thomson, a probationary truckman in the fire department. The medals will be presented at the La Salle street entrance of the city hall in the presence of a policeman from each police station and a fireman from each company.

McGeohegan wins the medal for bravery displayed June 21 of last year in the capture of two burglars who blew open a safe in a meat market at 726 West Forty-seventh street. He led in a battle with the men who were endeavoring to escape. A bullet hit his helmet, another bullet struck him in the mouth, and, as he closed in on the burglars, he was shot in the elbow, and one of them struck him with an iron jimmy, knocking him unconscious. Two of the burglars were captured and convicted, but two escaped, afterward dying from their wounds.

The two fire heroes are given the medals for saving two lives. Leiber was off duty July 5, 1904, when George Hostman, 11 years old, 415 West Twenty-sixth street, fell off a pier at the foot of Twenty-sixth street into the lake. Leiber jumped in the water and rescued the boy.

Thomson rescued H. Koch, 2106 La Salle street, from a manhole at Eighteenth street and Armour avenue.

POSTOFFICE FRAUD ORDER CHECKS VINELESS POTATO.

Government Department Rules That Invention of Agricultural Marvel Is Deceiving Western Farmers.

The "vineless" potato which has been flourishing sweetly in the office of its Chicago inventor was snuffed out yesterday by a fraud order from the postoffice authorities in Washington. W. D. Darst and the Vineless Potato company of Chicago were the promoters of the agricultural marvel.

According to the scheme, a combination of sawdust and "potatine" selling for $4.50 a bottle, confined in a bin of state proportions, was guaranteed to produce as many potatoes, without soil of any kind, without vines or foliage, as could be grown on an acre of ground. Farmers in Kansas and Missouri became infatuated with this get a crop quick game and the inventor was in a fair way to make his fortune.

The concern advertised:

"Vineless potatoes can be grown in bins above the ground in sixty days at a cost not to exceed 9 cents a bushel."

Before debarring Inventor Darst and the "Vineless" company from the use of the mails, the postoffice department submitted the proposition to the department of agriculture. The latter reported that it was no secret small potatoes could be grown "vineless" in the dark on white bleached shoots of sprouting seed potatoes, but it was pointed out the crop always would be less than the amount planted.

POLICE RAID O'LEARY'S PLACE.

Arrest Commission Men Playing Billiards and Every One in Place as Inmates of Gaming House.

Chief Collins' gambling squad, after working for several weeks to secure the evidence, arrested twenty-six men in James O'Leary's place at 4183 South Halsted street yesterday.

The raid was made shortly after noon when several commission men were playing billiards in the rear room and others were in the bowling alleys. Everybody in the place was arrested down to the pin boys.

The detectives were led by Burns and Fitzgerald of the chief's staff. When the squad arrived they burst into a rear room on the second floor and found several men registering bets. The prisoners were loaded into the patrol wagon and taken to the Harrison street station, where O'Leary gave bonds for their release.

"This is once too often," said O'Leary. "I am going to get out an injunction in the morning against the police department."

SPECIAL CARS HELP OUT EMPLOYES' STRIKE MEETING.

Electric Line Provides Facilities That Make It Possible for Union Men to Hold Late Session in Aurora.

After discussing a possible strike at a meeting that convened at 12:30 o'clock this morning in Aurora, 100 employés of the third rail electric railroad were taken to their homes in special cars provided by the company.

The meeting was arranged by General Organizer Clarence O. Pratt of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Men. He had met officials of the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago line and they had drawn up a tentative agreement. Before this could become effective it had to be submitted to the men for ratification.

How to get the employés together to consider the proposition and vote on it was a problem at first. The workers are busy during the day, and, as they live along the line and service is discontinued for the night before midnight, no way appeared until the management volunteered to provide special cars to take the men to their homes after the late session.

If the proposed agreement is not satisfactory to the men further conferences will be held in an effort to make a peaceful settlement.

COUNSEL FLAYS RISK JUGGLERS.

Untermyer Assails So-Called Coat of Whitewash for New York Life.

SOLDIERS BUY RELEASE.

Two Illinoisans Purchase Discharge in Order to Assist Needy Sister.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, July 3.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the International policyholders' committee, had this to say today in regard to the report of the New York Life Insurance company's self-investigating committee: "The open defiance in the Fowler report to the policyholders reminds one of Tweed's question, 'What are you going to do about it?' It is a challenge by the agency force to the policyholders. Its statements are directly contradicted by a mass of incriminating facts brought out by the Armstrong committee from the lips of officers of the company. It is an assault on the honesty of the Armstrong report. The whitewash is put on so thick that it falls off from its own weight.

Assails New York Life Whitewash.

"Mr. Perkins no longer is officially connected with the New York Life, but if anybody doubts that he and J. P. Morgan & Co. rule the company more completely than at any time in its history he has only to read the Armstrong report and this Fowler whitewash, which seems to be based on the assumption that the policyholders have been tired out by the endless delays and have lost all interest in their property.

"When it is recalled that some members of the committee were themselves close to the conduct they are endeavoring to whitewash the public may prefer to rely on the findings of the Armstrong report."

The United States army lost two good soldiers today when Privates John F. Catlin and Edwin L. Catlin were allowed to purchase their discharge after over four years' service. The Catlins are brothers. Both enlisted in Illinois four years and five months ago. Jobs in civil life have been offered both of them by the same man and they are going to accept them in order to support an invalid sister, Sarah Catlin of Wellington, Ill., who has become dependent upon them since they entered the army. As soldiers they received $16 a month net, which wasn't enough to take care of the sister. As drivers of brick wagons for Alexander Burke of Chicago each will get $2.50 a day and board and clothe himself.

Soldiers Buy Release in Order to Help Sister.

General order No. 4 this year provided a new scale of discharge purchase prices. After one year's service but less than two the price is $120. The lowest figure is $30, the amount for which an enlisted man may secure his release after eleven years' service. The service need not be continuous under the ruling.

Secretary Root, accompanied by his private secretary, arrived in New York this afternoon. Mrs. Root and the secretary's son and daughter, who are to accompany him on his South American tour, are at Southampton, Long Island, and will join Mr. Root in New York tomorrow. The entire party will leave the New York Yacht club in a launch at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for the cruiser Charleston, which is lying at Stapleton, Staten island.

Root Leaves Today for South America.

Before leaving Washington on his trip, which will occupy nearly four months, Mr. Root held an informal reception at the state department and discussed departmental affairs with the assistant secretaries and chiefs of bureaus. After leaving New York tomorrow evening, the Charleston's first stop will be at San Juan, P. R., where Secretary Root will remain from July 8 to July 10. The Charleston will touch at Para, Brazil, on July 15, and, after stopping at Pernambuco and Bahia, will reach Rio Janeiro on July 21, four days after the opening of the Pan-American conference.

An explosion of an overcharged carbonic acid gas tank in a drug store at Coney Island last night frightened thousands of pleasure seekers, badly injured three persons, one of whom probably will die, wrecked the drug store and building, temporarily disabled the telephone service on the island, and sent half a dozen young women operators into the street in a panic.

Three Hurt by Soda Water Tank Explosion.

The excitement following the report caused by the exploding tank was so great that it took the Coney Island police reserves twenty minutes to fight their way through the crowd. Charles Fletcher, a drug clerk who was connecting the tank when it exploded, was so badly injured that there is little hope of his recovery.

Arthur Sichel, a graduate of the university of Michigan law school, who opened a law office last March, was arraigned in the Yorkville police court today charged with defrauding the Fifth Avenue bank out of $800 by means of a forged check. Bank detectives worked on the case nearly three weeks before they arrested Sichel. The prisoner signed the name of F. W. Rhinelander, a millionaire. He got a genuine check from the merchant's desk and traced his signature. The scheme worked so well it was tried a second time for $400 on the Night and Day bank. That also went through. Suspicions of a clerk later led to the prisoner's undoing. Detectives took three weeks to run down the forger.

Woman Mariner Becomes Real Captain.

CAPTAIN JANE MORGAN

Miss Jane Morgan recently was commissioned as a master mariner by the United States board of engineers, and now has full legal authority to command any vessel afloat that happens to be in need of a pilot or captain. Miss Morgan, or "Capt. Jane," is a daughter of Randal Morgan of Philadelphia, owner of the steam yacht Warturus, which is rated one of the finest vessels of its class afloat. A few days ago the Warturus with Mr. Morgan and some friends on board sailed from Philadelphia for a long cruise to the Mediterranean and other points. Capt. Jane Morgan will command the vessel during the trip.

About a year ago Miss Morgan was granted a second class pilot's certificate for the Delaware river and bay. As this did not allow her to sail the Warturus, which is a ship of 610 tons burden, she decided to secure a master mariner's license. In order to get this she took a special course in astronomy, studied ship construction, the mechanism of all nautical instruments, and made herself thoroughly familiar with all the peculiarities of the Atlantic seaboard. She mastered the signal system in use on the high seas and proved her ability to perform all the offices of a master mariner in fair as well as in foul weather. Only five women in the world have been commissioned as master mariners.

WILD CAR KILLS 11 MEN.

SWEEPS DOWN INCLINE, RUNNING DOWN ALL ON TRACK.

Disaster, Which Occurs on Railroad Branch Between Portage and Puritan, Pa., Is Caused by Malicious Person Loosening Brakes — Blood and Particles of Clothes on Wheels Give First Intimation to the Accident.

Altoona, Pa., July 4.—A runaway mine car, flying down a mine branch track that runs from Puritan to Portage, last night reaped a frightful harvest of eleven men killed and several others injured. Some malicious person had loosened the brakes, which permitted the car to speed down the sharp incline. The victims were all foreign laborers.

The car crashed into a number of cars standing west of Portage and was wrecked. An investigation disclosed blood and particles of clothing on the wheels, and several men were sent back over the track to see what had started the car on its wild trip.

Bodies Are Widely Scattered.

The searchers were horrified by seeing the mangled remains of a man lying beside the track and by the time they had arrived at Puritan eleven bodies had been counted.

The victims were returning from Portage, where they had been laying in supplies for the fourth over the branch track, which is the only avenue by which Puritan can be reached. This course is regarded as perfectly safe at night, because no cars are run over it after the mines cease operations for the evening.

Mowed Down in Dark.

Some of the dead, it is said, were under the influence of liquor when they started for home late last night. The track is buttressed on both sides by heavy woods, and the tracks were shrouded in almost impenetrable gloom, making it impossible to see objects at any great distance. Not suspecting any danger, the men were traveling leisurely homeward when they were mowed down by the rapidly moving car as it made its way at terrific speed down the sharp incline.

Officials of the Puritan mine declared this morning their belief that the car was started by strikers, the mines having been started on a nonunion basis several weeks ago.

TRY TO IMPEACH HOST.

ATTORNEYS ATTEMPT TO MUDDLE WISCONSIN COMMISSIONER.

But He Sticks to the Original Story That Secretary of State Houser Did Offer Money to Save an Insurance Company—Declares Latter's Candidacy Had Nothing to Do with Accusation — Clerk Not Allowed to Give Testimony.

Madison, Wis., July 3.—[Special.]—Attempts were made in the municipal court today to impeach the testimony of Insurance Commissioner Host charging Secretary of State Houser with attempted bribery in an insurance case. The first was to impeach his testimony by trying to find differences in his statements, and the second by proving that announcement of the charge was but a political play.

Talks with Houser's Opponent.

Host testified that prior to the accusation and correspondence with Attorney J. L. O'Conner, who brought the evidence before the legislative investigating committee, he talked and corresponded with James A. Frear, candidate for the office of secretary of state against Houser. This led to the announcement of the charge before the insurance legislative investigating committee, of which Frear was chairman.

In reply to a question by District Attorney Gilbert, "Was there any intent on your part to prejudice or injure the candidacy of Houser at the time you made this public before the insurance investigating committee?" Host answered:

"No."

Clerk's Evidence Excluded.

The testimony of Frank H. Bryant, license clerk in Host's office, which tended to confirm Host's statements, was ruled out.

The court ruled that Bryant could not testify on hearsay evidence, but the testimony was read into the record by the presentation of testimony taken by the legislative insurance investigating committee.

Host was put under a grilling crossexamination by Attorney Jones, who sought to impeach his testimony.

Commissioner Host testified in Milwaukee that while examining insurance companies he received $25 a day and expenses. Counsel for Houser led him to the same answer in the trial, but misunderstood Host's answer, interpreting it that Host received $25 a day as expenses.

IDOL OF CIVIL WAR IS DEAD.

Mrs. Mary Binney Sterling, Known to Union Troops at New Orleans, Succumbs.

Melrose, Mass., July 3.—Mrs. Mary Binney Sterling, wife of the Rev. Paul Sterling, rector of Trinity church, and known during the civil war as the idol of the union troops at New Orleans, died today. She had been an invalid for a long time. Mrs. Sterling's father was Nathaniel P. Banks, who was governor of Massachusetts from 1858 to 1861.

CAPT. WILLIAM H. PORTER, who came to Chicago shortly after the civil war, and had resided here almost continuously since then, died last week at Auburn, N. Y., aged 62. He was born at Jordan, N. THAW AND WIFE WEDDED BUT ONCE

Pittsburg Records Show No Previous Marriage Was Performed.

NEW TALES HELP WHITE.

Slayer's Own Detectives Say They Failed to Find Him as Painted.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—[Special.]—Continued assertions by the Thaw family to the effect that Harry Kendall Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit were married in Paris before their marriage in the Third Presbyterian church in this city led to an investigation of the records of the marriage license office today. Following are the facts obtained:

HARRY KENDALL THAW—Born Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 12, 1871. Residence—Pittsburg. Occupation—Proprietor. Married before—No.

EVELYN F. NESBIT—Born Allegheny county, Pa., Dec. 25, 1885. Residence—Pittsburg, Pa. Consent to marriage—Given by Mrs. Evelyn F. Holman, mother of woman.

Applicants not related.

The license was taken out on April 4, 1905. The ceremony was performed the same day by the Rev. Dr. W. L. McKwan, who made a return to the marriage license office.

At the license office today it was said that it is customary when a couple has been previously married to make a statement to that effect. Frequently a couple is married twice on account of religious differences or when previously married and divorced. In such instances a statement of facts to that effect always is made.

White Not as Bad as Painted.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—That detectives employed by Harry K. Thaw who shadowed the late Stanford White for more than two years and a half, were unable to report to their employer that White was guilty of improprieties of any nature whatsoever, although they traced him every hour in the twenty-four, is some of the evidence turned over to District Attorney Jerome today. It is regarded as of the greatest importance in supplying not only proof of the manner in which it is charged Thaw persecuted White but also furnishing ample evidence with which to refute any assertions the defense may make in the coming trial concerning White's conduct, which has been described as so notorious.

Furthermore, it is believed that Thaw's espionage of White began after Evelyn Nesbit, who was not then Thaw's wife, had made certain charges against Thaw and put these charges in the form of an affidavit as the basis of a suit. This threatened suit is said to have been compromised. But Thaw always believed White had instigated the whole matter. And there is evidence to show that an attempt to get evidence that White was guilty of gross immoralities followed soon after Thaw is said to have settled the threatened suit.

Jerome in the Dark.

District Attorney Jerome as yet has not obtained all the facts regarding the affidavit, but it is learned the prosecution is on the track of certain persons cognizant of all the facts. Even the lawyer who is reported to have drawn up the affidavit is known.

Thaw's lawyers say they know nothing about the affidavit. According to one report, Thaw paid money to Miss Nesbit in settlement of her claims. That a known copy of this affidavit is sought by the prosecution is generally understood.

The incident is said to have occurred eighteen months ago. About that time Thaw began to carry a revolver and to shadow White in search of evidence against him.

All reports made by detectives Thaw employed to trail White were turned over to the district attorney today by John E. McKenna, head of the Greater New York detective agency. Detectives began reporting White's daily movements on March 5, 1905. They were still on the job when White was killed. Thaw having instructed them from time to time to keep after White and try to get something against him. Four or five men were employed in the work. Each man made a daily report of his movements.

White Constantly Shadowed.

The detectives picked White up at his house each morning and kept tab on him all day and evening.

Though he occasionally met actresses, according to reports, he was guilty of no improprieties with them and had nothing whatever to do with little girls, as has been reported. No mention is made of Mrs. Thaw. It is evident there was no meeting between the two nor any attempt by White to follow her.

Mrs. Thaw was quoted in several purported interviews as having declared untrue a story of her husband's deceased valet, Bedford, that there was no marriage in London and also as telling how she was preparing for the ordeal she must face. In the afternoon she telephoned Thaw's lawyers and asked them to announce that she had said nothing of the sort and had not given out any interviews whatever.

Mrs. Thaw made another long visit to her husband in the Tombs today. Thaw has settled down to the routine of prison life. He takes a cold sponge bath in the morning, eats a good breakfast, takes a run during the morning exercise hour, and is keeping himself in good condition.

Comstock Has to Back Up.

Anthony Comstock, Thaw's fellow vice chaser, who has been extensively quoted since he let it be known that he and Thaw had worked together for New York's purification, has been forced to deny some statements in which he had been quoted concerning charges against White. Comstock's call down came from the Gerry society in a letter written by President John D. Lindsay, who went over some statements in Comstock interviews. One was that if the society had entertained complaints and got the evidence at hand the killing would have been averted, and that the society had pooh-poohed the charges and had assumed they were not true because of White's standing. Comstock tearfully admitted that his interview was warped and distorted.

Mrs. Thaw Hears News.

LONDON, July 3.—Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry Thaw, learned today for the first time that he had killed Stanford White. After the utmost effort to keep the news from her on board the Minneapolis, which docked this morning, on the wharf, where she was protected from newspaper men by detectives, and on the train hither, on which she had a private compartment with her son-in-law, the earl of Yarmouth, the latter informed her of the affair in the privacy of his residence. Mrs. Thaw bore the news wonderfully.

Although the wireless telegraph informed the Minneapolis of the shooting near Sandy Hook, it was kept from Mrs. Thaw.

TRANSIT LINE LAUNDRY AGENT.

Brooklyn Road Pays for Family Washing Where Back Yards Are Disturbed by Improvements.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—There's joy in Flatbush homes whose backyards rear their fences against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit road. The road for several weeks has been improving the roadbed. It intends to sink its line in a sort of a half tunnel and it has agreed at the beginning of work that should it remove backyard fences and disturb private property to restore them to their original state. A howl of dismay went up from housewives. Where were they going to hang their washing without their backyards?

President Winter in despair ordered that all families whose backyards wash lines have been disturbed temporarily by the company should be informed they could send their laundry out at the road's expense.

Since then such washes have gone forth from backyardless houses as never was heard of even in Brooklyn. They are sending out carpets, lace curtains, and even rubber plants for scouring. And the hired girl is in her glory.

ROOSEVELT TO ARIZONANS

URGES THEM TO COME INTO THE UNION AT ONCE.

President Declares That Unless They Accept Now Chance May Be Lost for Many Years to Come—Holds Up to Them Example of Oklahoma, Indian Territory, and New Mexico—Says He Learned to Love the Territories During Life in West.

Tucson, Ariz., July 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is so anxious for Arizona to become a state that he has written a personal letter to his old friend, Mark A. Rogers, urging the people to vote to be admitted with New Mexico. The president says that he believes if the present opportunity is not seized it may be many years before the opportunity may be had again.

President Roosevelt's letter, which was received today, reads:

"The White House, Washington, D. C., June 27.—Dear Mark A. Rogers, secretary Arizona Statehood association, Tucson, Ariz.—My earnest hope is that the people of the territory of Arizona in their wisdom will decide to enter the union as part of the great state of Arizona. No man can foretell what will happen in the future. But it is my belief that if the people of Arizona let this chance go by they will have to wait many years before the chance again offers itself, and even then it probably will be only on the present terms—that is, on the condition of being joined with New Mexico.

Says Now Is the Time.

"If the people of Arizona come in now they will achieve what every self-respecting American ought to wish to achieve—that is, the right of self-government. If they refuse what is proffered them—and what in my opinion is proffered on the only proper and permissible terms—they condemn themselves to an indefinite continuance of a condition of tutelage.

"I have a peculiar affection for the people of the four territories, which, under the act of congress I shave just signed, now have the opportunity to enter as two states into our federal union. These territories are filled with men and women of the stamp for which I grew to feel so hearty a regard and respect during the years that I myself lived and worked on the great plains and in the Rocky mountains.

Has Their Welfare at Heart.

"It was from these four territories that I raised the regiment with which I took part in the Cuban campaign. Assuredly under no circumstances I would advise the people of these territories to do anything that I considered to be against either their moral or their material wellbeing. I feel that for them now to refuse to come into the union as states would be at the best mere folly.

"Very wisely the people of Oklahoma and Indian territory and, I believe, the people of New Mexico also, have abandoned an attitude which forbade their thus assuming the great privileges and responsibilities of full American citizenship. I cannot express too heartily my hope that the people of Arizona, exercising their sober second thought, will come to look at the matter in the same light.

MAN SLUGGED IN COURT; NECK BROKEN; IS DEAD.

Witness in Breach of Peace Case Is Struck on Jaw—Assailant Escapes, but Wife Is Held Under Arrest.

Cincinnati, O., July 3.—[Special.]—The trial of a trivial breach of the peace case was terminated this afternoon by an assault that resulted in the death of William Holmes, one of the witnesses. The assailant was August Seither, a witness on the other side of the case.

Holmes, who was formerly connected with the city waterworks department, had been called to testify on behalf of his nephew, William Holmes, the defendant. The uncle was leaving the courtroom when Seither, the prosecuting witness, and his wife, who declared Holmes' statements were false, attacked him. Seither struck Holmes a blow on the point of the jaw, which broke Holmes' neck.

Seither escaped. His wife is under arrest.

HARMONY IS HOPE IN HAWKEYE WAR

Campaign in Which Gov. Cummins Has Lead Not Likely to End in Bolt.

PARTY WEAL PUT FIRST.

Railroad Influence, Which Is Fighting Executive, Would Avoid Democratic Success.

BY RAYMOND.

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 3.—[Special.]—From the point of view of a man outside the state it seems likely that Gov. Cummins has won a clear majority of the delegates to the republican state convention, which meets Aug. 1, and that he will receive the nomination unless revolutionary methods are resorted to by the people who are opposing him.

There are plenty of contested counties, but not more than three or four of them where there is any great amount of doubt as to who really was elected. Some of the Cummins men faked up contests and some of the railroad crowd did the same. The state central committee probably has it in its power by arbitrary action to seat all the contesting anti-Cummins men on the temporary roll, which would give them control of the convention and nominally defeat Cummins. In some states this would be a natural thing to expect; in Iowa it is not. The congressional delegation at Washington always has acted in a united manner and has achieved an extraordinary reputation for adjusting all differences.

I have every reason to believe that after the last conventions are held this week the influence of Senator Allison and the rest of the Washington contingent will be used to eliminate all of the faked up contests on both sides, the result of which will be the nomination of Cummins, and that is now really the only thing in sight.

Convention Row Unlikely.

There is too much at stake in Iowa to make it possible that the republican convention will break up in a row. As soon as Senator Allison recovers sufficiently from the strain of his long winter's work and has a chance to consult with the other members of the delegation it is almost certain he will advise—and, in fact, insist upon—some sort of an agreement which will permit Gov. Cummins to receive the nomination if he has earned it on anything like a fair showing. In that event the railroad people probably would insist upon naming most of the railroad commissioners and executive council. The friends of Gov. Cummins say they will not compromise in any such way. They insist upon naming the whole ticket, if it comes to a showdown in the convention.

In spite of this determination, which was repeated to me with great emphasis by half a dozen friends of Gov. Cummins, it is more than likely that the compromise indicated will go through. In point of fact there is some reason to believe that the railroad combination under the skillful leadership of J. W. Blythe long ago realized that it could not beat Cummins, and therefore decided to make a hot fight upon him so as to save the control of the two tribunals of the state which fix railroad rates on local traffic and the entire tax assessment of the railroads for the state of Iowa.

Campaign a Railroad Fight.

There is but little politics and a great deal of business in the situation in Iowa. It has been a railroad fight from the start. A great many men have been drawn into it who were originally good friends. They have been forced to take up with one side or the other, and a vast amount of bad feeling has been the result. The republican party in Iowa today is dangerously split up. The railroad agitation, or rather the attempt at railroad domination, is entirely responsible for this disagreeable condition of affairs.

I do not believe there is any question that if Gov. Cummins is nominated, as now seems almost certain, he will be elected, no matter how strong the opposition to him in his own party. The evil effects, so far as the republicans are concerned, are more remote, but they are far more serious.

The railroad combination which is fighting Cummins will be only too glad to see him beaten, if it could be assured of any way in which it might be done without smashing the rest of the ticket. Unfortunately for their plans, however, no faction fight could be directed so skillfully as to beat Cummins and leave the rest of the ticket intact.

Restless Elements in State.

There are railroad commissioners to be elected in Iowa, and then there are the members of the executive council who fix the assessments on railroad, telegraph, telephone, and interurban lines. The combination of great financial interests, which is being managed now as it has been for so many years by J. W. Blythe, would lose infinitely more by the election of a rabid democratic or third party executive council and railroad commission, than they could possibly do through the opposition of half a dozen such men as Gov. Cummins.

Many people have worked themselves up to the point of view where they believe that Iowa is a solid republican state, which cannot be shaken from its foundations. It is true that it has an unbroken record of republican elections, but it has chosen a fusion governor before this. There are restless elements in Iowa politics which could easily be combined to break up the republican machine there.

Big Changes in Vote.

The state was on the verge of going for silver in the campaign of 1896, and McKinley carried it by an extremely small majority, when one takes into consideration recent votes. It is a mistake to think that Roosevelt's record breaking plurality of 158,766 in 1904 is anything else but a tidal wave basis for comparison. It is a good deal safer to remember that the first time McKinley ran, ten years ago, he carried Iowa by only about 63,000, and Cleveland in 1892 came within 23,000 of winning this republican stronghold. It would not take much of a split in the republican vote to cause the loss of at least one and possibly two or three congressional districts. Any high handed procedure in the state convention next month would not be likely to beat Cummins at the polls, because in that event he surely would receive enough democratic support to elect him.

The effect of a disturbance such as they had in Wisconsin would react upon the state ticket generally, upon the close congressional district, and some of those where the regular candidate had participated in the state fight. Later on there certainly would come a demoralization of the party which might be sufficient to swing the electoral vote of the state away from the republican candidate.

Roosevelt Landslide Explained.

In Iowa, as in a great many other places, the landslide for Roosevelt was not created by the democratic votes which went to him as much as by those which were not cast at all. Few people seem to have stopped long enough to think that Roosevelt's vote in 1904 was almost identical with that of McKinley in 1900. The comparison is remarkable because there was less than 200 difference in favor of Roosevelt as against McKinley, although four years had passed and it was natural to suppose that the growth of population would produce a corresponding increase in the republican vote.

The Roosevelt landslide in Iowa arose from the fact that Parker had almost 50,000 votes in 1904 less than Bryan had in 1900. The people out there, as in other states, have the habit of staying away from the polls when they don't like a man. Party lines are rather strictly drawn and it is not to be expected that any great number of republicans would vote for a democrat for congress or for the presidency, but it would be easy for enough of them to forget to vote next November or two years later to cause the loss of the house of representatives this year or of the presidency in 1908.

There is one congressional district now represented by a republican which is normally democratic and which was cut out as such when the state was apportioned. This was carried in 1904 on the strength of the Roosevelt landslide by Representative A. F. Dawson, one of the brightest young republicans in the state, who previously had been the secretary to Senator Allison.

Anything approaching a serious split in the party this year will cause a loss in that district, because there will be enough disaffected republicans who would stay at home to swing the district back to its old bearings. Dawson scraped into the house of representatives by an official plurality of only 186, after a splendid campaign, in which he canvassed the whole district thoroughly, being aided as he was by the democratic distrust of Parker.

There are two other congressional districts in Iowa which will be seriously affected unless the delegation steps in and patches up a truce so that there will be no unseemly proceedings at the state convention. There are three counties where there are legitimate contests, and possibly only three counties in the state. Unfortunately they are all in districts which are peculiarly affected by the bitter war made upon Cummins at the instance of the railroad combination.

Lacey in Storm Center.

Two of these counties, Wapello and Jasper, are in the Sixth district, which is represented by Gen. Lacey of Oskaloosa. He had behind him in the last election a nominal majority of 10,000. He has, however, taken an active part in the bitter factional fight in the state, and if the contests in the two counties of his district are settled in a way which does not appear to be square it might be possible to retire Gen. Lacey from congress, which would be a great misfortune to Iowa and to the country at large, as he is an intelligent, upright, painstaking, and industrious member of the house of representatives.

Then there is the Burlington district, from which Thomas Hedge is now serving his fourth term. It is a district which ought to be republican under ordinary conditions, and Mr. Hedge is a good candidate. Last time, under the benign influence of the Roosevelt landslide, he had behind him a majority of 5,000. The is now, however, a contest over the delegates from Jefferson county, one of the strongholds of his district. Unwise counsels or a deliberate determination to beat Cummins at all costs would result in such a split not only in Jefferson county, where the conditions are already critical, but in surrounding counties as well, as to result in the almost certain loss of the district.

CUMMINS REPLIES TO PERKINS.

Governor Declines to Submit Question of Contests to National Committee —Urges Party Harmony.

Des Moines, Ia., July 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Cummins has replied to the letter of George D. Perkins to the effect that the bitter contest for the gubernatorial nomination virtually has been decided against the executive and that, in order to promote party welfare, the governor should not persist in a policy that threatens to bring dishonor. Gov. Cummins asserts strongly that he has a safe majority of the delegates and is willing to leave the matter in their hands.

The governor declines to submit the controversy over contests to the national committee on the ground that the matter is one for the delegates to determine. He says the practice if adopted would be full of discord. The governor says:

"You and I, at least, should discourage with all the influence we have the suggestion that a republican convention, however earnest, will, either in its nominations or in its platform, give any republican good reason for the repudiation of his ticket. I have too much faith in the wisdom and fairness of my fellow republicans to allow a little feeling, developed here and there in the campaign, to shake my belief in the sober second thought of our people. I know that the campaign has been intense, but reason has not been driven from the seat of judgment, and the convention will be prompt to recognize the principle that it is the privilege of the majority to decide, and the duty of the minority to acquiesce.

Claims Safe Majority.

"I cannot concur in your statement that the preconvention struggle has not resulted in a clear settlement of the controversy, so far as the nomination for governor is concerned. I would not be candid were I not to say to you that, from my point of view, excluding every contest for which there is even the semblance of foundation, and without reckoning the two counties yet to hold conventions, I have more than fifty votes above a majority of the whole number of delegates in the convention. I refuse utterly to believe that the republicans of this state will tolerate, or that you will approve, the appearance in the convention of contestants from such counties as Scott, Delaware, Carroll, and Audubon, or that you will give any support to the extraordinary proposal that Polk county should be disfranchised because its convention conferred upon me the right to select its delegates; or that other counties should be rejected because they happened to hold their conventions prior to the issuance of the call for the state convention.

"I feel that you are sincere when you say that you do not want a nomination involving a doubtful title. Is it possible, then, that you would accept the cotes of the counties I have named, or take a nomination from a convention that had refused Polk county the right of representation, or that had expelled the delegates from other counties on account of the time at which their delegates were chosen.

Would Promote Harmony.

"Believing that it would be unwise to adopt your suggestion, I am still heartily in accord with your desire to promote the strength and harmony of the party. I want the convention to do its work in the time honored way, and although I cannot agree to the withdrawal of any part of its responsibility, there is a method through which you and I can allay much of the bitterness to which you refer and insure a convention that will be full of enthusiasm, and begin a campaign that will end in a complete victory in November.

"Let us from this time forward put away the thought that the convention will be unfair. Let us stamp out the idea that it may terminate in disunion. Let us make our friends and followers understand that we will not resort to technicalities of procedure, and that the delegates who have been selected by a majority of the republican voters, in substantial compliance with the custom of the party, shall take their seats unvexed by opposition. In this way you and I can render good service to the party, and can remove every trace of ill feeling that has been aroused."

WILEY IS TESTING ICEHOUSES.

United States Chief Chemist Puts 150 Broilers in Cold Storage to See the Result.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, today had put into cold storage 150 broilers as the first step toward an investigation of the effect of cold storage on food products. Half of the broilers were drawn and half undrawn. Within the next five or six months they will be cooked and tested.

The department has completed an investigation of the effect on fruit of freezing. It has been disclosed that cold storage improves all kinds of fruit for the first four or five months, but after that time it deteriorates rapidly.

Dr. Wiley believes he can secure just as accurate information concerning meat and other food products.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—There was an echo of the packing house investigations in Fargo today when Manager Sirrs of Armour & Co.'s local offices, was arrested on complaint of Meat Inspector Dunham, charged with selling "unwholesome and putrid" meats to the meat market operated by P. H. Donahue.

Lucky Chicagoan Off for Billings.

JOHN SCHWARTZ

John Schwartz, 2505 North Harding avenue, declared himself the luckiest and happiest man in Chicago yesterday. While coming to work Mr. Schwartz read in THE TRIBUNE that he had drawn the third number in the lottery for government claims at Billings, Mont. He left for Billings last night to "prove up" on his claim.

"I registered at Billings two weeks ago today, just for the fun of the thing," said Mr. Schwartz, "who is a traveling salesman for Kling Bros. & Co., 282 Fifth avenue. "I was in Billings on business, together with five other Chicago salesmen, when one of them suggested that we register. We all did so, but I had about forgotten about it."

Mr. Schwartz stated that a real estate firm had offered $25,000 for draw No. 1, and from $12,000 to $15,000 for the second and third. There are some valuable mineral lands in the reservation.

UNIONS WANT TO TAKE PART IN THE INSPECTION OF MEATS.

Through President Michael Donnelly Proposition Is Submitted to Heads of Several Packing Establishments.

The unions of the stockyards now desire to take a hand in the inspection of meat in the packing plants, and through President Michael Donnelly of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen yesterday submitted their plan to several of the heads of the packing establishments.

It was proposed that the unions be held responsible for the purity of the products. President Donnelly explained that this might be accomplished by stamping the meats with a label to be affixed by the workmen who had a share in the killing and dressing of the carcasses. He cited experiments which he said had been tried successfully at Evansville, Ind.

A committee of union workmen will make another call on the packers soon to learn the answer to the proposal. None of the officials of the packing companies would discuss the plan of President Donnelly.

The Chicago unions will decide in a few days whether to held a Labor day parade this year. Strong sentiment has developed in favor of abolishing the annual event, and the matter may be submitted to a referendum vote.

PRAISES RESTAURANT LAW.

Whalen Declares Ordinance, Which He Expects Mayor to Sign, Will Do Much Good.

Health Commissioner Whalen was jubilant yesterday over the passage by the city council Monday night of his ordinance licensing and regulating restaurants. It means a big step, he said, in the direction of health and sanitation. He expects Mayor Dunne to sign it.

This ordinance provides that every individual desiring to run a restaurant must apply to the commissioner of health for a permit, filling out an application blank describing fully the premises and his arrangements for cooking, storing, and serving food. The license is issued solely at the commissioner's discretion.

This application is verified by inspectors from the department and a license issued on the payment of a graduated fee based on $15 for a full year. Failure to keep the surroundings up to the sanitary and pure food standards required by the department may mean the forfeiture of the permit, at the mayor's discretion.

The work of inspecting the bakeries of the city is being carefully mapped out by Chief Sanitary Inspector Hedrick in anticipation of the time when his department can turn its attention, for a moment, from the stockyards. At present his entire staff is absorbed in supervising the installation of improved conditions in the packing houses, but will be able to take up the other work shortly.

"Publicity will be our greatest weapon in this bakery crusade," said the chief inspector. "The attention paid by THE TRIBUNE this morning to the work already accomplished has probably startled a thousand bakers into action. They will get busy now scrubbing out their places and giving walls and ceilings coats of lime wash."

Won't Miss Alcohol Tax.

"With our extraordinary production and increase in revenue the condition was such that, in the judgment of congress—which of course includes the executive (by the way, the president is a coördinate branch of congress)—we could dispense with a portion of our revenue which came from the taxation of alcohol used in the arts. Just how much the revenues will be affected through the inauguration of free alcohol is impossible at this time to state, although the maximum of production, in my judgement, will not make our revenues short to meet the expenses of the government. I believe this law will be a great relief to all the people, not only the farmers who raise the corn that makes the alcohol, the grower of meats, whose product goes into the manufacture of sugar with a by product of alcohol, but also to the user of alcohol, the manufacturer, the producer who requires cheap light and power.

"Then we enacted legislation doubling the appropriation for agricultural experiment stations, which have been so useful to those engaged in agriculture.

"We also enacted legislation for the reorganization of the naval militia, and doubled the permanent annual appropriation for the national guard, making it a permanent appropriation of $2,000,000 instead of $1,000,000.

"After thorough consideration we also passed an act fixing the type of the isthmian canal, providing for a lock canal rather than a sea level canal, for it clearly was the consensus of opinion of the best engineering talent of the United States from every point that a lock type was preferable. In the meantime sanitation on the isthmus has been industriously promoted, and I am satisfied that, the type of canal having been settled, the construction of the waterway will proceed with vigor."

Livingston Charges Waste.

Representative Livingston of Georgia, who is the leading democratic member of the appropriation committee, charged this morning that the republicans had been wasteful with public moneys and that they were using extravagance as a cloak for their more "objectionable purpose of retaining a high protective tariff to favor the trust combinations of manufacturers of the country."

Speaker Cannon's statement to THE TRIBUNE correspondent was made in the presence of Representative Overstreet of Indiana.

"I doubt," Representative Overstreet suggested to the speaker, "if there has been a session of any congress in which appropriations have been as sharply scrutinized."

"Yes," assented the speaker, "that is true.

"The money in the treasury must be devoted by appropriation to the public service. Excluding the permanent appropriation, the amount appropriated during the last session aggregated $740,000,000. Every item involved industrious examination by all the committees preparing the appropriation bills. Such measures have never been more carefully prepared than during the session just adjourned. They originated in the house and their consideration in the committee of the whole, and in the house itself took more than 100 days of the session. Outside of the 100 days' actual consideration on the floor of the house, the preparation of bills involved committee hearings which cover 15,000 printed pages."

Cannon on Trust Busting.

The speaker was asked to say something about the activity of the government in curbing the illegal policies of corporations.

"Under our form of government," he responded, "we have the executive, the legislature, and the judiciary. The judiciary only acts when cases are laid before it. It is the province of the legislature to enact needed legislation. It is the province of the executive to see to it that the laws are enforced.

"Never in the history of our country has the judiciary rendered more important service than in the last twelve months, when the executive, in its enforcement of the laws, presented numerous cases to it for decision. If no other cases had been decided than those against the Chesapeake and Ohio, the New Haven, the Tobacco and the Northwestern Paper trust companies, the judiciary would be entitled to dwell in the history of the country as having contributed more than its share to the welfare of all the people."

Speaker Sure of Success.

The speaker stopped a moment to relight his omnipresent cigar and concluded:

"You asked me in the beginning whether I have any fear touching the success of the republican party at the polls in November next. I have answered by referring to what has been achieved—and in my judgment wisely achieved. The citizenship of the republic is competent for self-government. With what they have done the representatives in congress have a right to go back to their respective constituencies and expect with confidence an indorsement of their work and a renewal of their powers of attorney for the Sixtieth congress. The party in power is responsible for legislation and administration. We do not shirk responsibility, but instead feel we are entitled to the verdict of 'well done, good and faithful servant.'

"There is nothing perfect in human affairs. But I have no hesitation in saying that under the present administration and with the legislation enacted during the last session, no session of congress held since the formation of the government ever brought better results to the people than the one just closed."

"ONLY HOPE IS IN ROOSEVELT."

La Follette Says the President Is the One Man Who Can Defeat Bryan in 1908.

Madison, Wis., July 3.—[Special.]—That Theodore Roosevelt is the only man who can beat William Jennings Bryan, is the opinion of Senator Robert M. La Follette. La Follette is loud in the praise of President Roosevelt.

"He is doing splendid work," he said. "He may be creating new prerogatives, but, with so many others violating theirs, the people will uphold him while he is fighting their battles.

"As things stand in this year, Roosevelt is the only man who could defeat Bryan. Two years from now conditions may change."

ALTON RAILROAD ON REBATE RACK.

Company and Former Officials Put on Trial Before Federal Judge Landis.

ONE WITNESS EXAMINED.

Question Then Raised for Decision by Court as to Whether Road's Act Violated the Law.

After nearly a whole day of exhaustive arguments over the legal question of what constitutes a rebate and whether the indictment in the case at bar covers an illegal practice on the part of the Chicago and Alton and its two former officials, J. N. Faithorn and F. A. Wann, Judge Landis was unable to reach a decision yesterday, and the case has gone over until Thursday.

The attorneys and the court are groping their way through an entirely new field of research, and there is a dearth of authorities bearing upon this direct question. It kept the attorneys for both sides busy yesterday trying to find satisfactory answers for the pertinent queries of the court.

S. & S. Witness Reticent.

There was some testimony in the morning, that of B. S. Cusey, traffic manager of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company, who, although put on as a government witness, showed great reluctance in answering the questions of District Attorney Morrison, while his memory was notably fresh and clear when questioned by the railroad attorneys, and he answered them promptly.

"Mr. Witness, you must answer the questions of Attorney Morrison with the same alacrity that you display in giving information to Mr. Payne and Mr. Shaw. Your company is not on trial; there is no reason why you should be backward," said Judge Landis, tiring of Mr. Cusey's palpable attempts to evade certain questions.

The witness testified regarding the settlement he made with Mr. Faithorn, who was then vice president of the Alton, of certain damage claims, amounting to $65,000, which he said he settled for $10,000, and the return of certain passenger fares paid by employés of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company.

"By whom were those passenger fares paid?"

"By various employés, inspectors, mechanics, men looking after the cars, and superintendents," he replied.

Cusey Shows Poor Memory.

"Did you ask the return of railroad fares paid by your traveling salesmen?" asked Attorney Morrison.

"I do not remember."

"Did you ask for the return of fares paid by any other men except those directly engaged in looking after shipments and cars en route?" he was asked.

"I do not remember."

"Well, haven't you repeatedly testified that your traveling salesmen who solicited in the territory along the Alton had their fares returned?" asked Mr. Morrison.

"I do not remember. I don't think we have any men who solicit along that road."

"Well, can you remember if you asked for the return of fares paid by yourself?"

"Yes, I did."

"And are you connected with the superintendence or inspection of cars en route?" asked Mr. Morrison.

"Well, I am supposed to have charge of the traffic of the company."

"Strike out the answer," said the court, sharply. Turning to the witness, he said: "Answer that question direct."

"No, sir."

It was then that the court took occasion to reprimand Mr. Cusey for the way he was answering questions.

Claim Money Paid for Rental.

It is the contention of the railroad attorneys that the Alton road only paid to Schwarzschild & Sulzberger a reasonable rate for using their mile and a half track connecting their plant with the belt road.

It is the contention of the government that, no matter whether the amount was reasonable or not, the mere fact that the tracks were owned by Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and that the Alton railroad did not publish in its tariff the fact it was repaying $1 a car, unknown to other shippers, constitutes a rebate. The arguments were on this point, and they came after the defense had made a motion for the court to instruct the jury to find them not guilty. If the court overrules this motion on Thursday, then both sides have a number of witnesses to put on.

Win Fight for Prorating.

After the independent oil dealers had made a strong plea before the Western Trunk line committee and had gone away, assured that the western lines would resume the practice of prorating on oil with the eastern roads, one road balked, and thought to hold up the independent oil men. They have secured another road which will resume prorating, with the result that oil will be forced into line.

FIELD ESTATE BUYS A SITE.

Secures Portion of Property Occupied by the Auditorium Hotel from Martha S. Hill.

The Marshall Field estate, through the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, has bought from Martha S. Hill the property at 229 Michigan avenue comprising a part of the site of the Auditorium Annex and under a ninety-nine year lease to the Congress Hotel company at an annual rental of $5,000. The consideration was $125,000, which made the sale on a 4 per cent basis. The sale was made by R. D. Hill & Co. in connection with Charles H. Hill.

Peabody, Houghteling & Co., in connection with George A. Seaverns Jr., sold to the Old People's Home the block bounded by Fiftieth court, Fifty-first street, Vincennes avenue, and Washington Park place, for $47,500 cash.

Ferguson Bros., dealers in cloaks and suits at 888-890 Milwaukee avenue, have just closed the purchase of the property from Lackner & Butz for $57,000. A three story store building occupies a part of the lot while the old natatorium is in the rear.

Montgomery Ward & Co. have secured a loan of $2,000,000 from the First Trust and Savings bank for the purpose of building the new plant on the north branch. The loan runs ten years at 5 per cent.

William T. Woodley has sold to Annie R. Reddich the property at 900-902 East Sixtieth street for $24,500.

NO MOVE AGAINST TRADERS'.

Lawyer for Insurance Company Declares No Petition to Remove B. L. Smith Has Been Filed.

A report from San Francisco that policyholders in the Traders' Insurance company had petitioned the Illinois Supreme court for the removal of Byron L. Smith as receiver on the ground of his alleged partiality for the company was characterized as foolish yesterday by one of the attorneys representing the Traders'.

"Such a petition," said he, "would have to be made in the court of Judge Mack, who appointed Mr. Smith. We have heard nothing of such a proceeding."

Another report from Frisco was to the effect that the Traders' had moved their office in that city and that Receiver Smith had sent notices to policy holders asking for a settlement on a new basis.

"The office was moved," said the attorney, "for convenience. Mr. Smith has sent out no such notices. There can be no settlement with a single policy holder without the approval of the court."

Will Disposes of $75,000.

The will of Philip Kussel, a former South Water street merchant, which was filed in Probate court yesterday, disposed of property worth $75,000. Four-fifths of the estate was left to Mrs. Margaret Kasgebens of Hoboken, N. J., a sister of the testator, while the remaining fifth was left to a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Kussel, of Buckley, Ill.

M'DONOUGH OR MUSHAM MAY BE DUNNE'S APPOINTEE.

Mayor Says He Has Not Yet Decided Whom to Name as Campion's Successor at Head of Fire Department.

Mayor Dunne said last night that he had not yet decided on a successor for Chief Fire Marshal Campion and did not know when he would decide. The appointment, however, is expected by next Monday evening.

"I have not yet made up my mind," said the mayor. "I will have to talk with some people first."

The city hall gossip was that Acting Chief McDonough may be named after all. The advocates of the double platoon system are insisting on his selection and pointing out that after the heavy majority for the mayor at the last council meeting when Marshal Campion was removed he can name anybody he wants. Failing McDonough, the double platooners are asking for the appointment of John Mahoney, chief of the Tenth battalion.

There was a story started, which received considerable credence, that ex-Chief Musham would be the selection. It is known that Musham has never taken kindly to his retirement. He has been active in support of the double platoon system of late and was one of the people seeking the retirement of Campion.

It is reported in the department that First Assistant Marshal Horan is not anxious for the appointment and Second Assistant Seyferlich will not have it. As they look at it the fire department is now so far in politics that a chief cannot look for a longer tenure than the term of the mayor who appoints him.

COL. BURKE BACK AT DESK

MERIT BOARD FINDS HE WAS VICTIM OF SYSTEM.

Restored Harbor Engineer Says Suspension Was All a Mistake, That the Public Thought Him an Official of Importance, Whereas His Duties Really Are Those of a Departmental Subordinate—O'Connell Confirms This View of the Matter.

Col. Ricard O'Sullivan Burke, placid guardian of Chicago's river and water front, whiled away the afternoon yesterday in the peace that envelops a vindicated man.

For it happened, shortly after dinner, that the civil service commission, bringing to a close seven long months of investigation into the charges that the harbor engineer was incompetent and neglectful of his duty, had concluded in a burst of philosophy that the colonel was merely a "victim" of the "system" that crushed the city hall.

As such he could hardly be punished and so was put back with the "system."

All afternoon he swung contentedly in his swivel chair, his desk overflowing with dusty colored correspondence, while black alpaca coated clerks popped in to congratulate him on his "vindication" and restoration to a $2,100 a year job.

Burke Sums Up the Matter.

"My whole trouble," he said with an air of dignity, "originates from and is due to the persistent idea in the mind of the public that I am a personage of importance.

"As a matter of fact, I am not; quite the contrary. I am a departmental subordinate, taking and receiving orders from my superiors, Mr. O'Connell, the commissioner of public works, and Mr. Pihlfeldt, the bridge engineer."

Commissioner O'Connell confirmed the report that the colonel had been "relieved" of his more onerous duties, such as jousting with "greedy corporations."

"All we want him to do," he said, "is to keep a general eye on the docks and see that no one builds any without a permit from the city."

But it was roses, roses all the way for the jocund colonel during the hour with the civil service commission when President Errant read an opinion exculpating Burke from the charges filed last August.

Decision of Merit Board.

"The evidence throughout," he summed up, "discloses laxity and indifference to most important questions on the part of subordinate and higher officials whose department was charged with the interests relating to the harbor. Such laxity and indifference breeds laxity and indifference in the employés.

"At all events, in the midst of conditions complicated by unsettled questions of jurisdiction, laxity and indifference on the part of higher officials, the playing of politics by persons in official positions, and the influences of the 'pull,' sometimes still active, we cannot in conscience hold Col. Burke responsible for all the conditions disclosed."

HOW THE GERMANS DO IT.

The bureau of statistics of the German empire is busy just now with the subject of automobiles. Since the first of April a record has been kept of every accident which had any connection with automobiles. The place, the cause, the local law, the action of the local authorities, the nature of the accident, and every other detail of interest has been the subject of inquiry. The intention of the imperial government is to use this material as the basis of a law which shall be uniform for the whole empire, and which shall prohibit every practice which is shown to be likely to result in disaster. A penalty which shall be adequately severe will secure conformity with the law. In this way the government hopes to protect the lives of its people without sacrificing any of the material interests bound up in the manufacture and sale of automobiles.

This German procedure shows an improvement upon either of the two methods of lawmaking in vogue in this country. Here the usual practice is to make a law and then, if it is not declared unconstitutional, find out by experience what its defects are. If there appear to be grave objections to any feature of it, it depends upon the temper of the local authorities whether the law is allowed to become a dead letter, or is enforced until another session of the legislative body repeals it. Sometimes there are faults which any one familiar with the situation might have pointed out from the first, but which are overlooked by theorists. At other times special interests as represented in the third house modify the measure without regard to the general interests represented in the two legally constituted houses.

The other method is to name a commission to investigate, with or without authority to compel the furnishing of the information required. This commission, not being a permanent or experienced body, may acquire information of value or may not. In either case the legislative body disregards the recommendation of the commission quite as often as its accepts it. The governor or the president may bring pressure to bear to secure the adoption of a law, but this pressure is more apt to take the form of the use of patronage than the force of undeniable tabulated statistics.

The German method is not entirely unknown in this country, but it is less frequently used than it might be profitably. A law based upon experience, not upon guesswork, is more effective, more respected, and more frequently enforced.

A NEW REVOLT AGAINST GEORGE III.

Right on the eve of the 130th anniversary of the declaration of independence comes tidings of a fresh revolt against George III. This time the outbreak is in Ireland, where the Dublin corporation has voted to remove from the hall of the municipal buildings the statue of George III. The mover of the resolution, Ald. Kelly, is reported as saying that the statue was not a work of artistic merit, was not executed by an Irishman but by a Dutchman, and was untrue to facts in representing the king as a Roman Highlander.

The episode recalls an earlier attack upon a statue of this monarch. The king was alive then, not dead as now, and those who were discontented with the statue which stood in the green in New York pulled it from its pedestal. Then, instead of relegating it to the limbo of the unartistic, where the noble form of our own Christopher Columbus was sent by discontented Chicago citizens, seeing that it was made of lead they made use of it for the more noble and glorious purpose of American independence by carrying it off to Litchfield in Connecticut. There, with the aid of some of the good dames of the town, it was converted into bullets to be fired at the soldiers and hired minions of the hated monarch.

Poor old George III. suffered much in his lifetime, and it seems a trifle unfortunate that years after his death he should again be attacked in this way, and his monument be removed from public sight. No one is safe these days no matter how long he may have been in his grave. It is highly unlikely that George will care much for this affront in Dublin or that his long rest will be disturbed any more than Roger Williams cared when the legislature of Massachusetts, a few years ago, revoked the sentence of banishment against him. Both men will be judged in the light of history, and their memory will be sweet or odious, as will that of any other public man, not because of any statues or memorials but because of their achievements or failings during lifetime.

George III. had his chance more than a century ago. He failed to measure up to that standard of greatness which would have enabled him to retain the confidence of the American colonists and preserve his growing empire unbroken. Whether the Dublin folks care for his alleged likeness or not the American opinion of his form as it stands out distinct in history is perfectly clear. His administration was not a work of artistic merit, nor was the garb he wore that which stamped him as a true king of all his subjects. So the average American will be glad to join the Irish aldermen in their cry, "Down with King George."

THE LARGER INDEPENDENCE.

In a recently published volume entitled, "War Government, Federal and State," Mr. William B. Weeden has gathered together thoughts as suggestive as those to be found in any study of the place and power of the government of the United States. The title indicates the main discussion, the interplay of the authority of the union and the state in a time of national crisis, but there is a subordinate idea whose expression perhaps illustrates the greatest advance which has been made in the 130 years of American experiment in government, since the Declaration of Independence was promulgated.

That the central government has increased in power at a wonderful rate goes without saying. The reserved rights of the states are little heard of nowadays. Even the checks and balances of the constitution have worked out in the years in an entirely different manner than was expected at the beginning. The threefold division of the government into coordinate branches of equal importance, the executive, the legislative, and the judicial, does not appear at all as it did in 1789. The president has gained tremendously, his power helped forward materially by the exigencies of war, but, even in peace times, growing in a remarkable way. The Supreme court and the legislative branch likewise are far ahead of where they were at the beginning, and when the three are taken together it is apparent to any one that, for a popular government so-called, the power of the central authority at Washington is practically unbounded.

At the same time another transformation has been effected just as remarkable in its way as is that of the centralization of power in a once loosely federated state. Despite the increasing influence of the government, the people have gained with every recurrence of Independence day. At the beginning they had little freedom. They were held in check by elements distinctly aristocratic, which made their influence felt in constitutions and in laws. The few ruled the many in more than one state. The better class, as it was called, gave all its influence in favor of centralization of power in the hands of the few and against the recognition of the rights of the multitude. But if increased centralization worked steadily against the state rights idea, it moved no faster than did the development of the power of the individual citizen. Before the first century was half gone the individual was everything and no man needed a stronger argument for his advancement than that he had risen from the ranks of the people, making by worth his merit known. The people gave to their trusted leaders, to Washington, to Jefferson, to Jackson, to Lincoln, all the arbitrary power they needed. No bugbear of centralized authority ever frightened them when they believed in the individual over them. But, instead of losing by the centralization in often what was practically one man rule, the people have steadily gained greater liberty, until the individual in the United States has more power than any other land has ever seen. It is the strange interplay of these two forces of centralization and individualism which has been the most marked feature of the nation's life. It is the independence of the individual which is the greatest result suggested by the fourth of July rather than the independence of the nation.

CIVIL SERVICE IN ABEYANCE.

Mayor Dunne, a professed friend of the merit system, has refused to retain Mr. Errant on the city civil service commission. That gentleman is a warm believer in the civil service principle. He has done his best to guard it from the assaults of the spoilsmen. He has been in office some time. He understands the law he has had to administer, and is familiar with all the tricks and devices which have been invented to get around it. He has been an efficient commissioner.

Mayor Dunne's attitude towards the merit system appears to resemble that of the New Hampshire statesman who was in favor of the prohibition law, but opposed to its enforcement. The mayor has refused to keep in office a man who tried to enforce the civil service law, and has put in his place a man who has the practical politician's contempt for everything which smacks of reform. Mr. Wenter, who succeeds Mr. Errant, was not appointed because of his zeal or experience as a civil service reformer but because he was the manager of the mayor's campaign. For over a year the politicians have been wondering what would be done for Mr. Wenter. He has been talked of for commissioner of public works and for one or two minor places. At last he has been taken care of. It is well with him, but it is not well with the civil service law. The commission as it is now constituted will be anything but alert and aggressive.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The council committee which investigated the charges against Campion reported that they were unfounded and recommended that he be reinstated. There are few aldermen who do not believe at heart that the charges are baseless, and a mere pretext for the removal of an old and faithful public servant. Nevertheless, a majority of the aldermen, while professing the highest respect for Campion, voted to sustain the mayor. Some of them said they did so with reluctance only out of what they called a sense of duty to the mayor. Their "sense of duty" would have been less strong if the mayor had been less profuse in blandishments, appeals, and promises.

The matter is closed so far as Campion is concerned. He has lost his place, but not his character. He has not cut a discreditable figure in the controversy. That cannot be said for the mayor or the majority of the aldermen. They have behaved shabbily.

The next question is: Who is to be put at the head of the fire department? The council has acquiesced in the removal of one good man. It is its duty to prevent the putting of an unsatisfactory man in his place. It was argued by some of the mayor's supporters that he had the right to change his heads of departments at will. They may argue when the mayor nominates a marshal next week that it is the duty of the council to confirm him, no matter who he may be. If the council were to act on that theory it would shirk its duty. The provision that the heads of departments must be confirmed by the council does not mean that it must say "ditto" when the mayor sends in a name. It means that the council should exercise its independent judgment and reject a nominee whom it does not consider fit.

If the mayor shall make a satisfactory nomination next Monday the council should ratify it. If he should not do so the council should postpone its summer adjournment until a satisfactory nomination has been made. An "acting marshal," in whom few have confidence, has been in charge of the department long enough and ought not to be permitted to hang on during the vacation season.

MINOR TASKS OF CONGRESS.

The session of congress just ended is notable for a long list of important measures considered and passed. This phase of the activity of congress is familiar through the daily press. Yet when one pauses to consider the vast amount of petty work which congress must engage in, which is known only through the pages of the Congressional Record, because none of it is worth telegraphing, the wonder is not that congress has sometimes seemed dilatory but that it has been able to accomplish anything like the work it does.

The congress of the United States is not only the place where representatives of the people and representatives of the sovereign states meet for deliberation about the affairs of the union; it is also the common council, or board of aldermen, as well as the board of education and every other governing body of the District of Columbia and the city of Washington. It has always been the board of guardians or trustees of the public lands and the public wards in the territories. The records show that these duties are taken seriously, and matters of interest to only a few people are considered from the standpoint of the responsibility of congress instead of being forced to wait till legislation affecting the whole people has been enacted.

Congress has been spoken of as if governed and governing through committees. The last session shows that this is not strictly true either in large or small affairs. While a remarkable degree of independence has been shown in the discussion of bills important to the nation, there has been no tendency to leave to committees the settlement of minor points in minor measures. The salary list for the public school teachers and employés in Washington was debated at as great length as if congress had nothing else to do. The price of a horse needed for a government employé in a territory caused a good deal of wise comment. Bills have been introduced and debated concerning permission to an Indian to alienate land which was, under a former law, inalienable. A grant to the preparatory school of the University of Oklahoma of a section of public land adjoining the town of Tonkawa, with permission to retain what was suitable for school purposes and to sell the rest, required a spirited debate, equaling in length the debate on the public buildings bill, which appropriated more than twenty-one million dollars for buildings throughout the country.

The British parliament has intrusted many of its duties to newly created boards, but still is obliged to spend much time on matters of purely local or personal interest. The American congress will be relieved of many of its tasks when all the territories have become states, but the District of Columbia will continue to afford an opportunity for the exercise of parochial sagacity by the legislators of the nation. They scrutinize appropriations for district purposes far more closely than Chicago aldermen do those for city purposes.

CHEER up. This is only the beginning.

IT may be an hour yet before the surgeons and the firemen begin to get busy.

AS TO the funeral processions, they will not begin to move for at least a day or two.

DO THE people who enjoy this way of celebrating the nation's birthday constitute a majority?

SMOOT has escaped again. The senate was so busy with more important matters that it failed to get around to his case.

FINAL directions: Keep the wounds open and send at once for a surgeon.

IT would be unjust, upon the whole, to infer that the weather man gave Capt. Comiskey the wrong tip in order to save the Sox from another defeat.

THE trolley poles and wires are going up with a feverish celerity indicative of a desperate resolve to have the work done before the city council can have time to change its mind.

THERE is no danger of Vice President Fairbanks getting hot over President Roosevelt's proposed visit to Panama.

THE bakers will take notice that their case comes next. They are expected to make a radical cleaning up. As a good start in this direction they should be willing to wash their hands, arms, and faces a little oftener.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Woes of the House Hunter.

"Mrs. Newcome, have you shot the chutes since you came to town?"

"Not yet. I've put in all my time flatting the flats."

Told in Confidence.

Fresh Guest—"Yours seems to be a favorite resort for summer girls."

Landlord—"You bet! Over there is a couple of 'em that's been coming here for ten or fifteen summers."

The Unfitness of Things.

"Everything you buy is adulterated nowadays," grumbled old Pessim, "except the stuff they put in cannon crackers and other infernal machines. That gets stronger every year."

One Kind.

Teacher—"Miss Badger, what do you understand by 'the privileged classes'?"

Coed—"The botany classes. They can go out in the woods once in a while."

Complimentary.

There were several young women in the party, and they had inspected the office of the metropolitan newspaper from the ground floor to the proofroom.

"Beg pardon, madam, but are you looking for anybody?" asked one of the editorial assistants, addressing the tall, self-possessed young woman who seemed to be the leader.

"O, no, thanks," she said. "We're just doing a little slumming, that's all."

One Convert.

Dick—"I know that man. He goes around telling people where to dig for water. By the way, do you believe in this witch hazel superstition?"

Rick—"I do. The most charming, tantalizing little witch I know of is named Hazel."

More Important.

Park visitor—"Officer, can't you make these automobiles go a little slower through here? They've knocked down two little girls and nearly scared the life out of a dozen others."

Park policeman (with offended dignity)—"Madam, I've got to kape the b'ys fr'm throwin' stones at th' swans an' pickin' flowers fr'm th' s'rubbery." C. W. T.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

IN order to appreciate the extent of the degradation to which the czar has subjected the Preobrajensky regiment for disloyalty and treason by reducing it to the state of an ordinary regiment of the line, it is necessary to explain that the corps in question was emphatically the emperor's own. It outranked every other in the Russian army, of which it was without exception the crack regiment. Its colonel in chief was the czar. He commanded it during the lifetime of his father, and until the other day invariably wore its uniform with his father's cipher on his epaulets and shoulder straps. It was the first regiment of the Muscovite army to be organized in European fashion, and was formed by Peter the Great when still a 16 year old boy, with the help of his French tutor, Lefort. It was with the assistance of the corps thus formed that Peter the Great secured possession of the Russian throne, which had been usurped by his elder sister, the Grand Duchess Sophia, on the ground that their elder brother, Ivan, was an imbecile and incapable of reigning.

The uniform of the regiment is not at all showy, but effective. It consists of a dark green, double breasted tunic, buttoning over to the left shoulder, and showing a narrow white edging, red cuffs, red collar, and facings. Red cloth shoulder straps are worn for undress, while gold epaulets with bullion fringe are used for full dress. Loose trousers and top boots and an astrachan bonnet complete the costume, which in the czar's case has been further set off by the star and blue ribbon of the order of St. Andrew, which is almost the only decoration that he ever wears. Every emperor of Russia has affected the uniform of this corps, the simplicity of which served to distinguish the imperial wearer from the magnificently appareled generals, admirals, and other high dignitaries comprised in their entourage.

One of the most peculiar features of this regiment is constituted by the noses of the officers and of the rank and file. For no man can belong thereto unless his nose happens to be of the most pronouncedly turned up description, aquiline noses being barred. This peculiarity dates from the reign of Emperor Paul. His nose was turned up, and having been led by his courtiers to believe that a flat, upturned, and wide nose was not only an object of beauty but likewise an indication of mental endowment of the loftiest character—in illustration of which argument they cited the proboscis of Socrates—he conceived the idea that it would be well that his crack regiment of guards—the corps specially devoted to the protection of the imperial family—should be composed of officers and soldiers possessed of his peculiar style of masculine beauty.

With this object in view he caused all likely recruits to be paraded before him from time to time, and selected from their number those whose noses qualified them more particularly for enrollment in his bodyguards. Russia is the land of tradition, and clings more than any other western nation to its ancient customs. Thus, although Emperor Paul has been dead for than a hundred years, and is admitted by the most fervent worshipers of Muscovite autocracy to have been crazy, yet the regiment continues to be recruited to this day in the same manner as at the time of its creation—namely: by the shape of its noses.

It is likewise to this intense conservatism of Russia that must be ascribed the retention of the strange practice instituted under Emperor Paul of compelling the regiments of the guard to blow their noses immediately before the appearance upon the scene of the sovereign on the occasion of an inspection by him of the regiment. Czar Paul was terribly superstitious, and was convinced that for any one to sneeze in his presence was sufficient to bring him bad luck. It seems that on one occasion several of the Preobrajenskys happened to sneeze while the emperor was passing the regiment in review. Perhaps the peculiarly open and exposed character of their nostrils rendered them more prone to the sneezing habit than their comrades in other regiments of the guards. Be this as it may, the crazy Emperor Paul gave peremptory orders that there should be no more sneezing in the ranks, and accordingly the officers instituted the practice of causing the men to blow their noses at the word of command immediately before the inspection by the monarch began.

I am sorry to have to add that pocket handkerchiefs are not in fashion in the regiment. Its members use instead thereof that which was employed for the purpose long before the invention of pocket handkerchiefs, and to which even some American citizens, more especially those who are citizens by adoption, have been known to resort—namely: the fingers—and the spectacle afforded by a regiment of between 2,000 and 3,000 stalwart young men blowing their oddly shaped noses with their fingers, and with a loud noise, at the word of command, as a sort of trumpet signal, is altogether remarkable.

Not even the premier peer of the British realm—namely: the duke of Norfolk, who is supposed to be the supreme authority in all questions of genealogy and heraldry, is secure in the possession of his honors, and since Monday there has been in progress in the house of lords at Westminster a suit brought by Lord Mowbray, who claims not the dukedom but the much more ancient earldom of Norfolk, and the earldom of Surrey, dignities that carry with them the hereditary office of earl marshal of the united kingdom. Formerly the dukedom of Norfolk and the barony of Mowbray were held by one and the same person. But in 1777 the last of the long line of Lord Mowbrays, who were also dukes of Norfolk, died out, whereupon the dukedom went to Charles Howard, while the baronies of Mowbray and of Seagrave fell into abeyance, from which Lord Stourton, the present Lord Mowbray's father, revived them.

Lord Mowbray's ancestors had been singularly unfortunate. Thus, the eighth Lord Stourton was hanged with a silken halter for murder in 1557, and for many years the silken halter in question hung above his beautiful tomb in Salisbury cathedral, precisely as the huge red tasseled hats of cardinals are suspended above the tombs of these princes of the church. The fifteenth Lord Mowbray, as well as the sixteenth, were executed for high treason, and the fourteenth Lord Mowbray was sent to the scaffold for unlawfully quartering on his own shield the royal arms of King Edward the Confessor. The second Lord Mowbray was beheaded at York for rebellion, and the seventh was hanged, drawn, and quartered for taking a leading part in the insurrection against Henry IV. From this it will be seen that a large number of Lord Mowbray's ancestors have met deaths at the hands of the public executioner.

Lord Mowbray is the twenty-fourth of his line, and derives his descent through the female line from that Roger de Moubrey who figures in history as one of the commanders of the Norman army which under William the Conqueror invaded England in 1066. Lord Mowbray is likewise Lord Stourton, and Stourton is not only his patronymic but likewise the name of his country seat near Knaresborough, in Yorkshire. Stourton was once famous as the Thornville royal of the well known sporting Col. Thornton, whose wife used to ride races dressed as a jockey, and who kept all Yorkshire talking by his extravagance. Ruined by the latter, he sold the place early in the nineteenth century to a predecessor of the present Lord Mowbray.

The Stourtons trace their origin to Botolph Stourton, who married Lady Anne, daughter of the famous Earl Goodwin of the time of Edward the Confessor, and she was a sister of King Harold of England. The present Lord Mowbray is the twenty-ninth in direct line of male succession from Botolph Stourton and the Lady Anne Goodwin. While Lord Mowbray's suit against the duke of Norfolk is now being heard and discussed by the committee of privileges of the house of lords, it will be some time before the affair is decided, since the entire issue rests upon the question of complicated relationship, intermarriages, etc., prior to the year 1483.

Work for Reforms.

Chicago, July 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE deserves the thanks of the entire community for its effective work in the passage of the pure food bill and also in the inspection of the packing houses. It is a gratification to me to know that I have been a subscriber to THE TRIBUNE for twenty years and have had my early judgment verified as to your tendency to establish reform. Thanking you for your excellent work, I remain, very truly yours,

LITERATURE

"FOR THE SOUL OF RAFAEL," by Marah Ellis Ryan (A. C. McClurg & Co.), is a romance of California in those transitional days when the old patriarchial rule of the Spanish dons was giving place to the eager settlement of the Americans, and when Mexicans, Spaniards, Indians, and Englishmen were making that incohesive amalgam to which the Asiatics were presently to be added.

The book opens well. I quote the first paragraph, which has about it something that must appeal to all lovers of the west and of romance:

"Over the valley of the Mission of the Tragedies the grass was knee deep in March that year. The horses galloping from the mesa trail down to Boca de la Playa were fat and sleek and tricky as they ran neck and neck past the coral of the little plain, and splashed in glee through the San Juan river, where it ends its short run from the Sierras to the Pacific."

No less satisfactory than this opening is the introduction to the heroine, who comes riding gallantly over mountain and mesa to her wedding from far Mexico to the estate of her lover, the last of the Arteagas, whose possessions are vast, and whose pious mother has selected his bride from a convent, and who brings her in queenly state. This heroine, Raquel Estevan, is a girl with a fateful birth—the daughter of a handsome, highborn Spanish father and of a mother half Aztec and half Mexican of the nobler breed, a woman who had lived a life of austere purity and committed one savage crime in defense of her honor.

The hero is not the facile Rafael Arteaga who weds Raquel but one Keith Bryton, an American, courageous, ambitious, philosophic, restrained, but of profound passion. He has met Raquel years before she appears as the bride of Arteaga, has been saved by her from the wrath of one of the fanatic hill tribes of Mexico, and under her protection, spent one night of wild and wonderful journeying, which revealed the soul of each to the other in such a manner that neither was ever able to forget. But Bryton searched in vain for Raquel after that journey in which he went as captive, for she was hidden in her convent, and she was told, when Arteaga's hand was offered to her, that Bryton was dead. The story hinges upon Raquel's religious devotion. She leaves her convent to become a bride only because she is told that she can do more for the church in marrying the wild Arteaga and using her influence to keep him and all his following faithful to mother church than she can by praying in her cell; and the autocratic mother of Arteaga compels the girl to take an oath that as long as she lives she will labor to save the soul of Rafael. There was a small soul to save—a microscopist would have found trouble in locating it—but Raquel, with her inheritance of chastity and passion, of spirituality and swift justice, is set to guard it. The result is, ultimately, a tragedy which wrecks them all—makes an exile of Bryton, a criminal of Raquel, a mirthless man of the debonnair Arteaga, and a ghostly place of the sad old mission which is the home of the Arteagas.

The real charm of the romance lies in its atmosphere. The garrulous old Spanish dons, the plotting, sensual old women, the shallow fascination of the ever serenading young men, the sullen race hatred which the Indians feel toward them all—a hate which even exceeds that the Spanish entertain toward the Americanos—the rich odors of decay that hang around the evanishing old civilization, and the mystic indications of the yet older civilization of the brown Indians of the desert world—these are the elements of the tale. The mission in which the Arteagas live has in it not only the sacred story of the passion and the immemorial insignia of the Christian faith, but yet more ancient markings of the sun worshipers. These have been blended by an unforgotten architect, whose diabolic mockeries—for he seemed always to frustrate the Christian symbol with that of the Aztecs—lived as long as the building of stone was there to be witness to the subtlety of his hate.

Old Spanish or Indian songs precede each chapter, and sometimes conclude it—songs which the caballeros sang to the twanging or strings beneath barred windows, or the families chanted at vespers in the wind swept patios; or the homesick Indians beat on their mournful instruments of resonant skin.

I don't think I could, personally, give much idea of the literary quality of the book because I was so absorbed in it—in the utter westness of it—in the never ending charm of the yellow world where the gold of Ophir roses grow, and where the steaming olla cools the deep, deep drink for thirsty lips. Any one who has loved California will know what I mean. Any one who has not should take the "overland"—I recommend all the roads—and go there and find out about it all. Better books may have been written about California, but none has been written, I swear, in which the writer had more love of the subject.

Mrs. Ryan has always been a lover of nature, and of mountains in particular. She lives somewhere off in the Alleghenies, I think, but she knows and loves her Sierras. Almost any one can love the Alleghenies. That is as easy as it is to love your front yard or your own hearthstone; but it takes another brand of soul to love the Sierras.

Harold A. Taylor has done his imaginative best with the illustrations for this volume, and Ralph Fletcher Seymour has provided the decorative designs. The result is a gift book of an elaborate character.

As for the story as a whole, it is worth the reading, no question, even though in the end the joy of all the radiant company was spilled like the contents of a broken olla upon the greedy desert earth.

ELIA W. PEATTIE.

"THE NEWELL FORTUNE" is a curious, old fashioned, stilted piece of work by Mansfield Brooks. It is evidently Mr. Brook's first attempt at novel writing, and, while he has a brain richly stored with memories, theories, facts, and philosophies, it should be, no question, his last essay in that direction. The book is tedious to a degree, and the only value is in the delineation of certain gravid and limited characters, and in the reminder it brings of the disinterested Sierra Leone company. The story is the sort that a leisurely, elderly reminiscent gentleman might write to coax along the winter evenings, and that he might, with great propriety, leave to his descendants as a reminder of his sterling character and wise reflections. But the general public cannot be expected to be interested in it. (John Lane & Co.).

Power of Good Acting.

[From the Observer, London.]

Acting is a real art. It trades with our souls by the art of illusion. In the theater we can live over again our own lives, suffer even the torments of the damned, and that even after a good dinner and a motor waiting for us outside.

Hard to Keep Up.

[From Black and White, London.]

All the accessories of modern life increase so rapidly that there is little likelihood of its expenditure diminishing or of life becoming more simple and less costly.

A Novel in a Nutshell

THE RACE OF LIFE.

An Australian Bush Story.

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

(Published by F. M. Buckles & Co.)

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

George Trezaskis—A young man who takes fortune by the forelock.
Robert Flaxman—His friend, a man with a history.
Sep. Dorkin—An old hand at bush life.
Moira Pendragon—A girl with a past and future.
Mrs. Dawson—A genial lady friend.
Black—A consummate villain.
Cutthroats, blackguards, and a few friends.

George Trezaskis avowed he would rather break a 3 year old, green as grass, rather build a hut, or sink a tank than write a book. With many apologies, but, so far as can be observed, no good reason, he has decided to set pen to paper and give the story of his life, its great sorrows and placid contentments, the eagerness of the battling bush life, and soul's joy that finds its way into the wilderness.

He was a willful lad; his father had lived in the bush, had died there, in fact. Naturally, then, his mother wished to keep him from so treacherous a life. He tried for a year, perhaps, office work, and the spirit of restlessness and the longing for the open country proved too strong. He broke his mother's heart, maybe, but to the bush he must go. Little did it matter that his hands were white, that he knew nothing of the ways of cattle and sheep, that hardship had as yet passed him by, he was going to be a bushman, the best in the country, and that ended it.

The first difficulty that presented itself was that no one would take the trouble to teach him his business. A willingness to work and a good constitution were about the only qualifications he had to offer. On his second day, however, he accidentally met an old friend of his father's—George was always lucky in that regard, friends and enemies always turned up at the right moment. On this occasion Sep Dorkin, the successful bushman, proved to be the friend in time of need. The two struck a bargain and together left for the far away country.

In two years they separated. Dorkin had made enough money to retire from outdoor work and had met and married a woman who was willing to run an inn for him. As matters turned out he entered the hotel business just in time to be of service to his old protégé, George Trezaskis. The separation suited George, too, for had he not learned everything an underling could learn? A fuller knowledge could only come to him from ownership of an estate. It was opportune, too, that he change his work at this time, for his mother was dying; he could console her last terrible hours of suffering.

A comfortable sum of money left by her determined him to hunt the country for a suitable estate. He had well nigh covered the continent, when toward evening he stumbled over the body of a prostrate man. This latter, evidently the victim of a murderous attack, he carried to a nearby inn; that particular one at which his old friend Dorkin had hung out his shingle. The unfortunate young man was put to bed upstairs; downstairs two young ruffians prepare for a gay time. But Dorkin is a sharp one; he scents mischief and when they present a check of a hundred pounds, made out to Robert Flaxman, he puts two and two together, and refuses either to give the money or return the check.

Now one good turn deserves another, and Robert Flaxman—it was he George had picked up the night before, the same from whom the check had been stolen—forthwith swears eternal friendship with his rescuer and they depart together in peace and happiness. Now, a strange thing happened. George had been looking for many a month for a suitable farm, and could not be satisfied; yet the first night they spent together they were so especially favored as to fall in with a kindly old gentleman willing to sell at their price as fine a tract of land as any, and they bought it.

Well, the farm procured, it did not require many months for these two young men to have cattle and sheep that were the envy of the neighbors, and a snug sum of money laid by against the time they saw fit to add to their tract. Then came an addition to the solitude who did not bring happiness unalloyed. One night George failed to get home in time on account of a storm. He missed his road, but found a haggard and disheveled, though none the less beautiful, woman. She said her husband had been killed by lightning; a good riddance. She had no friends, she declared, and so there was nothing left for George to do but invite her to share his modest home. The woman, though loath, consented. Her advent wrought such a change as a woman's presence usually works in bachelor quarters. They were happy, the three of them, until George saw fit to fall in love with Moira. Love breeds jealousy, and jealousy made relations a little strained. Good old Mrs. Dawson was called in, a wholesome old soul, but that only temporarily relieved matters. So one fine morning the two men woke up to find Moira gone, leaving each a note of farewell.

The woman had left and calamity began to rain hard upon them, perhaps because the woman had had a past. The night she departed she was set upon by thugs and all but killed—rescued just in the nick of time; the next morning George gains knowledge of a conspiracy against him and Flaxman. George finds Moira, brings her back, and nurses her to comparative health, and is absent a night. The night is the opportunity his enemies have desired. On his return he finds Flaxman killed, Moira all but keeping his company. Of course George is overcome with grief and fear. Then he finds a letter from Flaxman which solves the mystery, though a tangled one it was.

Years ago Flaxman had taken to himself a wife in England. That wife had found another man more to her liking and had escaped to Australia to die a pitiful death. A young daughter survived her—Flaxman's child—whom she left in security until the man who ruined her discovered the daughter's retreat. The girl was dragged out under false pretenses, married to a beast, and made to live a life of squalor and suffering until the elements brought her release and a friend. Meanwhile Flaxman had come to Australia only to find that his daughter had been stolen. The next best thing was a home with George Trezaskis.

The knowledge that this letter bore was well calculated to set the springs of conscience in working trim. To think that he had been jealous of and unjust to the father of the girl he loved! Remorse nearly overwhelmed him, but there was only one thing, one recompense he could make, and he made it—he married the girl.

There are still remote districts in Austria where the country apothecary acts as a doctor and uses the old fashioned remedies. Recently one of these elderly practitioners was summoned in haste to see a postilion who was down with fever. The apothecary had had a long sitting in the village beerhouse, and left his boon companions reluctantly. He prescribed leeches for his patient, and as the latter's wife didn't seem to understand what to do with them, he undertook to put them on the patient's legs himself. But in spite of his efforts, the leeches refused to stick, and finally the doctor's patience was exhausted and he was about to give up the job, when the wife, who had been watching him with a gaping mouth, suddenly said: "Wouldn't it be better, Herr Doctor, if my husband's leather breeches were taken off first?"

DISCOVERY IN SURGERY.

[From the London Hospital.]

Since medicine and surgery concern our bodies, and members of the public in varying degrees take an interest in their physical well being, the newspaper press is always on the alert to provide its readers with anything thought to be novel that affects health or disease.

While occasionally articles of authoritative value appear, more often than not the information given is untrustworthy. Supposed new facts instead of being new are of old standing; opinions upon debatable or insignificant details are recounted as if well established and all important; and methods of treatment in the tentative stage are given out to the world as if the terrors of some so far hopeless disease had already disappeared. For the dignity of medicine and surgery this is unfortunate. These sciences need the interest of the public, but that interest is not furthered by the description of wonders where no wonders exist.

An illustration of the above remarks is given in such a statement as the following which has appeared in one of the daily papers: "A revolution has occurred in the surgical treatment of certain conditions of the lung owing to anatomical relationships described by Sir William MacEwen." The anatomical relationships described have long been recognized, at least by many, and their recognition cannot be said to have an important bearing upon the surgical treatment of the morbid conditions of the lung to which the paper refers.

The danger of collapse of a lung is rarely present in operations upon abscesses or large tuberculous cavities within it, not on account of the normal adhesive power of the two surfaces of the pleura—which is thought to be a new observation—but because of the presence of fibrous adhesions, and although the opening of such an abscess or cavity usually presents no great difficulty, it rarely materially benefits the patient.

Faith of the Boy.

The 4 year old son of a certain western senator had a high opinion of the importance of his father. The latter tells how, on one occasion in their western home, the lad came across a magazine in which, by some chance, there were engraved side by side portraits of the president and the senator mentioned.

When the lad caught sight of his father's features he broke into a broad smile. "That's a good picture of you, daddy," said he.—American Spectator.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

MANY PEOPLE LEAVING FOR THE MOUNTAIN RESORTS IN EAST.

Engagement Announced of Miss Sarah Breck, Claremont, N. H., to Mr. F. W. Burlingham of Chicago—Miss Julia Cudahy Married to Mr. Vincent Walsh at Mackinac Island—Ceremony in the Church Followed by Reception to All Residents of the Village.

The mountains in the east seem always to attract Chicago people in great numbers each summer. Mrs. Richard Howe is now at Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks, where she opened Bianchi camp on the Lower St. Regis lake last week. Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Blair, 2735 Prairie avenue, left yesterday for their country home at Jefferson in the White mountains, taking with them their small grandson, Blair Higinbotham, while Mr. and Mrs. Harry Higinbotham make the trip east by automobile, accompanied by Mr. William Whitehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Freer, 112 Lake Shore drive, have gone to Harbor Point, Mich., to spend the summer, instead of to Roaring Brook, as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Barnes, 297 Ontario street, sailed yesterday from New York for Europe to visit their daughter, Mrs. James Clinch-Smith, in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dixon, 2706 Michigan avenue, leave today for a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dixon at their summer place at Oconomowoc.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Sarah McD. Breck, daughter of Mrs. William Breck of Claremont, N. H., to Mr. Frederick W. Burlingham of Chicago. Mr. Burlingham is a Harvard graduate and is a member of the University and other clubs. He resides in Winnetka.

Miss Julia Cudahy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cudahy, 3354 Michigan avenue, was married to Mr. Vincent James Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, 306 Superior street, yesterday morning at Mackinac Island, Mich. The ceremony was performed at 10:30 o'clock in St. Anne's Roman Catholic church, the Rt.-Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, bishop of Peoria, officiating, after which mass was celebrated by the Rev. D. J. Riordan of Chicago, assisted by the Rev. J. L. Sommers, pastor of the village church at Mackinac. Over 100 relatives and close friends were present at the wedding, many going from Chicago, others from Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, and Omaha. There were also many of the summer residents of the island, and, altogether, the wedding was the largest ever celebrated on the island.

Miss Bessie Cudahy was her sister's only attendant, wearing delicate pink violle de Minon, with a large picture hat, and carrying an arm bouquet of pink roses. Dr. Groesbeck Walsh, brother of the groom, was best man, and there were four ushers, Mr. John Cudahy Jr., Mr. Edward T. Cudahy, Mr. Henry Gulick, and Mr. William D. Sheahan.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 100 guests at the Cudahy summer residence, the guests being seated at small tables arranged throughout the entire lower floor of the house, and decorated with white flowers and ferns. After the breakfast a general reception was held both in and out of doors for the residents of the village. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left on an evening boat for the east, and will spend July in traveling. They will then return to Mackinac and spend the remainder of the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Cudahy.

MAILS CARD IN ALARM BOX.

A. J. Miller Tries to Send Word to "Folks at Home"—Calls the Fire Department.

A fire alarm box at Adams and Clark streets was mistaken yesterday by Arthur J. Miller, Arthur, Ill., for a mail box. Miller came with his wife to Chicago in the morning.

They were walking in Clark street when Miller noticed the box. He stepped into a cigar store and bought a postal card "to let the folks know they had arrived safely," and then walking to the alarm box opened it, placed the postal inside, and then started away.

In a few minutes the firemen arrived and found the card, which was turned over to the postoffice.

The fourth annual reunion and banquet of St. Vincent's College Alumni association was given at the Victoria hotel last night. The guests of honor were the fourteen graduates of this year. The Rev. P. V. Byrne, president of the college, spoke, reviewing the work of the year. President J. L. McCarthy of the association was toastmaster and introduced the following speakers: A. P. Kelly, E. L. O'Brien, the Rev. S. J. Morrison, Edward McGillen, W. D. O'Brien, Joseph Crowley, John E. Foley, Leslie A. Webster, and John Dolan.

DONS GOWN; WINS VERDICT.

Mrs. J. Gerbig Displays Clothing She Says Does Not Fit and Court Sustains Her.

By becoming "exhibit A," to display a gown which she maintained did not fit, Mrs. J. Gerbig of Oak Park won a $42 verdict yesterday in Judge Tuthill's court. She was using Mrs. T. B. Moore, who conducts a woman's tailoring shop in Austin under the name of Mme. de Nells.

The gown cost $60, and, according to both women, was tried on seven times. Nevertheless Mrs. Gerbig said when she put it on she looked like "a fright," and she suffered because she had nothing besides "but rags" to wear.

Mrs. Moore said the gown had been altered after leaving her shop.

ARRANGING TO TRY W. J. DAVIS.

Attorneys for State and Defense Endeavoring to Select a County for the Case.

Attempts to select a county for the trial of the case against Will J. Davis, former manager of the Iroquois theater, who is charged with manslaughter, proved unavailing yesterday.

"Nothing definite was done," said Assistant State's Attorney Olson in speaking about the matter. "Levy Mayer submitted a list of six counties and we went over them carefully, but did not reach an agreement."

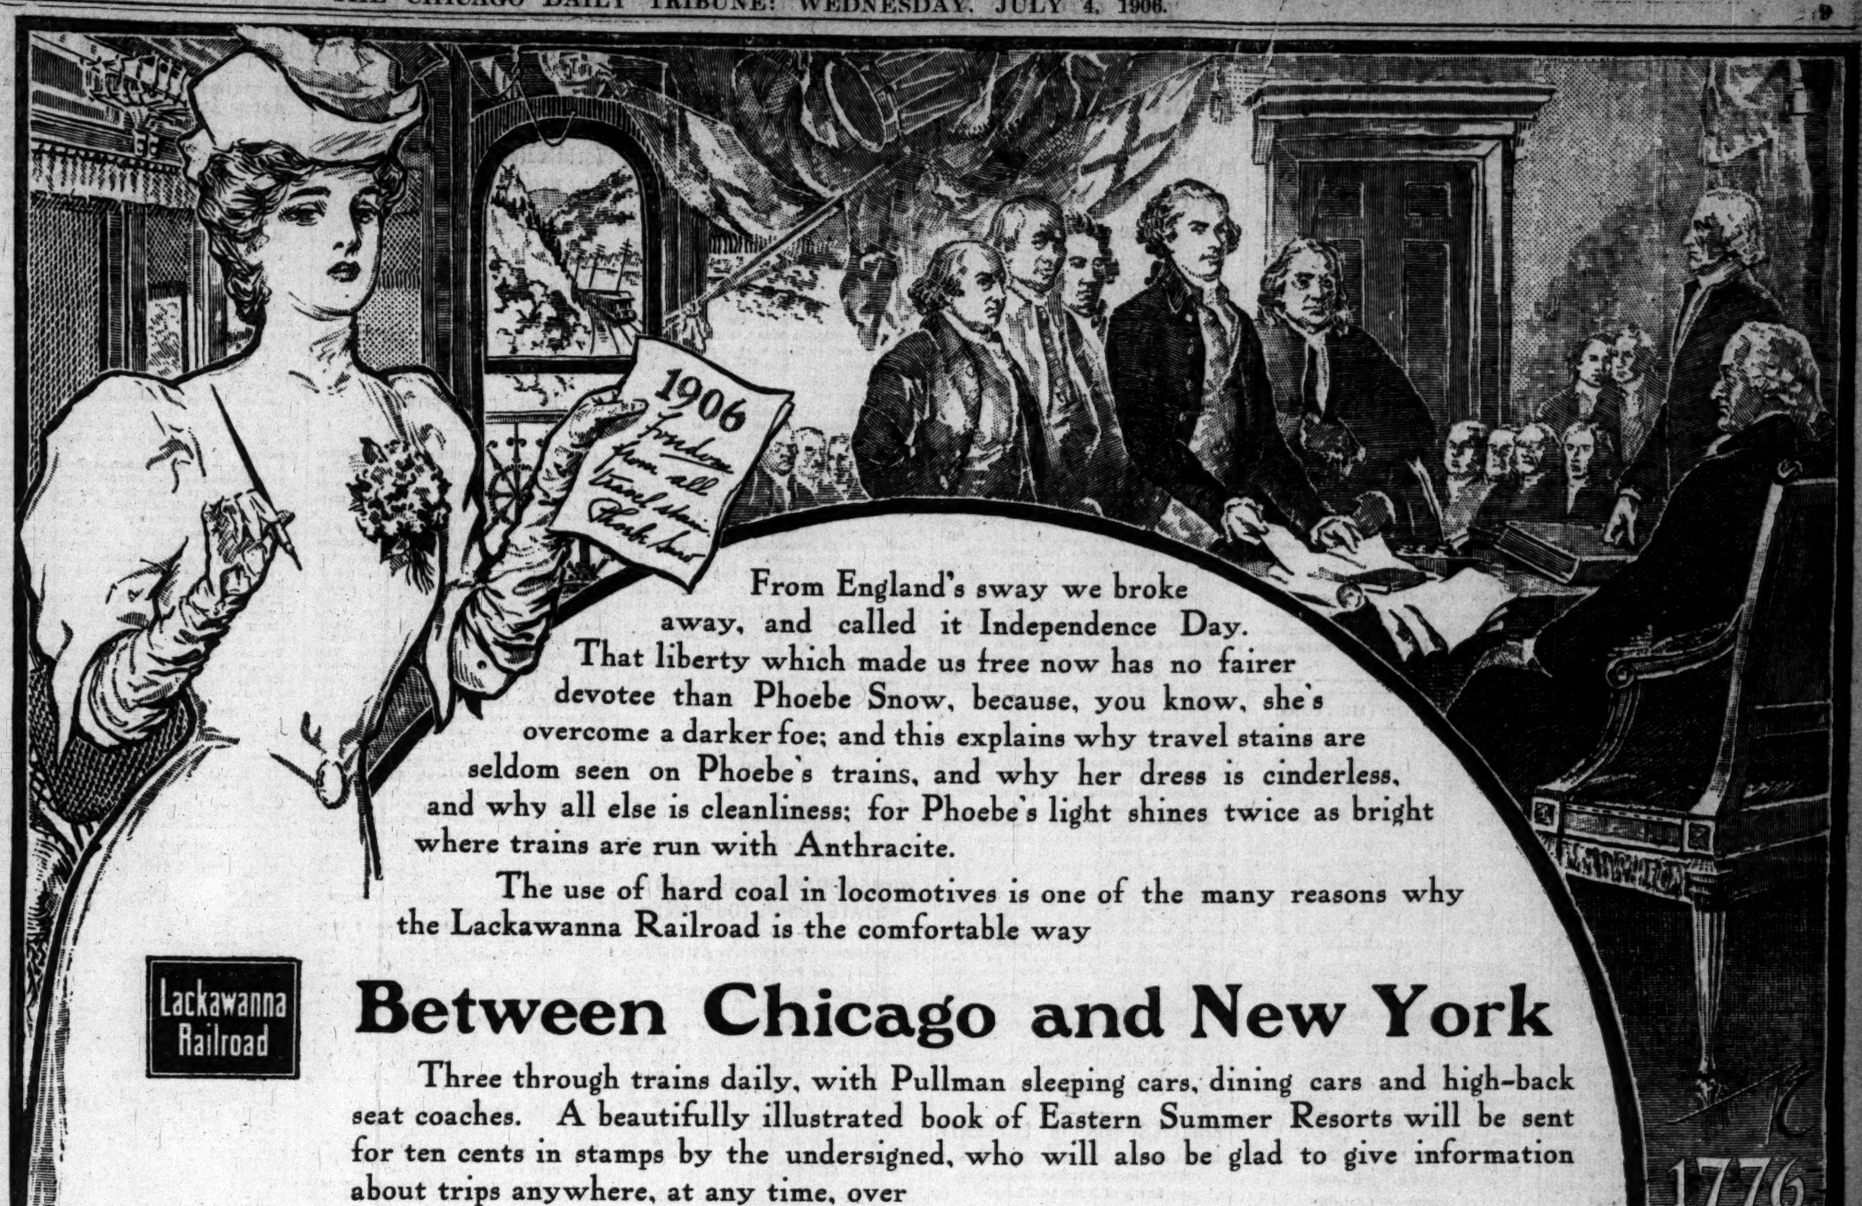

Another meeting will be held on Monday, when additional lists will be submitted.

STONE THROUGH CAR WINDOW.

Woman Passenger on Northwestern Railway Struck by Missile When Train Was Near Highland Park.

Stone throwers continue to endanger Chicago and Northwestern railroad passengers. Just after the train leaving Chicago at 8 o'clock in the evening passed Highland Park Monday night a stone crashed through a window and hit Anna Rundquist, member of Granger Farwell's household at Lake Forest, on the arm, severely bruising it. The stone is supposed to have been thrown by boys. The railroad is said to have a watchman along the line there looking for stone throwers, but so far none has been captured.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE TRIBUNE BRING RESULTS.

SOX WIN TWICE, AND ARE FOURTH.

Double Victory Over St. Louis Places Them Close to the Leaders.

TANNEHILL IS THE STAR.

White Holds Visitors to One Hit in Second Game; Scores Are 5-3 and 3-0.

Comiskey's coming champions climbed into society again yesterday, throwing two harpoons into St. Louis and breeding pennant hopes in the hearts of the 10,000 fans who saw their brilliant feats. They won the first game, 5 to 3, attaining a lead of three runs in the first inning and clinging to it tenaciously to the end, staving off defeat again and again, and, finally, with the bases full in the ninth inning, when a hit meant the overturning of all hope, Tannehill grabbed O'Connor's vicious slashing drive and ended the struggle.

In the second game St. Louis had never a chance, for Doc White pitched in wonderful style, allowing only one hit and permitting only two of the men from the other end of the drainage channel to reach first.

Donohue's Patent Base Hit.

Tannehill saved the first game by his grand stop, and won the second with a safe drive to left that sent home two runs, but really it was Jiggs Donohue who (also hoo), by inventing a new style of hit, cinched both games.

Jiggs' new hit is made by dodging wild pitches and letting the ball hit the bat. In the first game he gave the Sox one of their most necessary runs by this feat and, in the second game, he duplicated the feat and the ball floated safe into left—giving Tannehill the chance to drive home the two runs and insure victory.

Both games were clean and hard played, filled with clever stops and catches, that, in one or two instances, bordered on the brilliant. Both Owen and St. Loole Smith were hit hard in the first, giving the crowd plenty of action, and the second was a wonderful pitching duel between Jacobson and White, with the doctor leading all the way.

Get Three in the First.

The Sox needed the games to pass Detroit—and get up among the leaders—and they went after them from the jump. The first one was won in the opening inning. After sharp fielding had prevented the browns from counting Hahn started with a hit and Jones sacrificed. Isbell, Davis, and Donohue singled in succession and then Davis romped home in a double steal with Donohue, who was driven back to first and then forced by O'Neil, who might have scored when Wallace made a wild throw on Sullivan's bounder had he not hesitated at third and been caught at the plate.

In the third F. Jones started with a hit, reached second while Isbell and Davis were going out, and third when Donohue pulled off his first patented, copyright, dodging hit, which Hartsell fumbled. Then Donohue started to steal and Jones romped home, scoring because the throw was bad.

Stone drew a base in the fourth. Hemphill hit to Isbell, who tagged Stone on the line and threw wild to first, letting Hemphill to second. He failed to score on Wallace's single, although he could have walked home, and then counted on O'Brien's long drive to Jones.

Browns' Finish Fast.

Chicago was winning, in a canter, until the seventh, when the browns crawled up a length, scoring on Hemphill's scratch double on the left field line and O'Brien's hit.

In the eighth danger loomed up suddenly. A gift to Niles started it, and with two out Stone lambasted the ball fiercely to the fence in left. He rounded third as Jones fired the ball toward Davis, and Davis, wheeling, made a perfect throw to the plate and cut Stone down by ten feet.

At that Chicago decided to take no more chances. Isbell opened the eighth with a single, was forced by Davis, who stole second, went to third on Donohue's out, and scored on O'Neil's hit, in spite of Wallace's wonderful stop.

The browns started the ninth two runs to the bad. Hemphill went out. Owen let Wallace walk. O'Brien flied to O'Neil, and then Hartsell singled. Rickey was practically struck out and slapping hopelessly at the ball, but with two strikes called Owen wounded him with a pitched ball, and with the bases full McAleer summoned O'Connor from the bench to win the game. O'Connor slashed a fierce one straight at third. The crack of the ball against Tannehill's hands sounded like the echo of the crack of the bat—but Tannehill dug up the ball, touched third, and held the game safe. Score:

White's Pitching Feat.

Jacobson really deserved a better fate than to be pitted against White, for the dentist pitched one of his greatest games and the visitors never had a chance. In seven of the nine innings they retired in order. In the second Wallace drew a pass and was doubled immediately on O'Brien's bounder to Davis. In the third O'Connor singled and was forced. Those two were the only ones to reach first.

Meantime the Sox were having their own troubles with Jacobson, although they gained a commanding lead in the second inning. After a gift to Davis, Donohue repeated his copyright dodge and hit game and floated a single to left. O'Neil sacrificed. Sullivan hit hard down to Hartsell and Davis was shut off at the plate, but jockeyed around until the other runners were on second and third, and then Tannehill surprised himself and 10,000 others by lacing a single to left and sending home two runs.

Jiggs Changes His Style.

The other run was made in the fourth when Donohue slammed a long liner to right center that looked good for three bases. Hemphill, by a brilliant effort, blocked down the ball, holding Donohue at first. He stole second and O'Connor's throw, hitting him on the shoulder, went out to left and he reached third. O'Neil cracked a long fly to center, which Niles misjudged and then captured brilliantly by a one handed stab—and Donohue sprinted home.

Jacobson held them practically helpless after that. Score:

Notes of the Game.

White faced Jacobson three times, and each time hit straight to his opponent in the pitching box.

Isbell retired St. Louis in the sixth inning of the first game, making a beautiful catch of Niles' short fly out in center and grabbing in two grounders.

Hahn pulled off the "force bunt" in the fifth inning of the second game, poking the ball slowly towards first and beating it out before any one could get near it.

Two brilliant catches marked the seventh inning of the second game. Hemphill robbed Sullivan by pulling his line drive down after a hard run outward and Rhody Wallace went over on to the foul line and captured Tannehill's fly on a dead run.

The Sox and browns will celebrate the fourth with morning and afternoon games. The morning game will be called at 10:30 and the afternoon at the regular hour. Patterson and Altrock will pitch for Chicago and Jack Powell will pitch the afternoon game for the browns.

O'Brien's hit in the seventh was made in an odd way. With one out and Hemphill on third, Jones moved his infield in, which seemed unusual with Chicago three runs to the good. O'Brien hit a liner which would have gone straight to Isbell in his natural position, but which sailed over his head.

LOCAL SPORTING EVENTS FOR TODAY.

CLEVELAND WINS EASILY.

Defeats Detroit, 5 to 0, in Game Called at End of Sixth Inning on Account of Rain.

Cleveland, O., July 3.—Cleveland defeated Detroit 5 to 0 today and regained first place. It began to rain in Detroit's half of the fifth, but Evans forced the teams to play despite Detroit's protest until the end of the sixth. During the sixth the field was a sea of mud and water, the second baseman for Detroit playing in a rain coat. Nevertheless not an error was made after the rain began. The Clevelanders might have scored twice as many runs, but allowed themselves to be put out. Townsend outpitched Donahue. Score:

NATIONALS AWAIT CRUCIAL GAMES.

In Pittsburg Ready for Today's Double Header with the Pirates.

CLARKE OUT OF ACTION.

Injury Deprives Team of Its Leader; Jack Taylor May Be on Hand.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—[Special.]—The Spuds are waiting anxiously for the morning when they clash with the Pirates in the first round of the important five game series between the leaders that is to be played here this week. The glorious Fourth will be celebrated by morning and afternoon games.

The locals will be handicapped tomorrow by the absence of Manager Clarke. The Pirate leader has a lame side, and Leach will be sent to the outfield and Sheehan to third.

The Chicago team did not play today at Greensburg as expected. Manager Chance and his men arrived early this morning and went on to Greensburg, but the rain came and the Spuds had to take the next train back to town.

The fans are preparing to turn out tomorrow in record breaking numbers at Exposition park. For a time this spring the locals were not a good drawing card at home, but Clarke and his players are prime favorites again and the betting is in favor of the home team in the series.

Manager Chance expects to have Jack Taylor with his team tomorrow morning. The brakeman's name is among those slated for work here, and the Pirates are fearful of him as usual.

Hermann's letter to Barney Dreyfuss, which was printed this morning, was the chief topic of discussion around Pittsburg today. The consensus of opinion was it was a poor attempt at "squaring things."

The Pirates are joyful that Phelps is to be with them again and he will be given a hearty reception when he arrives from Albany, where he has been for a number of days. Dreyfuss is thankful for the favorable termination of his fight for Phelps, but resents the insinuation in Hermann's letter that Phelps is a "present." Willis and Brown will be the pitchers in tomorrow morning's game, likely.

The weather has cleared off fairly well tonight.

PHILLIES WIN IN ELEVENTH.

COOLEY "IN BAD" AT KENOSHA.

Crowd Interferes When He Has Local Man All but Out in the First Round.

Kenosha, Wis., July 3.—[Special.]—The fight between Fred Cooley of Chicago and Jack Bennett, the Kenosha champion, which was to have been the windup of the boxing show, ended in a riot before the end of the first round. Deputy sheriffs, police officers, and friends of Bennett leaped into the ring and tore the men apart. Bennett had been knocked down twice, and he claimed Cooley fouled him.

Cooley's manager, I. W. Johnston, offered to put up $500 that Cooley would put Bennett out in three rounds, but there was no sport in the Bennett crowd. After a wait of more than an hour, in which the Cooley crowd made all sorts of offers for a fight, the referee, with the consent of the management, called the fight a draw.

During the squabble the manager of the exhibition declared Johnston had offered Bennett $200 to go out in the sixth. Johnston entered a denial, and said his offer to fight showed his spirit in the matter. The house was in an uproar for more than an hour, and Cooley was threatened with violence by the deputies. Cooley remained cool during the entire performance.

In the preliminaries Young Cleary of Kenosha got a decision over Young Murray of Kenosha in six rounds. Billy Evans of Chicago, after breaking his arm in the second round, got the decision over Kid Hertz in six rounds, the gong saving Hertz from a knockout. Young Morris of Green Bay knocked out Benny Linstead of Chicago in the first round with a left hook to the jaw. Linstead remained unconscious for more than five minutes and was revived only after a doctor had been called.

HARNESS RACES ON TODAY

FOUR GOOD EVENTS CARDED AT LIBERTYVILLE TRACK.

Field in Each Contest Is Certain to Have Plenty of Class, as Horses Have Been Entered by Some of the Best Stables in Country—Butler, Geers, and Clark Strings to Be Seen—Many M. and M. and C. of C. Racers to Start.

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

There are four good harness races on the card at Libertyville today, and the field in each is certain to have a lot of class, entries having been made by some of the best stables in the country.

It so happened it was convenient for the Butler horses, which had wintered in California, to make their first start at the local track, going from there to Cleveland, where the grand circuit opens this year. Then Geers came up from Memphis to give his nags their final "prep" on the Illinois track. W. A. Clark Jr. of Montana sent over a select quartet from his string, and the resident trainers, headed by Charlie Dean and Dick McMahon, named horses in practically every event.

There are a number of M. and M. and C. of C. horses carded for today in the trots and paces, but chief interest will center in the free for all pace, in which Baron Grattan, Citation, The Broncho, Bolivar, and others will start. Baron Grattan is the choice of people who would bet if they had a chance. In the other races there are large fields, and, as most of the horses are making their first start of the year, not much is known of their respective abilities.

Cedar Valley Circuit Races.

Waterloo, Ia., July 3.—[Special.]—Today's race results:

2:20 trot—Lena L. U., first; King Entertainer, second; Lady Nightville, third; Hugh Wynne, fourth. Time, 2:18¼.

2:20 pace—The Donne, first; Lulu D., second; Brown Hall, third; Miss Wilkeeps, fourth. Time, 2:16¼.

2:35 trot—Charley Belden, first; Ralph, second; Snoople, third; Lady Hale, fourth. Time, 2:24½.

WOMEN DRAW FOR MATCHES IN STATE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Contests Begin Today at the Aztec Courts—Surprises Result in the South Side Championships at Woodlawn.

Drawings for the women's events of the fourth annual tournament for the Illinois state championship were made last night. Play will start at 10 o'clock this morning at the Aztec club. The draw resulted favorably, the better players being drawn into separate halves. The drawings follow:

Women's singles—Miss Catherine McConnell vs. Miss Edythe Parker, Miss Helen Hatch vs. Miss Helen Young, Miss Natalie Newell vs. Miss Caroma Winn, Miss Jean Whiting vs. Mrs. Neff, Mrs. G. E. Barnes vs. Miss Mildred Chamberlain, Miss Ella Wilkens vs. Miss Ruth Young, Miss Miriam Steever vs. Miss L. Phillipps, Miss Hilda T. Kreckel vs. Miss Mabel Lee.

Women's doubles—Misses Parker and Steever, bye into first round; Miss Wilkens and partner vs. Misses McConnell and Hatch, Mrs. Barnes and Miss Lee vs. Miss Winn and partner, Misses Helen Young and L. Phillips, bye into first round.

Mixed doubles—Miss Ruth Young and Mr. Wilbrenner, bye into first round; Miss Steever and Dr. Lee vs. Miss and Mr. McConnell, Miss Helen Young and Mr. Loesch vs. Miss Whitin and John Matz, Mr. Ricker and partner vs. Mr. Phillipps and partner.

Four men won their way into the third round of the Woodlawn Tennis club's open tournament yesterday and the semi-final round was reached in doubles. J. W. Bingham, the ex-University of Chicago champion, figured in two surprising matches. The first was his easy defeat of Lawrence Stern, last year's interscholastic champion, in straight sets, 6—0, 6—2. Stern showed lack of practice and Bingham, with his accurate chop strokes, had the Hyde Parker running from side line to side line.

After this easy victory it was thought Bingham would be able to win from the present interscholastic champion, Allan Ross, but here the "dope" went wrong, for Stern's successor to the school title had little trouble winning out, 6—1, 6—3.

Of the other matches the hardest fought was between the two Kenwood teammates, C. N. Beard and Heath Byford. Summaries:

Singles—First round—J. W. Bingham beat L. F. Stern, 6—0, 6—2.

Second round—Carr defeated Baumgartner, 6—4, 6—4; Byford defeated Beard, 6—4, 7—5; McKeever defeated Davenport, 6—2, 6—2; Ross defeated Bingham, 6—1, 6—3.

Doubles—Second round—Ashcroft and Ross defeated Carr and Bingham, 7—5, 6—3; Poppin and Winston defeated Baumgarten and Snow, 6—1, 6—0.

At the Kenwood Country club today exhibition matches and an outdoor-indoor ball game will form the main holiday attractions.

At the Wanderers, River Forest, Saddle and Cycle, Onwentsia, Chicago Golf club, and La Grange Tennis club matches have been arranged. At the Woodlawn club matches in the south side championship tournament will be played.

Two outdoor-indoor ball games have been scheduled at Aztec tomorrow. The Aztec tennis team will meet the strong Town club team of Milwaukee.

Miss Douglass to Play Miss Sutton.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 3.—In the final of the women's singles Miss Douglass beat Miss Terry, 6—2, 6—2, and will meet Miss Sutton for the title of champion.

Argonauts Win Again Easily.

HENLEY, England, July 3.—In the second heat for the Grand Challenge cup today the Argonauts of Canada beat the Thames Rowing club. Time, 7:04. The Canadians led throughout and won easily. Not a man of the Argonauts showed the slightest sign of distress. They all sat up straight as poplar trees at the finish and were accorded a fine reception. Many experts already consider the fate of the Grand Challenge cup is sealed and that it will leave England for the first time in its history.

Driver of Big Machine Sets Mark of 1:06:19; Oldfield Wins Heat in Sweepstakes.

A fast track, the lowering of a world's record, and a gratifying attendance was a trinity which made the first day's races of the Western Automobile association meet at Hawthorne a success.

In the first event on the card—a fifty mile endurance event for fully equipped touring cars, Ollie Savin, driving a fifty horse power Thomas machine, set a new mark of 1:06:19. Savin, who first sprang into fame during the St. Louis races recently, established himself as a favorite with the crowd by his daring work. He took chances which A. C. Webb, Jerry Ellis, Frank Swiegert, W. J. McDonald, and other well known drivers refused. This was noticeable especially on the dangerous, dust clouded first turn, and the pilot of the Thomas car was rewarded for his nerve when he passed Swiegert with the big Haynes at the start of the fifteenth round. After the fifteenth mile Savin had the race in hand and continued to reel off laps at a pace which landed him well within the record.

Oldfield Sets Track Record.

Barney Oldfield, the famous immune with nine lives, continued his flirtation with death on the same old Green Dragon, which became familiar to local racing enthusiasts two years ago. Barney won his heat in the qualifying rounds of the Great Illinois Sweepstakes and later essayed to establish a three mile record for the Hawthorne track. He set it at 3:15 flat, averaging 1:05, which was the fastest time of the afternoon.

Five events constituted the day's sport. The track, which had been rolled and oiled for several days, was in good condition, barring soft spots on the first turn and at the head of the stretch. These places were thrillers for the crowd, and each time they were breathlessly watched until all of the entrants had emerged from the swirling dust. By the time the first race was called perhaps 2,000 spectators were in the stands, while scores of cars laden with the elect were lined along the fences from the paddock gate to the carriage entrance west of the grand stand.

Savin Wins Endurance Derby.

The International endurance Derby, at fifty miles, brought out nine starters in machines ranging from eight to fifty horse power. They lined up across the track, and at the gun the car driven by J. H. Osinga assumed the lead. At the quarter they were strung out, with Swigert leading in the Haynes. At the end of the first five miles Swigert led Savin by 200 yards, but at the finish of the tenth round Savin had come up until he lapped the rear wheels of the Haynes. They see-sawed for the next five, and just at the beginning of the fifteenth lap Savin assumed the lead. He not only held it safely, but increased it every lap until at the finish of the fifty he led by more than two miles. McDonald, with the Columbia, and George Crane, with the Knox, had both passed Swigert and finished after Savin in the order named. Savin established new records for a circular track from thirty to fifty miles.

The three mile event for cars from $1,000 to $2,000 was a fizzle, owing to the fact that the three Mitchell machines entered had had their fenders and mufflers removed, when the requirements were for full equipment. W. R. Willett with a Buick was awarded the race.

Six Compete in Sweepstakes.

The Illinois sweepstakes had six nominations. All were high powered racers, and to eliminate the element of danger two were raced in each heat. Jerry Ellis and C. A. Coey hooked up in the first, and Coey nipped Ellis at the wire by a close margin. In the second A. C. Webb defeated Paul Albert after a pretty race. Webb did some nervy driving and brought the spectators to their feet when he came tearing down the stretch on the third mile with his unmuffled exhaust stabbing holes in the dust clouds like a battery of rapid fire guns. Oldfield had an easy time in the heat he raced with Freeberg. The semi-final and final races of the sweepstakes will be run this afternoon.

In the last event, the five mile Hawthorne handicap, seven cars were entered. A. C. Webb with his Premier racer and Coey with his Tornado were put on scratch. Webb trailed the field for the first mile, catching each driver in turn until he took the lead at the fourth lap. He won easily in 5:38.

Yacht Races at Lake Geneva.

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 3.—[Special.]—A race in the eighteen foot class was sailed this afternoon by the Lake Geneva Yacht club, and was won by Paul Dunne, who sailed B. F. Johnston's boat, although the result is protested, as it is claimed he rounded the buoy from the wrong way. Harold Hough, who sailed Miss Hodgins' boat, came second; Charles Offield came third, Howard Sloan fourth. J. McMahon sailed George Sloan's boat, and was upset, but righted and finished a good fifth. These boats are all new. Races in classes A and B will be sailed tomorrow.

"Greek" Jimmy Ryan Winner.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 3.—[Special.]—"Greek" Jimmy Ryan defeated Denny Hayes in ten rounds before the Wabash Athletic club tonight. The contest went the limit, Ryan winning on points. Frank Boston knocked out Jack Kelly in the first round of the semi-windup. Boston scored a knockdown in the first minute and a knockout within two minutes.

Roque Match Postponed.

The roque match between King and Kennedy for the championship of Chicago, announced for today, has been postponed until Friday afternoon.

BELMONT HAS FAIR LUCK.

HIS COLORS ARE SEEN IN FOUR RACES AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

His Victory with Tiptoe Is Offset by Disappointment at the Defeats of Don Enrique and Blandy, the Former Finishing Second, as Does Smiling Tom, a Two Year Old—No Decision Reached in the Go Between Investigation.

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—August Belmont's horses cut an important figure in the speculation today at the bay. His colors were carried in the first race by Smiling Tom, a 2 year old colt by St. Blaise—Souriante, which ran second. Tiptoe won the second race in the Belmont silks, which had a world of backing at even money. Then Don Enrique was beaten by Dashaway in the fourth race. This was a disappointment to his owner, who also was chagrined when Blandy ran absolutely last in the handicap at nine furlongs.

A heavy rain fell just before the first race. The Rockaway cup steeplechase resulted in an easy victory for the J. E. Widener entry, Long Run and El Cuchillo finishing first and second, respectively. Long Run went to the front early, and, leading by twenty lengths all the way, won galloping. Bundooran threw Jockey Knaack at the post in the last race and ran away five miles. He was then withdrawn.

A. Muskoday, in the fifth race, was strongly played, being backed down from 20 to 1 to 10 to 1. He took the lead in the first furlong and won by two lengths.

The Go Between case is still in the hands of the stewards, who today had another talk with Alex Shields. One of the stewards said no definite action had been taken.

BUSY DAY FOR THE YACHTSMEN.

Close to Fifty Boats Await Starting Gun in Annual Regatta of Lake Michigan Association Today.

Between forty and fifty yachts of all classes await the starting gun in the annual regatta of the Lake Michigan Yachting association to be held under the auspices of the Columbia Yacht club today. Entries have been received from the Columbia, Chicago, Jackson Park, Milwaukee, and Macatawa Bay clubs, and it is predicted the event will be the greatest held in Chicago in a number of years.

A feature of the regatta will be the presence of a yacht in the races owned and sailed by a woman. The yacht is Mayme, of Milwaukee, which arrived last night in charge of Miss Harriet Vantine of the Cream City. The boat will race in the 25 foot class. Billposter, the new twenty-one footer owned by the Hermann syndicate, will be seen in its first local race when it meets Quien Sabe and Yo San of the same class. The Thompson-Dupee boat New Illinois is in the harbor, but will not enter the races on account of the absence from the city of William Hale Thompson.

The rivalry between the various clubs is keen, and some spirited matches are expected to develop, especially the one in which Vencedor, Vanenna, and Siren are entered. The races start at 2 p. m., and the guest boat Petoskey has been engaged to follow the racers over the course. The steamer leaves the dock north of the Columbia club at 1:45.

Neil and Attel Fight Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 3.—Abe Attel and Frankie Neil fight tomorrow for the featherweight championship and the gold challenge belt offered by the Pacific Athletic club. The men will enter the ring at 3:15 and will weigh at the ringside. The odds are in favor of Attel at 10 to 7, but the betting so far has been light.

LEGAL NOTICES AND PROPOSALS.

BIDS FOR $200,000.00 OF WATER BONDS OF THE CITY OF MEMPHIS, TENN.
Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Register, Memphis, Tenn., until noon, Tuesday, July 17th, 1906, for the purchase of $200,000.00 of Memphis Water Bonds. Said bonds are in the denomination of $1,000 each, bearing date of May 1st, 1903, and maturing thirty years after date, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November at the Memphis Trust Company in the City of Memphis, Tenn., or the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, in the City of New York, and are part of an issue of $3,500,000.00 authorized by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee by act of April 14th, 1903. The entire issue is secured by a trust deed on the water plant, property and franchise, of the City of Memphis and by the obligation of the said City of Memphis to levy a special water tax on all taxable property in the city if the revenue is insufficient to pay operating expenses, interest on bonds, and retire $50,000.00 of said bonds each year.
The bonds now offered are numbers 1,452 to 1,651 inclusive, and are to pay for improvements and additions to the plant.
This invitation for bids is made in pursuance of a resolution of the Legislative Council of the City of Memphis adopted April 17th, 1906.
No bids for less than par and accrued interest will be entertained, and the city has the right to reject any and all bids. In the event that the highest bidder shall fail to pay for the bonds at the time and place appointed, said bonds may be awarded to the next highest bidder without any readvertisement, and so on to the next highest bidder until the bonds shall have been actually paid for. Each bid must be for the entire $200,000 of bonds and accompanied by a check for $5,000 certified by some bank doing business in the City of Memphis, payable to the order of Ennis M. Douglass, City Register, as a guaranty of good faith on the part of the bidder.
Said check will be forfeited upon the failure of the bidder to accept and pay for the bonds. The bonds will be ready for delivery immediately upon their award to the successful bidder, and are to be delivered and paid for in the City of Memphis.
JAMES H. MALONE, Mayor.
Attest: ENNIS M. DOUGLASS, City Register.

NEW YORK STOCKS RISE

COVERING OF SHORT CONTRACTS CAUSES RECOVERY.

Selling Pressure, Which Has Been Oppressing the Market for Several Days, Relaxes and Prices Turn Upwards, the Close Being at Highest Point of the Day—Pennsylvania Prominent in the Upturn—Amalgamated Advances.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]
NEW YORK, July 3.—[Special.]—The selling pressure, which was evident at yesterday's closing in the stock exchange, which was carried over to the early part of the day, relaxed in a measure later and the bears were inclined to cover up short contracts before the holiday. The buying, however, was conducted in a lifeless manner and had no great effect on prices. The close was at the highest point, the rally being spotty. Pennsylvania was conspicuous in the tendency to recover prices despite a decline in the earnings for May, the result of the anthracite miners' strike. Amalgamated Copper advanced in the face of a decline in price of the metal both here and in London.

The call money market remained tight with no sign of marked relaxation by the return to the money market of dividends and interest disbursed. Talk of relief of the money market by gold imports was not as confident owing to the failure to secure any part of yesterday's large arrivals of gold in London for New York account.

Bonds were heavy. Total sales, par value, $2,115,000. United States 2s declined ¼ per cent on call.

Money on call strong, 2½@7 per cent; ruling rate 6; last loan, 2¾; closing bid, 2½, offered at [illegible]. Time loans dull and firm; 60 days, 4½; 90 days, 4¾@5; six months, 5¼@5½. Prime mercantile paper, 5@5½ per cent. Sterling exchange [illegible] with actual business in bankers' bills at 484.45 for demand and at 481.60@481.65 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 482½ and 485½. Commercial bills, 481½. Bar silver, 64⅝. Mexican dollars 50¼. Government bonds easy; railroad bonds heavy.

SHORTS COVER IN GRAIN.

OPEN RISKS OVER HOLIDAY ARE REDUCED ALL OVER LIST.

Character of Operations Indicate Too Much Selling in Previous Session—Expert Snow's July Report a Matter of General Interest in All the Pits — Cereal Values Are Slightly Changed at Close—Hog Products Rule Firmer.

Because of the national holiday, operations on all the grain exchanges of the United States will be suspended today.

Usual preholiday conditions prevailed in the grain markets yesterday. The desire to reduce open risks over the day of inactivity served to keep the trade quite evenly divided. Shorts covered freely and the more timid longs decreased their holdings on all suggestions of hard spots. Prices fluctuated within narrow ranges, those at the close showing but slight changes from the final quotations of the day before. Wheat reached the last bell with advances of ⅛c for July, 1-16c for September, ¼c for December, and ⅛@¼c for May. Closing corn values showed gains of 1-16c for July, ⅛c for December and May, and unchanged for September. Oats finished higher by ⅜c for July, ⅛@¼c for September, ⅜c for December, and ⅜c for May.

Opening prices in the wheat market were unchanged to a bare shade lower, but a continuation of the heavy selling of the day before soon caused declines of ¼@½c. The dip witnessed oversold shorts active in covering, the result being an advance of ¼@⅜c over the Monday close. Early selling was prompted largely by weather generally favorable to the spring wheat crop and to harvesting in the winter sections, and to more liberal offerings of the new grain. Acceptances sent out from Chicago over night were materially larger than those of the previous day, and the bears had great confidence in a much heavier run of the grain to market later in the week.

Nearer to Export Basis.

Liverpool's decline of ¼@⅜c was surprisingly small in view of the sharp break here the day before, and was taken to indicate a nearer approach to an export basis. The sale of eight boatloads of Manitoba for export also lent color to the hope for more business with the foreigners. The Liverpool decline was attributed by Broomhall to cheaper offerings of American wheat at that market. The wheat bought for shipment to Chicago within the next ten days will come chiefly from southern Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, as well as from the arrivals at Kansas City. The promise of the heavy movement was the bears' biggest trump, but they were inspired to considerable caution by the sales for export.

Much scattered buying was prompted by the Snow report, which made the spring wheat condition 6 points lower July 1 than on June 1, bringing it down 2.4 under the July condition of last year. His figures were 88.4, against 90.8 last year, his estimate of the spring wheat yield being 285,000,000 bu. His estimate of the winter wheat crop was 440,000,000 bu, making the total yield about equal to the actual outturn last year.

First Car of New Wheat In.

Duluth and Minneapolis received 236 cars, against 170 a week before. Some reports from the northwest indicated a freer movement soon. Primary receipts were 285,000 bu. Bradstreet's statement showed a decrease of 2,314,000 bu in the available supply, compared to a decrease of 105,000 bu a year ago. The first car of new wheat was received here, coming from Lexington Junction, Mo. It graded No. 2, weighed 61 lbs to the bu, and was sold at 81½c. South Dakota wired in some rust stories, but they had but little effect on the market. Closing prices were 79¾c for July, 80¼c for September, 81¾@81⅞c for December, and 84½@84⅝c for May.

Corn Market Is Oversold.

Operations in the corn market were of a holiday character. Trading, as in wheat, gave indications of an oversold condition, and as a result of covering prices generally averaged slightly higher. There was some pressure from the more confident bears early on favorable weather and crop conditons, but when covering began offerings tightened up and prices responded readily to the demand. Toward midsession the volume of trade dwindled materially, and from then to the close the market ruled dull. The arrivals here were 519 cars, 128 in excess of the estimate, but the acceptances of bids over night were reported light. Bulls expect next week's receipts to run considerably lighter. Prices in the cash market ruled about steady, but the shipping demand was not heavy. Liverpool finished ⅜@½d lower. Expert Snow gave the condition of corn on July 1 as 85.6, or about 3 points under that of the similar time last year. The acreage was fixed at 95,872,000 acres, against 94,124,000 acres last year. Primary receipts were 967,000 bu, and seaboard clearances aggregated 110,000 bu. Final prices were 51¼@51⅜c for July, 51⅝c for September, and 49½c for December and May. Bradstreet's reported an increase of 1,487,000 bu in the available.

Oats Value Range Higher.

The trade in oats was moderately active, with prices generally ranging higher. Sellers of the previous day were among the buyers, and some of the bulls lent good support to the market. Bradstreet's statement showed a decrease of 189,000 bu in the available supply, compared to a decrease of 113,000 bu last year. A leading factor of strength was the Snow report, which gave the condition of the crop on July 1 at 82.7, against 86.9 on June 1 and 91.8 July 1, 1905. Some experts figured that this would indicate a yield fully 100,000,000 bu under that of last year. Lighter receipts here than had been expected—187 cars, against 191 estimated—and light acceptances of bids sent into the country gave some courage to the bulls. The cash market was steady, with the demand only moderate. There were some reports that the crop in Nebraska would exceed expectations. Primary receipts were 710,000 bu. Closing prices were 36⅝c for July, 35⅝@¾c for September, 36⅝c for December, and 38½c for May.

Hog Products Are Firmer.

Buying for prominent packers and covering by scattered shorts gave the provision market a firmer tone. As was the case in the previous session, the principal strength was shown in pork, which closed 20@37½c higher for the active months. The rise of hog values at the yards to a new high level for the year did much toward stirring up bullish sentiment. The receipts of hogs were 17,000 here and 92,500 at all the leading western points, against 78,500 a week before. Shipments of meats and lard from Chicago were heavy at 3,163,000 lbs and 1,927,000 lbs, respectively. Closing prices for lard were 2½c higher and for ribs 2½@5c higher.

Rye Market Weak.

Rye was dull and weak. Two cars were inspected in. No. 4 sold at 51c. No. 2 was nominally 62@64c; July offered at 60c; September, 61c asked and 59½c bid.

Offerings of barley were light and the market was quiet. Prices were steady. Receipts were 28 cars. Feed was quoted 40@43c; malting, 43@53c; screenings, 35@45c.

Timothy seed was inactive. Prices were nominally easy. July was offered at $4.05; September, $4.45; October, $4.25 bid; country lots, $2.50@4.00.

Flaxseed was neglected, with prices unchanged. No. 1 was quoted $1.09; No. 1 northwestern, $1.12½; September, $1.14¼.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Sales of cash wheat here were larger than for several days—125,000 bu, including 90,000 bu No. 1 northern and 30,000 bu No. 2 hard. The No. 1 northern sold at 2@2¼c over September in store, 50,000 bu going to local mills. The No. 2 hard brought 2c under July. No. 2 red was quoted about 4c over September bid. There were export sales of 64,000 bu Manitoba wheat reported by local houses—the first business in several weeks. New No. 2 red wheat was offered ½c over July and new No. 2 hard 1¾c under July. Acceptances of wheat in the country were reported fair. The first car of new No. 2 red winter wheat of the year was received from Lexington Junction, Mo. It graded No. 2 and weighed 61 lbs to the bu. The car brought 81½c per bu. Kansas City wired: "Wheat worth about 80½c f. o. b. gulf. This price about in line with other bids in southern half of Oklahoma, but wheat is not moving there on account of rains. Some mills are taking a little wheat at better prices, but not after it hard." No. 2 hard was quoted 75½@77c for old and 75@76½c for new; No. 2 red, 76@77½c for old, 75@75¾c for new. St. Louis quoted No. 2 hard 79@82c; new No. 2 red, 78¼@79½c. Minneapolis wired that millers were complaining about the flour business and were buying little wheat. No. 1 northern was 1¾@2c over July; No. 2 northern, July price to ½c over. Corn in the sample crowd here was unchanged to ⅜c lower. Country acceptances were moderate. Oats were unchanged to ¼c lower. Sales were 175,000 bu corn and 115,000 bu oats. The seaboard sold 144,000 bu wheat.

Snow's crop report for July 1 showed condition of winter wheat at harvest 87.2, against 86.1 last year. Upon this basis the crop should make 440,000,000 bu, compared with his estimate of 437,000,000 bu last year. Thrashing returns, so far as available, fully justify preharvest expectations. Spring wheat condition declined nearly 6 points during June and now stands at 88.4, against 90.8 last year. Excess of rainfall and some appearance of red rust in the northwest accounts for the decline. If present condition is maintained until harvest a crop of 285,000,000 bu is a reasonable expectation, making the total wheat crop promise practically the same as in 1905. Acreage of corn, 95,872,000 acres, against 94,124,000 last year. Crop condition, 85.6, against 88.4 last year. Oats show a further decline in prospect during June, mainly in Nebraska and Iowa, with the general average on July 1 standing at 82.7, against 86.9 June 1 and 91.8 last year. This would indicate a crop of under 900,000,000 bu, or fully 100,000,000 bu less than last year.

Broomhall's weekly crop summary of foreign crop conditions said: "United kingdom—Average yield is expected. France—Crop outlook unchanged; supplies are scarce. Germany—Some damage has been done by storms, otherwise crop outlook favorable. Hungary—Wheat is maturing well and prospects more generally maintained. Roumania—Full yields expected of variable qualities; arrivals of new wheat expected in about a week. Russia—Harvesting is progressing well in southern belt, and the outlook is generally unchanged. First arrivals of new wheat at Odessa show fine quality. Italy—An official report states that condition of crops is favorable, but believe there is a poor crop in the south. Spain-Denmark-North Africa—Crop outlook favorable."

The government's weekly weather bulletin said: "The week was about normal. Cool in the Rockies and the plateau regions, where frosts occurred in exposed places, and the fore part of the week was unseasonably cool in the upper Missouri and Red River of the North valleys. Elsewhere the temperatures generally above the normal and favorable. The prolonged drought in Texas, Louisiana, and northwestern Missouri has been largely relieved. There is now sufficient moisture for the present needs in all districts east of the Rockies with the exception of southern Florida, Tennessee, and portions of the Ohio valley, and apparently no section is suffering as a result of heavy precipitation. While local storms in places, accompanied by hail, occurred the latter part of the week in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, the lake region, and middle Atlantic states they were not unusually destructive. There was much cloudiness in the gulf districts and in North Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

Lake, Pringle, Barrell, Armour, Kidston, Logan-Bryan, and Comstock were leading operators on the short side of wheat most of the day, with the Northern Grain, O'Brien, Bartlett, Wells, and Wrenn about the best buyers on the break. Heliman was also a good buyer on the break, and Pringle, Rankin, and Cutter took quite a little wheat after selling early. Purchases by O'Brien were the most conspicuous trading. He took a line of about 1,000,000 bu, which was credited to Lichtstern. Trade in corn was mostly local in character. Friedman, Knight-McDougall, and Armour were moderate buyers, with the principal selling by commission houses. Crighton was a fair seller early. Friedman, Northern Grain, Bartlett-Frazier, and Adams-Samuels were the biggest buyers of oats. Nash-Wright and houses wiht country connections were good sellers. Selling of provisions was scattered. Packers bought ribs, shorts the July and September pork.

An Odessa letter to Broomhall's Corn Trade News, under date of June 6, said: "I returned today from a round trip via Akkerman, Bender, Tiraspol, and up to the frontier of Poltava, at Birsula station, and back through Rasdeluaja, and beg to report as follows: 'Three or four weeks ago our people thought that only a little old wheat existed in the south of Russia, but it turns out now that there is still a considerable quantity of wheat, which, in view of the good crop now growing, is being brought forward. On all the railway stations I have seen big lots of wheat loaded in the wagons and being carted to the stations.'"

Bradstreet's report of the available supply last week shows the following changes:

An electrical arrangement for registering fluctuations in the wheat pit was installed yesterday over the main entrance to the exchange floor. It has a clocklike face and will be operated from the marker's stool at the edge of the pit. Similar means for registering fluctuations were in vogue many years ago.

The directors yesterday approved the applications for membership of A. H. Vaughan, J. P. Delaney, E. L. Roy. Armour's provision warehouse "I" was declared regular.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow are: Wheat, 10 cars; corn, 354 cars; oats, 110 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 8 cars; hogs, 30,000.

Charters were for 100,000 bu corn to Buffalo at 1⅜c, and 75,000 bu wheat late Monday at 1½c to Buffalo.

Cables from Russia said exporters were extremely nervous, owing to the political outlook.

Receipts were 1 car here, 14 cars at Minneapolis, and 95 cars at Duluth.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Packers were in control of the hog market at the close, with prices slightly easier than at the opening, one scalper having paid a new high price of $6.92½, which was 7½ cents more than the best hogs had brought at the previous session.

Cattle sold slowly at prices which were about the same as those of the previous day, there being light demand from the shippers and buying for export being feeble. Choice lambs showed gains of about 25 cents, the sale of the lower grade sorts being slow. Receipts of cattle were 5,500.

CHICKENS IN BRISK DEMAND.

Live chickens were in brisk demand at a shade higher prices. Offerings were moderate and there was a lively holiday trade. Berries were in ample supply and, as a rule, quoted lower. Arrivals were comparatively large, and, although there was a fair inquiry concessions had to be made in order to clean up. Northern eggs continued to command the top prices, but there was considerable western and southern stock which met with a slow sale.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SALES BIG

STATEMENT ISSUED SHOWING LARGE NET PROFITS.

Indicates Earnings Equal to More than 28 Per Cent on Issue of Preferred Stock—Illinois Trust and Savings Bank to Put Out 5,000 Shares at Par — Allis-Chalmers Company Preparing a Report—Financial Notes.

Some interest has begun to attach to the stock of the new Sears, Roebuck & Co., of which there is $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred and $30,000,000 common. According to a circular issued by Goldman, Sachs & Co., the sales for 1902 were $16,416,792, while for 1905 the sales were $38,708,526, and for the first five months of 1906 they were $20,322,106.

The net profits for 1905 were $2,868,061, as against $1,215,824 in 1902. The net profits are given as those after all charges. If these figures are altogether trustworthy, then the net profits in 1905 were equal to 28.68 per cent on the 7 per cent preferred stock. On the face of it, that looks exceptionally well.

As to the figures, they are certified to by chartered accountants. It is asserted that the vendors of the property to the New York firm guaranteed a minimum of $10,000,000 in assets over liabilities on July 1, 1906.

The company, according to the charter and bylaws, is to place no mortgage or lien of any kind ahead of the preferred stock without the vote of three-quarters of preferred stock outstanding. The company is not to pay any dividends on its common stock until it shall have accumulated a surplus from earnings of $1,000,000, and shall not pay over 4 per cent dividends per annum upon the common stock until such surplus shall have reached the sum of $2,500,000.

Has 6,000,000 Customers.

It is asserted that the total sales in 1905, amounting to $38,708,526, were effected without the giving of any credit. The business being 'cash before delivery.'"

Some idea of the extent of the firm's transactions may be gained from the statement that the business is distributed among upward of 6,000,000 customers in all parts of the United States, and that the incoming letters averaged for the last year 75,000 a day. The newly completed buildings for handling the merchandise and for administrative purposes cover a large part of thirty-seven acres of land. This does not include any of the various manufacturing concerns in which the New York corporation of Sears, Roebuck & Co. owns a controlling interest. The New York corporation, by the way, is merely the successor to the Illinois corporation having the same name.

So long as the management continues to be the one which has built up this enormous business, it will apepar that a great deal of confidence may be warranted in the preferred stock. But it is not possible to predict what, if any changes, will take place. At the moment market conditions are not favorable to the flotation, but when times are right again the shares may be made active and attractive.

Illinois Trust and Savings.

Directors of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank at a meeting yesterday issued a call for a special meeting of the shareholders to be held Aug. 6. At that time they will be asked to authorize an increase of $500,000 in the capital stock to be issued to shareholders at par. The new stock will probably be put out in October.

The directors also passed from profit and loss account to undivided profits, $100,000. The bank now has $4,000,000 capital, $5,000,000 surplus, and $1,827,000 undivided profits.

As the stock of the bank is selling at $625 a share and the stockholders paid but $100, they will receive value to the amount of $525 clear. The total distribution in this way to the stockholders of the bank will amount to $2,625,000, a nice autumn gift.

The bank has pursued the policy of always issuing its stock at par so that the surplus shown is an earned one. Many of the banks in order to build up their surplus quickly have charged from 200 to 300 for their stock crediting par to capital and the extra to surplus.

Union Pacific Convertibles.

It is reported the management of the Union Pacific railroad company has decided to make no further extension of time for the conversion of its 4 per cent bonds and the common stock. The time limit expired May 1, leaving $880,000 bonds still unconverted, and was extended until July 1, when there was still outstanding $500,000 of the bonds.

Allis-Chalmers.

It is said the statement which the Allis-Chalmers company is preparing for submission to shareholders will show current assets of $11,500,000, consisting of $5,700,000 merchandise, etc., $4,600,000 bills receivable, and $1,200,000 cash. Accounts payable amounted to $1,500,000; bad debts, depreciation, etc., $1,250,000; and $10,500,000 was spent during the last five years on the property. The company has earned $1,300,000 during the last three years, but this year there is a deficit of $300,000, owing to depreciation on buildings and other causes.

It is declared that the orders on hand are now twice as large as in any previous year. The proposed $12,00,000 5 per cent bonds are to be offered to shareholders at 80; they have been underwritten.

Chicago Stocks.

Business was moderately active on the local exchange. Subway held steady around 44½. Diamond Match again displayed weakness, selling down to 118½, but closing ¼ better.

American Can preferred on small transactions also showed weakness, the low price being 52¾. The stock is neglected by inside interests.

Bonds of the Elevated company show no improvement. The attack on the union loop is a disturbing factor. The National Brick people announce that they have retired $20,000 of bonds and that all the plants are being operated.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, July 3.—Money continued cheap and plentiful in the market today and the sums due to the Bank of England were easily paid. Discounts were weak.

Trading on the stock exchange was quiet and irregular. The cheaper monetary conditions failed to stimulate business and quotations sagged. Consols weakened owing to forced liquidation, while home rails were affected by the accident at Salisbury on the Southwestern railroad. Foreigners, with the exception of Russians, which were still weak, brightened on better Paris support.

Americans opened at about parity and gained fractionally during the forenoon, but drooped pending the receipt of the New York opening quotations. Later the market hardened, especially Union Pacific, and prices closed firm at the best quotations of the day. Kaffirs hardened. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 102.

BERLIN, June 3.—Prices on the bourse opened weak and later became firm, especially Russians, on publication of the Russian government's agrarian measure.

PARIS, July 3.—Trading on the bourse today was irregular, but the tone improved slightly. Russian imperial 4s closed at 76.30 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 486.

First—The company has been in successful operation for over 50 years.
Second—Through location, ownership and control of its raw materials, the Company's business is absolutely self-contained.
Third—The Assets of the Company are worth, on the most conservative basis, four and one-half times the total bonded debt.
Fourth—One fixed asset alone (iron ore in sight) has a quick cash value far in excess of the total bonded debt.
Fifth—The rapid reduction of the debt by annual payments steadily increases the margin of security.

Having sold substantial blocks of these bonds to the most discriminating and conservative investors, including banks, insurance companies, trustees and individuals, we offer the unsold portion, approximately $100,000, subject to prior sale, at par and accrued interest. The bonds will be delivered at any bank desired, express prepaid. Telegrams may be sent at our expense.

SKYSCRAPER FOR HARVESTER FIRM.

Mrs. Julia Heyworth to Build a Fourteen Story Structure in Michigan Avenue.

COST WILL BE $1,000,000.

Long Term Lease with Yearly Rental of $100,000 Signed by Officers of Corporation.

A fourteen story building to cost $1,000,000, to be located at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Harrison street, on the property recently leased by Mrs. Julia F. Heyworth, is to become the new home of the International Harvester company.

The deal for a thirty years' lease of the ten upper floors or more to the harvester company was closed yesterday, and while the actual rental was not given out, it was announced that it will be in excess of $100,000 a year, or more than $3,000,000 for the term.

The building, which will cover the entire lot, 77x172 feet, will be of the highest type of fireproof construction and will be named after the harvester company. Architect C. A. Eckstorm is drawing plans for the building, which will be rushed to as speedy completion as possible. There is a probability that it may be carried to a height of fifteen stories, in which event the harvester company will occupy eleven instead of ten floors, with its employés numbering nearly 1,000.

Lower Floor for Stores.

Oliver & Co., who represented the lessor, will have the exclusive agency of the building, and it is planned to rent the store floor to high class retail merchants, and the second, third, and fourth floors to lines kindred to the harvester company. W. D. Kerfoot & Co. represented the company in the transaction, while James O. Heyworth acted for his mother, the lessor.

Independent of the interest which attaches to the final location of the harvester company, the transaction is of notable importance in a real estate and business way, as emphasizing the pronounced tendency of late to break away from the loop district and move further south.

Will Increase Realty Values.

It is thought that the action of such an important concern as the harvester company will materially stimulate this movement and that its effect also will be to give an added advance to values on Michigan avenue.

The harvester company has had several sites under consideration since the lease of its property at Michigan avenue and Monroe street to the University club. These sites have comprised the Blackstone property on Michigan avenue, bought by Otto Young; the Lomax property, bought by the Brooks estate; and the Parmelee property. It also had under consideration a plan to occupy a part of the proposed new building, of the Corn Exchange National bank at the northwest corner of Adams and La Salle streets, but finally decided in favor of the propoeition submitted by the Heyworths.

ASK LIGHT ON ACCIDENTS

PUBLICITY CURE URGED FOR THE TRACTION COMPANIES.

Dr. Doty and Col. Lewis Want Ordinance Compelling Filing with City of Full Reports of Mishaps on Car Lines as Aid to Remedying Evils of Service—D. H. Louderbach Testifies in Consolidated Case on C. T. Yerkes' Deals.

Publicity as a cure for the many street railroad accidents that mark the operation of the Chicago lines is recommended by the city authorities. Following the recent report of Dr. M. F. Doty, Mayor Dunne's traction superintendent, Corporation Counsel Lewis yesterday recommended the passage of an ordinance to compel the companies to report all accidents.

It is the idea of Col. Lewis and Dr. Doty that full particulars be filed with the city transportation bureau, with the names of those injured, the carmen, and witnesses. The police also will keep records and the two will be compared for the sake of accuracy.

By learning the cause of accidents the city hall men believe the faults of poor equipment and bad management can be corrected and lives saved. The prosecution of personal injury suits against the companies also will be simplified. For this latter reason it is expected the companies will oppose the move.

D. H. Louderbach Testifies.

D. H. Louderbach, the old time business ally of Charles T. Yerkes, the promoter of most of what is now the Consolidated Traction company, gave important testimony before Master in Chancery Bishop in the federal court. It was in the suits of the North and West Chicago Street railway companies to have the Consolidated lines declared their property.

The plaintiffs hold that the lines now forming the Consolidated company were built by Yerkes out of their credit and money while he was at their head, but he retained the ownership. It was the $6,500,000 of Consolidated bonds which he took from Chicago with him which formed the basis for the estate he left.

Mr. Louderbach testified that when he built some of the outlying lines he gave Yerkes $100,000 in bonds and $25,000 in stock for the purpose of obtaining a franchise for the new company in Clark street, from Graceland avenue to Dewey court.

Building of North Shore Lines.

Then, as head of the North Shore Electric company, which was making money, he suggested that the North Shore company build these outlying lines to connect with it. Yerkes asked that the stockholders of the north side company be not included in the deal.

"He said he counted on himself and me to arrange that," said Mr. Louderbach.

"Were those roads built by a construction company?" asked Attorney Henry S. Robbins for the plaintiffs.

"Yes, the Garden City Construction company, which I organized at the suggestion of Mr. Yerkes, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. It was a dummy corporation."

"Was Mr. Yerkes beneficially interested?" asked Attorney Robbins.

"I do not know. He was not a stockholder of record. All I know is that when I needed money I went to W. F. Furbeck for Mr. Yerkes and I was given a check signed by Mr. Yerkes personally."

Want Fence at Street End.

Recommendations that a high board fence be built across Monroe street at the river to insure the safety of pedestrians was made by the coroner's jury at the inquest on the body of Michael Moore yesterday. Moore, whose home was in Janesville, Wis., was on his way to the Union depot, and, failing to heed the warning of a watchman, he was drowned.

Mandel Brothers

Clearing sale men's high grade clothes $15

THIS is a semi-annual clearing event which is enthusiastically responded to each season by many of Chicago's best dressed men—men who appreciate a combination of style, perfect tailoring and economy. It's one of the most important sales conducted in our well-equipped men's clothing section, because it embraces much higher priced garments — broken lines — at a fraction of actual value.

Coming just at the time when men are desirous of purchasing mid-summer garments, this opportunity proves especially interesting, as there are many light-weight garments included.

Embraced in the great $15 sale are some of the renowned Mandel Special and Brokaw Brothers' clothes. These garments range in actual value in the regular way from $18, $20, $22, $25, $28 to $30, but being broken lines we have marked them at this very special price. They are in single and double-breasted styles, and the fabrics are of fine worsteds, tweeds in all prevailing shades, also blue serges. Included are outing suits and two-piece suits in large variety. A very rare bargain—cool, comfortable clothing, only $15.

A special offer: In order to quickly dispose of a few regular $5 coats, small sizes only, we have marked them at this low price. Chest measure, 33, 34, 35. A bargain for small men or youths, at 1.50.
